100,000 Israelis Vow To Keep Egyptians Out

Call UN Policy 'Strangulation'

TEL AVIV, Israel (Reuters) — The largest crowd ever assembled in Tel Aviv vowed today never to let Egyptian guns return to the Gulf of Aqaba or allow Egyptian "invaders" to again occupy the Gaza Strip.

An estimated 100,000 Israelis, led by cabinet ministers, approved a resolution supporting their government.

Every mention of United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold's name was booed. Orators demanded his immediate resignation. They blamed the UN for a "strangulation policy."

The resolution protested against "attempts made in the UN to strike a blow at Israel's security."

OPPOSE RETURN

It added: "We declare our opposition to any attempt to bring back to the Gaza Strip the Egyptian invaders . . . for the purpose of sowing death and destruction in our peaceful villages.

"We declare our unremitting opposition to any attempt to bring back to the Gulf of Aqaba Egyptian guns which were used to block free navigation.

"We demand demilitarization of the Sinai peninsula and the opening of the Suez Canal to Israel shipping."

WON'T WEAKEN

The meeting vowed "no political or economic pressure, no threat of sanctions, will break our spirit or weaken our determination."

The crowd was backing up Israel's announcement Friday that it will not withdraw further from Egyptian territory without guarantees.

Similar demonstrations were held in the Israeli sector of Jerusalem, Haifa and other Israeli towns.

SANCTIONS ASKED

At UN headquarters in New York, the Afro-Asian bloc was reported preparing a resolution calling for sanctions against Israel because of her refusal to withdraw from Egyptian soil.

Brig.-Gen. Yigal Alon, a leader of the leftist Achduth Haavoda party, drew the wildest cheers when he declared:

MILD WEEKEND FORECAST; SUN SUNDAY

A "nice, mild" weekend for Victoria was predicted today by weatherman Bill Mackie.

Low tonight will be 36 degrees and high Sunday, 40 degrees.

A weather disturbance approaching "fairly rapidly" from the northern Pacific will bring increased cloudiness tonight with rain beginning early Sunday, Mr. Mackie said.

Sunday afternoon is expected to be clear and sunny.

'FIRED' CLERK CASE

'Issue Bigger Than the Job' —Monteith

W. Berkeley Monteith, "fired" law clerk of the legislature, today denied there was any "hidden reason" behind his dismissal other than those he revealed to the Times Friday.

He refused a challenge from Premier Bennett that he would reveal a "very definite reason" for the firing if Mr. Monteith asked him to do so.

Friday Mr. Monteith said reasons for his dismissal were refusal to contribute to a Social Credit candidates' campaign funds, and a clash with Premier Bennett on a procedural issue.

"I am not concerned with a petty personal grievance," he said today. "I don't give a damn about the job; I couldn't care less.

"The major charge I make is that Premier Bennett has tampered with the constitution of this province and the prerogatives of parliament.

"His 'challenge' is nothing but a red herring across the trail of the real issue.

"The issue is bigger than the job," he emphasized.

"When he talks about a 'very definite reason' for firing me, I don't know and don't care what he means. I know there was no such reason."

He said he had no intention of asking the premier for the reason for his dismissal.

Alan Bigelow, city lawyer named by Mr. Monteith Friday as the person who solicited campaign funds, said in a prepared statement:

"Certainly, I laughingly suggested to Berkeley in the course of the last campaign that he might support our Oak Bay campaign.

"He declined, saying that he was an officer of the legislature, which to me was a perfectly proper reason, though he needed to give none, and I had forgotten about the whole incident until the matter was raised by him."

'I Can't Give Reason'—Mr. Speaker

Thomas Irwin, speaker of the legislature, told The Times today: "Obviously I can't give the reason for Mr. Monteith's dismissal when the premier himself has withheld it, until and unless he is asked by Mr. Monteith to make a public statement."

Friday Premier Bennett answered Mr. Monteith's charges, published in The Times, by challenging him to "ask for" the real reason for his dismissal.

He said Mr. Monteith has been dismissed for a "very definite reason."

"If Mr. Monteith wishes me to make known the reason, he should advise me." He suggested a letter.

"Mr. Monteith was certainly not released from his position because of a refusal to give campaign funds," the premier told reporters.

"I say most emphatically that was not the reason," Mr. Bennett added.

Mr. Monteith was replaced by city lawyer Ian Thorne as legislature law clerk at the opening of the session Thursday.

DISPUTED ORDER

Mr. Monteith disputed the cabinet order firing him last month and attended the opening in the robes of his office, sitting in a back row beside Mr. Thorne.

He stalked out of the chamber after a resolution ratifying his dismissal was passed by the legislature.

Opposition members voted against the resolution but there was no discussion as there had been on a previous resolution dealing with appointment of a new sergeant-at-arms.

Premier Bennett insisted that "personalities" were not involved in Mr. Monteith's dismissal.

He denied that he was ever in a dispute with the law clerk over constitutional procedure.

Mr. Monteith claimed the disagreement occured at the special fall session of the legislature in 1953 over the government's handling of estimates.

Premier Bennett emphasized that the "reason" for Mr. Monteith's dismissal was "greater than a cause."

'BAN DRUNK DRIVERS'

$33 For a Life Too Cheap—MLA

In a plea for tougher penalties for traffic violators, a legislature member said Friday a B.C. magistrate had recently set the price of human life on our highways at "approximately $33."

Mrs. Buda Brown, new Social Credit member for Vancouver-Point Grey, cited an accident in which a drunken driver killed a father and his two children and left the young mother injured.

The driver was given a suspended jail sentence and fined $100.

Mrs. Brown urged that drunk drivers be banned from the road.

"It is better to hurt traffic law breakers than to allow them to hurt innocent people," she said.

"Much stiffer fines should be imposed to stop the reckless driver who is often as much a menace to society as the criminal."

There is "very little difference" between the drinking driver and the drunk driver," Mrs. Brown said.

Mrs. Brown, considered the leading candidate for the new cabinet post of recreation and conservation, also called in her maiden speech for increased development of parks in B.C.

Mrs. Brown said she was not recommending extravagant or elaborate facilities in parks but asked:

"May we have more access roads, trails, picnic facilities, and in the larger parks more lodges and cabins."

"There is not much point in building a prosperous and populous province if we do not make outdoor recreational facilities available for all our people," she said.

The new government member for Vancouver-Point Grey, wife of former MLA Don Brown, was chosen to second the reply to the speech from the throne.

Mounting Discord in Commons Could Force Election in May

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Corespondent

OTTAWA — Possibility of a May general election was being mentioned in the corridors on Parliament Hill at the close of this week, a week that has seen disorder and discord mount in the Commons.

The date that some members are circling on their calendars is May 27, a Monday.

If the temper of the House continues to deteriorate — and Mr. Speaker Rene Beaudoin has difficulty in maintaining some dignity within the chamber — Prime Minister St. Laurent may decide not to wait until June for the general election.

The election-conscious Commons this week witnessed displays of bad temper, frayed nerves and the use of expressions which in other sessions would have resulted in Mr. Speaker expelling one or more members.

Even though the prime minister protested some Opposition remarks, Mr. Speaker has declined to single out any member or party as being in the wrong.

The debate Friday on the bill to extend the wheat board for another five years until July 31, 1962, aroused much wrangling, particularly between the CCF and Social Credit members.

Here are some samples of the exchanges:

Solon Low, Social Credit leader (after an interjection by the CCF): "When you begin to tie a tin can to these brainjackasses' tails, they can make a lot of noise."

HOWE BORED

Henry Hosking, Liberal, Wellington South, objecting to the long speeches critical of certain wheat board operations emanating from the CCF benches, took exception to the "complaining, snivelling and whining by the Socialist members."

Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe, denying he was nervous during the wheat board debate, said he was "not nervous, just bored."

"Parliament always bores the minister," retorted Stanley Knowles (CCF-Winnipeg North Centre).

Mr. Howe (objecting to statements made by Claude Ellis (CCF-Regina City): "I do not mind a loud voice covering an empty mind, but I think there should be some respect for the debate we are having."

"Rude remarks did not compensate for lack of logic or reasonable argument," shot back Mr. Ellis.

E. G. McCullough, trying to ask Mr. Howe a question, drew the retort: "No, I don't want to be interrupted. Sit down."

DIEFENBAKER REVEALS TORY POLICY MONDAY

By VICTOR J. MACKIE

OTTAWA — The Progressive Conservative party is expected to unveil in the Commons Monday the first of its major planks in its platform for the coming general election, when Opposition leader John Diefenbaker will open the debate on a motion to "go into supply."

During a normal session 12 days are given over to this debate. This permits the airing of major grievances, and the Conservatives will have the first opportunity.

Reports circulating on Parliament Hill today were that Mr. Diefenbaker would take the opportunity to outline one of the main lines of attack that his party will launch against the administration during the coming election campaign.

Manchester U. Smothers Arsenal 6-2

LONDON (Reuters)—League leading Manchester United today launched a savage second half attack to score a 6-2 victory over Arsenal, the hottest team in the English soccer league.

Manchester overcame an early lead to whip the London club. Arsenal had lost only one of its last 14 games to shoot from nowhere to third in the league standings.

By winning Manchester moved a step closer to accomplishing a unique triple — victories in the league championship and the English and European cup championships.

Tottenham Hotspurs stayed within four points of Manchester by beating Sunderland 5-2. The Spurs have yet to lose at home this year.

THE WINNING HAND WALKED IN AND OUT

EDMONTON (CP) — The Friday night poker game was moving along nicely. Stakes were running high. Then the little man walked in.

He stepped confidently into the hotel room, and before seven astonished men completing a round of stud scooped up all visible cash from the table and ran out. Police were given his description but said today they had not found him.

The loot totalled $4,200.

In a coma for 51 days after being knocked from his bicycle when struck by a car, 13-year-old Bruce Harrington of Vancouver said: "Oh boy, Oh boy," upon awakening and finding his nurse holding a toy dump truck. However, there was tragedy on the other side of curtain in Bruce's room. There Pat Kowalski, 15, still was unconscious, as she has been for 145 days.

IN THE LEGISLATURE

Women MLAs Get Big Welcome

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Two new women members who have changed places with their husbands in the Legislature were feted with flowers, smiles and vigorous desk-thumping when the House got down to business Friday after the pageantry of Thursday's opening ceremonies.

Mrs. Buda Brown, Social Credit member for Vancouver Point Grey, used to watch proceedings from the public galleries while her husband, Conservative Don Brown, sat as MLA in the Coalition government.

Cribbens

Mrs. Lois Haggen, quiet-spoken CCF member from Grand Forks-Greenwood, also watched from above when her husband, Rupert Haggen, represented this same constituency for the CCF.

Mr. Haggen, first elected to the Legislature in 1949, did not seek the nomination in the election last September because of ill health. He suffered a stroke and has been confined to a wheelchair the last few years.

The House was one big smile as the two women took their places at desks piled high with roses, tulips and daffodils. CCF leader Robert Strachan bowed and smiled to Mrs. Haggen; and Premier Bennett had a nod and a grin for Mrs. Brown, who sits next to Agriculture Minister Ralph Chetwynd and the rest of the cabinet.

Two-Minute Ovation for Mrs. Brown

The spotlight at this second sitting of the House centred mainly on Mrs. Brown since she was making her maiden speech in seconding a motion in support of the Throne Speech. Government members leaned forward in their chairs, the Opposition registered polite interest and the chamber thundered with desk-thumpings for nearly two whole minutes.

Distinctly feminine with dark blue dress and pearl necklace offsetting her fair waving hair, Mrs. Brown spoke without any evident nervousness in a clear, rather high-pitched voice, and made her points succinctly in a speech which had obviously been carefully prepared.

However, she is no newcomer to public life and has a natural poise acquired during many years on parks boards in Vancouver and other municipal bodies. Her enthusiasm for British Columbia's natural beauties was revealed in her repeated endorsation of the government's new ministry of conservation and recreaton, and she is an equally vehement advocate of youth welfare programs to combat juvenile delinquency.

It was noted that Mrs. Brown is considered a likely candidate for the new cabinet position of minister of recreation and conservation, as is tall, bespectacled Dan Campbell, who was making his debut as a legislative speaker. Mr. Campbell carried the Socred banner to victory for Comox in the last election. A Courtenay school teacher, he has a quiet conversational mode of speech and knows how to turn a graceful phrase.

Urging support of the government's conservation and recreation program, he quoted Wordworth's lovely lines: "I wandered lonely as a cloud, that floats on high o'ver vales and hills," and adroitly applied them to man's quest for peace in natural surroundings.

He expressed enthusiasm for development of the north end of Vancouver Island, called for long-term low-interest loans to municipalities, attacked the federal government's "tight money" policies and made the somewhat alarming statement that these policies might ultimately lead to the death of freedom and the emergence of "Big Brother."

Just who Mr. Campbell had in mind for the role of "Big Brother" he did not say, but he was obviously referring to the despotic dictator created by George Orwell in his frightening novel of the future, "Nineteen Eighty-Four."

TB Pavilion Here To Close in March

About 15 TB patients will be transferred to mainland sanitariums when the TB Pavilion at Royal Jubilee Hospital closes at the end of March.

The pavilion is no longer needed, Dr. R. M. Lane, director of the Vancouver Island Chest Centre, said Friday night.

Facilities of the 43-bed unit, rented by the provincial government since 1935, will be turned over to the Royal Jubilee Hospital, and personnel, mainly on Jubilee Hospital staff, will take over other duties.

Of 22 tuberculosis patients at the centre, about seven will be returned to their homes and the others will be sent to Vancouver or the sanitarium at Tranquille, near Kamloops, Dr. Lane said.

Decline in incidence of the disease and a definite decrease in the length of hospital treatment per patient in B.C. are responsible for the number of beds available at the two sanitariums, he said.

LESS NEED

Although out-patient and clinic work will continue here, Dr. Lane predicted the need would be "less and less" as time goes on.

"In another 10 years there won't be much to do here," he said.

Space made available by the pavilion closure will not ease overcrowding appreciably in the opinion of F. G. Mulliner, chairman of the hospital board.

"We should start now on the new extension," he said. "How we finance it should be secondary. The needs of the community which is growing by 5,000 a year should come first."

More Negotiating On Alberni Zoo

City council Friday authorized Ald. Geoffrey I. Edgelow to continue negotiations for establishment here of the Port Alberni zoo owned by Paul Hertel.

Ald. Edgelow showed council pictures of himself in a cage with African lions at the zoo, and of a cougar posed in the front seat of his car while he sat in the rear seat.

Mr. Hertel would require about $10,000 to move his zoo here and would put up security for a city loan.

If he came here he would locate in Thetis Lake Park, provided the city granted permission and either a loan was available from the city or a local zoological society could be formed to handle financing.

Bingo 'Take' $429,387 For 3 Years

By The Canadian Press

VANCOUVER — Roy Bell, chartered accountant, testified in police court today a Vancouver club's gross take from its bingo tables during a three-year period was $429,387.

Bell was giving evidence of his examination of the books of the Arcade Whist Club. The club and five of its officers and employees are charged with keeping a gaming house.

The accountant said the club's books showed that between June 1, 1953, and June 20, 1956, prizes recorded were $317,446, leaving $111,940 profit.

Charges have been brought against the club, George W. and Elizabeth Cranham, William Jacobs, George Mellish and Carl Rosen.

Bell also said the records showed that between Jan. 1, 1951, and last June 30, Cranham's income from the company was $87,800 and his wife's $30,400.

U.S. Urges Nasser Lessen Demands

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The United States is trying to learn whether Egypt's President Nasser would agree to make a conciliatory policy statement which might help to get Israeli troops out of his country.

Informed sources said Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. and other members of the American UN delegation have been sounding out Egyptian diplomats. A U.S. source acknowledged that Lodge has been in touch with the Egyptians in the last few days, but declined to disclose details.

These moves were reported as Arab delegates urged punitive measures against Israel because of her refusal to withdraw from the Sharm El Sheikh area of Egypt and the Gaza Strip.

Many western delegates believe a mild-toned, solution-seeking statement by Nasser might persuade Israel to ease her stand against withdrawal. The U.S. is reported to have suggested to Egypt's delegation that such a move by Nasser would increase his stature and enhance Egypt's prestige in the West.

DEMAND ASSURANCE

Egypt's refusal to make any commitment or even suggest her future intentions regarding the Israelis has been one of Israel's main arguing points. In refusing to withdraw from Egypt or the Gaza Strip the Israelis have stood firm on one demand — assurance of non-belligerence from Egypt.

Walter Eytan, director general of Israel's foreign ministry, again told reporters in Tel Aviv that Israel will not quit Sharm El Sheikh at the mouth of the Gulf of Aqaba until she is guaranteed that Egypt will not impair Israeli shipping interests.

Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban Friday gave President Eisenhower Israel's reasons for not pulling out of Egypt and Gaza. Informants said it was a prelude to delivery of a reply from Premier David Ben-Gurion to Eisenhower's appeal that Israel comply with repeated UN withdrawal requests.

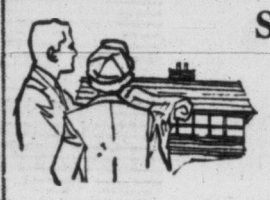
The Canada Permanent Story in 1956...
COMBINED ASSETS $288,164,545

Serving more people than ever before



C. S. Robertson, President and General Manager, in presenting the 102nd Annual Report, stated in part:

In 1956 our net profits, after taxes, reached an all time high of $1,873,146 and total assets rose above $150,000,000 for the first time. Our mortgage investments are relatively liquid in character, as evidenced by the fact that during 1956 principal repayments amounted to $20,317,532. The net increase of $16,471,636 in the total of our investments in mortgages by the end of the year was achieved as the result of the making of new loans for an aggregate of more than $36,750,000. The people of Canada need loans on single family dwellings most of all, and such loans are the mainstay of our business.

It is interesting to look back a few years and to note that we are now investing three times as much in mortgages as we did in 1946. At that time the average new loan was about $6,000. Exemplifying the conservative nature of our mortgage investments, which is due partly to caution in valuations and partly to the sound practice of requiring regular principal repayments, is the interesting fact that the average loan on our books is only $5,165.

Debentures and Savings Deposits showed an increase of over $2,500,000. It appears that more people are discovering that the Canada Permanent is a sensible place in which to save.

There are two pressing problems in our economy today. One is debt and the other is inflation. A certain amount of debt enables an individual to obtain a house and household goods before he has accumulated sufficient savings to pay for them. An undue amount of debt burdens the individual with payments of such size that he is lucky indeed ever to escape from their burden. During the past year and a half an attempt has been made by those in control of our monetary policy to restrict the growth of debt on the theory that too many individuals were getting too deeply involved for the public good.

It seems to me that two of the soundest methods of controlling inflation are encouragement of savings and encouragement of home ownership. But it is not enough for a few people to exercise thrift: the Government should give encouragement by precept as well as leadership by example, for one of the most important factors in the battle against inflation is psychology. If everbody expects prices to go up, nothing can stop them. On the other hand, if we are conscious of the need of saving for what we buy, there will be a relaxation of the pressure on prices, which will tend to slow down the rate of inflation.

As individuals, therefore, we can all contribute to the necessary stabilizing of our economy by postponing purchases and by encouraging savings.

CANADA PERMANENT
MORTGAGE CORPORATION

Growth shows value of Trust Services

Hon. T. D'Arcy Leonard, Q.C., President, in presenting the 44th Annual Report, stated in part:

The Directors' Report and Financial Statement reflect the most successful year in the Company's history. The ever-widening ambit of our business shows that we are performing a useful, efficient service to a constantly enlarging section of the public.

Canada's continuing expansion throughout 1956 has resulted in new records in national production, foreign trade, employment and other indices of economic activity. The capital investment programme in 1956 contributed substantially to the demand for goods and services, and to the pressure upon the amount of money available for investment. In the result, we have seen a marked rise in interest rates, tending to reduce inflation pressures, and to extend our capital investment programme over a longer period at a more even pace. They are welcome, also, to the beneficiaries of income from trusts and estates who have had a prolonged spell of low interest rates, combined with higher costs of living.

One of the factors that can contribute greatly to our future expansion is immigration. The increase in our national production visualized by the Gordon Report is predicated upon a net immigration varying between a minimum of 50,000 and a maximum of 100,000 persons per annum. I would hope that even the maximum figure would be exceeded. The future that I see for Canada offers advantages to all those willing to come here and contribute their energies and talents to our development.

W. Leo Knowlton, Q.C., General Manager, stated in part:

Assets under administration by the Company for estates, trusts and agencies now total $134,400,000, a net growth of $13,400,000, the largest in any year in the Company's history.

These figures speak well for the efficiency and quality of the work performed by the Company. To deal with estate and trust assets effectively requires experience, training and sound business judgment. Yet, over and above these essentials, we take just as much pride in the reputation we have gained for friendly, personal service. We have always felt that a trust company's relationship with beneficiaries demands a warmth and intimate understanding of individual problems.

It is expected that the Government of Canada will be introducing a new Succession Duty Act. It is to be hoped that consideration will be given to raising the basic value of estates exempt from duty from the present $50,000. The purchasing value of the dollar has decreased since this exemption was first introduced and recognition should be given to this fact.

Charges Nanaimo CCFer 'Scandalous Land Deal'

(From Times News Services)

The House gave second reading to a bill whereby the Canadian Pacific Railway would take over a group of wholly owned subsidiary railway companies.

The bill now goes to a committee for detailed discussion.

Colin Cameron (CCF, Nanaimo) said it is "significant" that Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railway Co., operating on Vancouver Island, is not on the list.

"This railway was built in one of the most scandalous land deals in the history of Canada."

If the CPR wanted parliament's assistance in putting its affairs in order it should be prepared to take over that railway and repair damage done to the people of British Columbia, to whom it had cost $50,000,000 in lost timber royalties and taxes.

George McIlraith (L-Ottawa West) said the CPR at one time had 36 or 37 wholly owned subsidiaries and is in the process of absorbing them into its system. Maintaining them as separate entities necessitated additional administrative costs and the inconvenience of holding annual meetings for each.

The subsidiary companies included in the bill are B.C. Southern Railway Co., Columbia and Western Railway Co., Kaslo and Slocan Railway Co., Kootenay and Arrowhead Railway Co., Nakusp and Slocan Railway Co., Nicola, Kamloops and Similkameen Coal and Railway Co., Shuswap and Okanagan Railway Co., Alberta Central Railway Co., Great North-West Central Railway Co., Manitoba South-Western Colonization Railway Co., Alberta Railway and Irrigation Co. and Lacombe and North-Western Railway Co.

Thirteen had been taken over last year, more were before parliament and it was hoped the remainder would be ready for similar action next year Mr. McIlraith said. Among them was the company referred to by Mr. Cameron.

Final approval was given to a five-year extension to 1962 of the Canadian wheat board's compulsory powers in the marketing of Prairie wheat, oats and barley.

But before the bill was passed Opposition Leader Diefenbaker got in a new dig at Trade Minister Howe on the subject of last year's bitter pipeline debate.

The CCF, backed by other opposition parties, had proposed three amendments all aimed at making the board's powers permanent. The Liberal majority defeated each amendment.

Mr. Howe, arguing for a five-year renewal, said the act invokes compulsion on ordinary citizens, requiring them to market the three grains through the board.

"I think that any legislation that puts compulsion on a great number of people should be reviewed periodically," he said.

Diefenbaker Takes Dig at Howe

Mr. Diefenbaker said that last session Mr. Howe used Parliament as his "puppet" in forcing through the government's gas pipeline legislation. Then he added:

"This is a great day, when the minister of trade and commerce parades for fundamental freedoms and human rights."

The petition to the Queen from Alberta Indians protesting alleged loss of treaty rights will not be forwarded to London by the Canadian government.

This word was given by Citizenship Minister Pickersgill. Opposition Leader Diefenbaker immediately charged that the minister's refusal to let the petition reach the Queen appeared to be "a monstrous perversion of his rights."

Mr. Pickersgill said he had been advised by F. P. Varcoe, deputy justice minister, that he is not required to take "any action in respect of the matters petitioned for."

The petition from the Indian Association of Alberta, dealing with the 1951 Indian Act revision, set out precisely the same arguments advanced on previous occasions, Mr. Pickersgill said. He planned to reply to the association's solicitor himself.

The government's proposal to divide the present National Museum of Canada into two separate museums has run into Progressive Conservative criticism.

Douglas Harkness (PC-Calgary North) said it appeared the only result would be to duplicate existing staff and increase administrative expense.

Resources Minister Lesage introduced a resolution preliminary to legislation to split the present museum in the capital. Names of the two new bodies would be the Canadian Museum of Natural History and the Canadian Museum of Human History.

The first would include geology, botany and zoology; the second, archaeology, anthropology and ethnology.

U.S. Orders Grand Jury Oil Probe

Price Gouging Complaints Aired

WASHINGTON (AP) — The justice department stepped into the controversy over higher oil and gasoline prices Friday, obtaining an order for a grand jury investigation of the industry.

U.S. Judge Albert V. Bryan, sitting in nearby Alexandria, Va., directed that a special grand jury be convened there March 4.

He acted on motion of lawyers for the justice department's anti-trust division, who asked for an inquiry covering individuals and companies engaged in "the production, refining and sale of oil."

Assistant attorney-general Victor R. Hansen, in charge of the anti-trust division, said the government has no control over oil prices themselves but is concerned with the possibility of an agreement within the industry to raise prices concertedly.

PRICES HIKED

Crude oil prices were boosted 35 cents a barrel last month, while the retail price of gasoline and fuel oil went up one cent a gallon in many places.

Complaints of price gouging by the oil interests already have been aired in Congress. There has been special criticism of increased gasoline prices at a time when domestic gasoline stocks are said to be at an all-time high.

QUESTION: "Why aren't the Victoria Cougars drawing more fans?"

Bill Pistell, general contractor, 1370 Lyall: "Victoria always likes a winning team. The fans will come back when the Cougars start winning again. I haven't stopped going to the games but I've cut it down. I just go Fridays now."

Pistell Coutts

Wally Coutts, truck oil salesman, 3128 Glasgow: "The public is just too cheap to turn out and the people aren't good enough sports to give the Cougars some support when they're down. If the fans came out the Cougars might win more games."

Savage Pearson

W. G. Savage, bus driver, 2638 Deville: "I think television is to blame. I stay home a lot to watch a program when otherwise I might have gone to a hockey game. Victoria used to be hockey-minded, but the interest seems to have fallen off lately."

Sue Pearson, 1246 Cordova Bay Road: "If they could figure out a way to keep my feet warm, I'd go more often. I like hockey but I never seem to get around to attending many games."

Bill Heward, clerk, 895 Heywood: There's not enough advertising for the games. I don't think. Victoria just doesn't seem to have enough spirit for sports of any kind."

Heward Collison

Myrna Collison, 1983 Carnarvon: "I don't know. I go to all the games. I'd certainly like to see more fans there because it really boosts the team's morale. They could win if the fans were behind them."

Boom Town Conditions Blamed for VD Rise

Provincial health officials are concerned about an increase in venereal disease incidence, particularly among young people.

Dr. A. A. Larsen, director of the venereal diseases control division, blames "boom-town conditions" in many areas of the province.

"A factor of the increase that is causing concern is the growing number of young people in their mid and late-teens who are getting to our clinics with infection," Dr. Larsen stated in a public health services report tabled in the Legislature on Thursday.

The increase in the disease is general throughout North America, the report said.

PALACE DENIAL LIMITED TO THOSE WHO ASK

'Royal Rift Rumor Rocks World'. Says Aussie Paper; U.K. Silent

LONDON (AP) — London newspapers didn't say a word today about rumors printed in the United States of a rift between the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh. They also ignored a Buckingham Palace statement terming the rumors "quite untrue."

For two years and more there have been rumors in some London circles of discord in the royal household. None of the talk has been supported by evidence of any sort.

A London-dated story in the Baltimore Sun Friday said society was "talking openly of a rift" between the 31-year-old Queen and her 37-year-old husband. It said the gossip now is "percolating down to the British masses."

Inquiries brought a denial from Cmdr. Richard Colville, press secretary at the palace. But the denial was given only to those who asked.

In Sydney, Australia, the tabloid Daily Mirror today gave over its entire front page to a story headlined "Royal Rift Rumor Rocks the World."

The paper quoted The Sun's account extensively. It said, "Britain, Europe and the United States were flooded with reports last night that there is a serious rift in the Queen's marriage. So seriously are the rumors regarded that Buckingham Palace took the usual course of issuing a denial."

New Mystery Death Case Stirs Britain

BLANDFORD, Eng. (AP) — A woman welfare officer charged with receiving stolen property was released on bail Friday in an investigation of deaths in an old folks home which has stirred this market town.

Miss Phillippa Margaret Gaye, 40, was released after her lawyer told a magistrates court:

"As a result of certain press articles there is an innuendo that my client may be associated in some much more vile crimes in this country . . . I submit that if she is released on bail it may possibly scotch these rumors."

The rumors stemmed from an investigation into the deaths of seven elderly men and women at the local old folks' home.

The woman had been charged with receiving stolen toilet articles from Miss Elinor Joy Kimpton, 43-year-old former hostess at the home. Both women were arrested in the seaside resort of Eastbourne three days ago.

Forcing the Issue

THE WEEK DRAWS TO A close in the United Nations with Israel still holding on to two portions of Egyptian territory: Sharm el Sheikh, a point at the entrance to the Gulf of Aqaba which Egypt had fortified to prevent Israeli shipping from proceeding to Israeli territory at the head of the gulf; and the controversial Gaza strip on the Mediterranean coast.

Israel has signified willingness to withdraw from the occupied territory, but only on certain conditions, including security from further Egyptian raids and free access to Aqaba waters.

The United Nations, however, in general holds that its withdrawal order must be obeyed before further steps are taken to settle the basic problems. Israel wants assurance before it gives up its military advantage.

The United Nations last week passed two United States resolutions which would achieve the desired results if, as Mr. Pearson has said, the somewhat vague wording is "interpreted correctly." Canada and a number of other countries want the U.N.'s goals to be attained through use of the emergency force which now separates the Israeli and Egyptian forces. This, it is felt, will not only assure a settlement of the problem but will also enable the United Nations to retain control of the situation and establish the force as a recognized agency for coping with such crises.

But a new and dangerous element has entered the picture. In an effort to speed Israel's evacuation, the Arab states are calling for the U.N. to apply sanctions against the republic if its troops are not immediately called home.

The support of the Afro-Asian bloc has been enlisted, comprising one-third of the General Assembly's 80 members, and although the bloc may not be solid on this question there is no doubt that a resolution to impose sanctions would stand a fair chance of being passed. It has even been suggested that Israel be expelled from the U.N. if the order is not carried out.

The Afro-Asian bloc has called for a favorable report from Secretary General Hammarskjold early next week, failing which the sanctions resolution will be presented.

Such a resolution would throw into greater turmoil an Assembly already badly split on the major issues, and lose sight, in another secondary squabble, of the main problem of a general Middle East settlement.

In addition it would impose major dilemmas on some of the western powers. The United States, for instance, provides large-scale economic aid to Israel. This presumably would have to be cut off if the resolution were passed. Compliance with the resolution would strengthen President Nasser's hand enormously—perhaps make complete his avowed plan to destroy Israel. Refusal, on the other hand, would place the United States in the position of defying the U.N.—a reversal of policy which at the moment is unthinkable.

The fact is that in all probability the sanctions could not be made effective. Circuitous means could easily be found to continue economic aid to Israel through the medium of intermediary countries. Even military aid would not necessarily be choked off.

But the resulting situation would damage the United Nations. It would also render even more difficult a settlement of, first, the current Israeli-Egyptian military question, second, the issue of the Suez canal, pushed into the background in recent weeks but growing increasingly acute, and third, the fundamental problem of Middle East security.

The hope is that a crisis in the matter of sanctions may be avoided by the early discovery of a formula that will satisfy both Israel and Egypt. The danger is that Arab impatience—and perhaps Arab opportunity to damage Israel—will precipitate action in the Assembly.

As Mr. Pearson said last week, in regard to another matter—the need for the emergency force to continue supervision of an Egyptian settlement—"Our failure will extend far beyond this particular situation and will weaken, perhaps even destroy, the value of this Assembly for the supervision of the peace."

The next few days will tell the story.

Mr. Hugh Savage

THROUGHOUT THE NEWSpaper profession in this part of Canada, among the people of the community he served so well and to countless British Columbians, the death of Mr. Hugh Savage brings widespread sorrow.

It had been hoped that the man who was the Cowichan Leader for so many years—and an ornament of Canadian journalism—would live to enjoy the leisurely pursuits of a well-earned retirement. These were denied him by the suddenness of his passing. Yet, to a man who had lived so full and useful a life, that might have been the way he wished to leave.

His epitaph is written in many of the better developments of the region to which he was devoted and in the hearts of un-numbered friends. To them his example of honesty, friendliness, quiet good humor, a passion for what he considered right and stout defence of principles will remain an abiding memory.

Some Good Advice

MR. DONALD GORDON, THE genial and able president of Canadian National Railways, had some quiet words of advice to offer directors of Victoria Chamber of Commerce at an informal luncheon in his honor here Friday.

Speaking "off the cuff," Mr. Gordon said:

"I hope you won't think me presumptuous if I express a few opinions about this part of the country.

"All across Canada there has been tremendous growth and change, and it is reflected in the surging development of British Columbia.

"I cannot help but feel, however, that this is a rather special part of Canada. It has a unique flavor, all its own.

"I ask you to be wary of bigness, as a desirable end in itself. Unrestricted growth does not necessarily mean improvement.

"You might even be a little bit selfish about the things you have here. Think carefully as you plan your development. It would be tragic if, in growing and expanding, you destroyed the very things that make this part of the country so attractive."

To which many citizens—as well as Chamber of Commerce directors—will utter a fervent "Amen." Mr. Gordon's advice is always worth mature reflection.

As Our Readers See It

Whose Child?

I would have thought that it would be obvious that the people most responsible for juvenile delinquency are the people who brought the particular juveniles into the world in the first place—the parents.

We are required by law to show that we are fit and responsible to drive a car, and we are made to take out insurance against any damage we may do to other persons or their property with our car. But parents can bring unlimited numbers of offspring into the world and apparently are not responsible for any injury they do to other persons or damage to their property.

Just look at today's Help Wanted columns: "Baby-sitter wanted, capable of taking charge of four month old baby." "Will care for pre-school children in my home" and so on. Sure, have the children and then turn them over to someone else while you go out and make the money to buy the TV set or the new car.

While working in a doctor's office in another city I made an appointment for a young woman who said that she needed a certificate from the doctor saying that she was fit for work. Her baby was six weeks old and her employer would not take her back without such a certificate. I was rather horrified and asked her if she really had to go back to work so soon after the birth of her baby. No, it wasn't necessary, but her aunt could look after the baby and she didn't want to stay home.

So the mothers work and the juvenile delinquency increases and who gets the blame? The schools, the teachers, the police, anyone but the parents.

'STAY AT HOME'

Zoo? Pooh

I trust the proposed establishment of a zoo in this vicinity will call forth protest not only from animal lovers, but from property owners as well.

A detailed and careful study of the matter should result in a negative decision, as quite apart from taking away the freedom of the creatures involved there is the cost to consider. A zoo is a most exacting and costly undertaking, calling for qualified supervision twenty-four hours per day. Should expert care not be provided, noise, stench and all the other things that go with it, would prove a nuisance in the district and property would deteriorate in value.

I do not see that we can hope to emulate the perfection of Whipsnade, and considering the sad fate of our little martyr Ursus Kermodi, who had hardly room to turn about in during many weary years, I cannot feel hopeful. Neither do I see that any local zoo could prove of interest to tourists—especially the Americans, who already have large and well-cared for establishments in their own country.

Morally, I believe zoos to be wrong, and on that score I protest. As a taxpayer too, I protest, foreseeing a great outpouring of money.

Cut Defence Spending

Canada should follow the example of England, reduce expenditures on defence, thus lessen our heavy load of taxes.

Why should we spend more, far more in proportion to our income, than European countries such as Italy, Western Germany, Norway and Belgium and even more than France?

British military expert Captain Liddell Hart urged England to cut her defence spending by 50 per cent; rely entirely on nuclear weapons.

We in Canada are over-insured. Besides all our army, navy and air force we pay for the so-called civil defence outfit. The Red Cross of course we must support.

'Poor Who Help the Poor'

Once again we have been given a wonderful concert by the Symphony orchestra under the skilful baton of Mr. Gruber, but we were told during the interval that unless funds are available, it will be impossible to carry on their program of improvement.

As the ancient saying has it, "It is the poor who help the poor." I therefore appeal to my fellow old age pensioners to join me in giving one month's pension to the Victoria Symphony Society, 1318 Broad Street. There are some who can only just get along with this pension, but there must be a great number who although hard-up like myself, could just spare one month's pension to help our symphony which has been built up into a cultural effort of which any city might well be proud.

Of course some people could well afford to contribute their cheque each month and it is hoped that they will be generous enough to do so.

The Marching Army of Aspirant Authors

Written for The Victoria Daily Times by Gerard Fay, London Editor of The Manchester Guardian

I HAVE just returned from Ireland, and I found that country more than usually distressful because to its heavy economic woes have been added many other problems caused by a new outbreak of extremist action by the Irish Republican Army and other illegal organizations. But that gloomy story has been told enough and I don't propose to go into it beyond saying that anybody who thinks that the situation will improve itself by some magic process of growing commonsense needs to have his head examined.

Fay

My business in Dublin was mainly to bring myself up to date on the political background to the vicient happenings on the border and to discover, if possible, why the shadow of the gunman was once again darkening the scene.

But I had another, much more pleasant duty. I was escorting, on his first visit, a Scottish journalist who recently gave up editing a weekly magazine to become editor-in-chief of our largest publishing organization.

As a well-trained newspaperman he had long known that you don't find news by sitting around in the reporters' room: you go out and get it, or indeed on some newspapers you go out and make it up. Could this principle be applied to publishing? He was in Dublin on a trial run.

Routine Stuff

The theory behind it was this: the manuscripts which find their way to a publisher direct from authors or through agents are for the most part routine stuff—like the publicity handout and other prefabricated news that come into a newspaper office.

The real works of literature, or even the real best-sellers, have to be found and fostered by a more direct method.

I had my own ideas about how this theory would work out in Dublin, a city where next to talking it sometimes seems that writing is the most popular activity among the articulate and literate classes.

We had scarcely crossed the revolving threshold of the Shelbourne Hotel when the hall porter came up with "Mr. Hamilton? I have this for you." "This," I need hardly say, was a packet which clearly contained a volume in manuscript form.

I was disappointed to find that the author was not the hall porter himself for this would have fitted in admirably with my idea of what was going to happen. But the newspaper editor came right up to expectations. He telephoned me to say he would like to speak to my friend about a paragraph about the publisher which had apeared in the newspaper he edited.

"No doubt," said my friend with a somewhat Scottish pomp, 'No doubt he wishes to apologize for its inaccuracy."

"Not on your life," said I, and sure enough what the editor had in mind was the publication of a little thing he'd thrown off (a hundred thousands words or so) on his experiences in prison and internment camp.

Traveling Army

They marched, the army of aspirant authors, through the corridors of the Shelbourne and sometimes stood huddled in the lobby for hours, they could be heard striding up and down on the pavement outside even before the hotel opened.

There was the N.C.O. from the Irish Republican Army (1921 model) who had a book on special methods used for making guerrillas out of city-bred youths; there was the captain of the Irish Free State army who had a half-finished MSS. comparing the battle of Macroom with the siege of Derry.

Generals of both armies sent intermediaries to scout out the chances of selling their tattered memoirs, and historians of rival camps offered heavy learned tomes explaining the events of 1916 to 1922 from exactly opposite points of view.

One man had an original idea: a brief survey of the different usage of the vocative case in Irish and in Scotch Gaelic, but his voice was drowned by the high-pitched voices of poets chanting examples of their work in two languages.

The saddest case was the would-be author who admitted that his manuscript had already been rejected by the very firm my friend represents. What could he want then?

"Well," he said, "I think there has been some awful mistake. You see the publisher's reader has written something on the cover of my MSS. and it was rubbed out before they returned it to me. If you look very carefully you can make it out. I'm sure the word was 'Publish'."

Death Blow

We strained our eyes and looked, then, like a Harley Street heart specialist sentencing a patient to death the Editor-in-Chif gave his verdict: "No, sir," he said, "the word erased was 'rubbish'."

The author looked like a beast which has just been struck by a humane killer, turned without a word and walked away.

In the end I became infected myself by so much contact with ambitious authors.

"Look here," I said one night as, exhausted from fighting off authors at a party, we sipped a last hot toddy. "Look here, I've got a box of clippings at home big enough to provide a dozen volumes. Why don't you let me do you a 'Gerard Fay's Bedside Book'? You could have the MSS. tomorrow and I'd only want a hundred pounds advance."

It was Hamilton's turn to avert his face, dumbfounded, and stalk off to his room to make a path through the piled manuscripts surrounding his bed and throw himself down to rest a little.

But his ordeal was not quite over. The chambermaid tapped at the door.

"Excuse me, sir," she said demurely, "but my brother asked me to give you this. God help him he's been writing it for twenty years."

The editor gazed at her through glazed eyes and, courteous to the end, fell back on his pillow with "Thank you my dear: I'm sure it's a masterpiece."

It turned out, of course, to be the chambermaid's brother's account of an ambush in which the I.R.A. just failed to kill General Mulcahy in 1922.

WHEN WE WERE VERY YOUNG — By GUS SIVERTZ

Bears in Captivity Spoiled the Fun

LAST week we talked about dogs, horses, cats and pigs and really they rather "sneaked" into the story which was intended to be about bears. The dogs just sort of moved in on the story—as they so often do—and the others followed along with the parade. I started out to say that we have made some sort of progress in our treatment of animals and this was suggested by thinking about the dark and dismal bear pits that used to be a blot on our beautiful Beacon Hill Park. I hated the place and thought how terrible it was to imprison these poor creatures in such dungeons so that curious people could walk around their pits and stare down at them.

Sivertz

The horrible pits were just a few yards off the lovely sylvan lane—called "Lovers' Lane"—that cuts through the trees at the east end of the park and emerges on Cook Street. Now it is a quiet and pleasant walk that gives one a sense of strolling along a country lane with the sound of the sea not far away.

Starkly Ugly

And the beauty was there when I was a very small boy but it was marred by the presence of the cruel and starkly ugly bear pits so that we could not walk through the little bit of woodland without being conscious of the dark and almost sinister presence of these relics of the middle ages.

It spoiled the fun of pretending there were bears in the bush that we could stalk as silently as the "deerslayer" in Fenimore Cooper's writing because now we knew there were bears in the park and, with the sensitivity of little boys, we were ashamed of the action of our elders in keeping them in such hideous captivity.

I still remember the "scary" feeling that a visit to the area sent tingling through us; perhaps "scary" is not the right word because we were not a bit afraid of the bears but were unhappy about simply knowing that they were near at hand endlessly pacing their circular prison.

Perhaps the feeling was one of a community of spirit with anything that had been placed in captivity to satisfy some strange quirk in our mentalities; perhaps it was just that we had not yet got far enough away from the primordial cave and still secretly peered out timidly at the great creatures that shared the earth with us.

Unhappy Prisoners

Whatever the reason, our knowledge that the unhappy creatures were padding softly around and around their plank-lined dungeon with their claws clicking on the filthy bottom of their pit, disquieted us and was a bar to the spontaneous fun that boys find for themselves in any woods, large or small. For this nasty pit was in a tree-shaded spot and I fear that the sun never shone on the poor bears whose whole world was encompassed in the circle of planks.

It is a happier place now that they no longer live out their man-imposed sentences of life imprisonment.

Now I may tell another bear story and a much happier one that took place up near Quatsino on a stream that emptied into Rupert Arm in which I was fishing with Roy and Guy Ildstad. It was not fishing for sport but for food and we were hooking the fat, lazy Dolly Vardens with colored pieces of cloth as bait!

It was a wonderful place; quiet and serene and the laughing stream caressed the mossy banks on which grew a riot of vine maple, alder and a few yew trees. Of course all of Quatsino Sound is wonderful. It used to be called a lazy man's paradise because it was so easy to make a living if one was content to live a sort of vegetarian-amphibious life.

After an hour or so of fishing I had gathered a pretty fair string of trout which I hung on the limb of a tree. The other boys were up stream a bit, just out of sight around a bend.

Sudden Rustling

It was such a rich and rewarding occupation that I had difficulty in keeping awake and holding my perch on a fallen log that spanned the stream. The air was warm and around me was a forest symphony of wood sound—the twittering of birds, the hum of bees and the undertone of a myriad happy and invisible little insects.

Suddenly I heard a rustling in the brush where I had hung my catch and thinking it was Roy or Guy, I called out: "Hey, leave my fish alone—catch your own."

There was no reply but the rustling stopped and was succeeded by a soft padding sound which made me look up sharply . . . and I looked right into the face of a black bear who had gulped down most of my fish and was now apparently going to join me on the log and share my catch as each fish came glistening from the water.

My line may still be tangled around the log—or the bear's descendants may be using it. As for me I lost all interest in fishing and leaped into the bush.

Since then many people have told me that if you just yell at a bear he will run away but I think they have never looked into a bear's face at close range . . . and maybe the bear doesn't know he is supposed to run away.

Blown Sky-High by a Banana?

From The Times, London

THERE are certain people and animals with whom we feel it almost shamefully safe to adopt a high line, secure in the knowledge that they will attempt no reprisals. They are so essentially mild as to generate in us a sort of contemptuous kindliness.

We should be exceedingly surprised to be butted by a young lamb or a very old, half-witted sheep. We should deem it unfair conduct on the part of a creature so palpably pacifist. Similarly among inanimate objects there are some as to which we feel sure that they will never turn and rend us.

Who for instance would ever have dreamed of being blown sky high by a banana? Yet that is what has lately befallen an unlucky fruiterer, though fortunately with comparatively little hurt to himself.

It was a peaceful Sunday and, as some of us walk round our gardens on Sunday afternoons, he was inspecting the bananas in his warehouse when they incontinently exploded and damaged not only the roof over their heads but some neighboring buildings as well.

It is true that other accounts rather spoil the story by suggesting that gas was escaping from a main at the same time. Perhaps there was, but it is more tempting, pleasanter, and more horrifying to suspect the bananas of sudden revolutionary tendencies. Hitherto we regarded them as possessing an almost unctuous politeness.

The orange offers at least a token resistance, but the way in which a banana permits itself to be skinned we had always thought indicative of its gentle and accommodating nature.

We had, indeed, realized that a banana, like a worm, will turn and that it is dangerous to tread on it in the street. But we had never even guessed that under that mild exterior there may glow smouldering fires ready to burst (especially near gas) and lift the roof off.

Never again shall we adopt an overbearing manner towards this admirable fruit, lest it turn on us and serve us out for our bullying.

Lovers of "The Romany Rye" will remember the great scene in the inn yard when an elderly passenger turns on that insolent bully "the bang-up coachman" and cuts him all to pieces, using the guard he had learnt from Sergeant Broughton.

It is a scene to bear in mind if ever we have spoken contemptuously or even cavalierly of a banana. Let us remember the volcanic powers that may lurk under that sleek skin and treat it with respect.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

By SILENUS

Foul and Pestilential Smells

The celebrated pulp mill case came to a riotous conclusion last Thursday, when Mr. Justice Bottle delivered judgment amid scenes of wild rejoicing unusual even in his court. He said (in part): "The plaintiff, who, I understand, is representing a large but undefined majority of the citizens of Victoria, is suing an American concern which manufactures an unpleasant (but, I gather, useful) product known as 'sulphite pulp'. The statement of claim says (and no one has refuted it, for the defendant did not deign to appear) that the plaintiff has "suffered damage from offensive and pestilential smells and vapors caused by the defendant in the plaintiff's dwelling house and garden . . ." and goes on to ask for damages, an injunction and, of course, costs.

The defendant operates a pulp mill on the shores of the Strait of Juan de Fuca, in American territory. The location of the place where the defendant carries on his noxious trade is no concern of mine. All this court is interested in is first, whether or not the plaintiff suffered the damage he claims he did, and second whether or not the defendant is responsible for it.

Ordinarily I would not bother to answer these questions with anything more than a simple Yes (for the public spirited plaintiff has proved his case to the hilt); but the fact that the case has excited some interest both in this country and in that of the neighboring republic impels me to add some of those observations which have come to be expected of judges by superficial persons who feel they are not getting their money's worth unless we ramble on for pages and pages.

The plaintiff's case is made much easier by reason of the fact that I am prepared to take, and do most definitely take, judicial notice of the fact that Victoria, under certain conditions of the atmosphere, stinks. I defy anyone in court today to deny it. When I stepped outside to let the cat in this morning it nearly knocked me over, and the cat, as it happens, was in a sorry state itself, coughing and wheezing and carrying on like a goldfish in chlorinated water.

The offensive and pestilential smells of which the plaintiff and I complain proceeded, without a shadow of doubt, from the place where the defendant manufactures his nasty product. Just for the record, I now award the plaintiff damages and costs, and an injunction is granted to restrain the defendant from carrying on his noxious trade in such a manner that the plaintiff and I are annoyed by it. Oh, I am sorry! Gentlemen of the jury, I had forgotten about you, there's such a crowd in here. Forget what I just said and consider your verdict.

(The foreman then stated that the jury was in complete agreement with His Lordship, and wished to add that any further observations he might wish to make would be adopted by them wholeheartedly.)

★ ★ ★

Thank you, gentlemen. I am sure you will forgive my little lapse. You have acted, if I may say so, in the highest traditions of British justice. Let me see, where was I?

Ah, yes; damages and costs and so on. The plaintiff is welcome to them. On that the jury and I are agreed. However, there are certain difficulties involved. It is one thing for me to sit here in a Canadian court and award damages against an American corporation, but it is quite another to collect. As to how we, that is to say, the plaintiff, is going to get his money, is no business of this court. I leave him to fight it out with his opponent in the appropriate arena; which is probably the International Joint Commission, or perhaps the Department of External Affairs.

In which case he has my sympathy. Plaintiff, you have scored a resounding win. I wish you luck (and I shall follow your course with the greatest personal interest) in the trackless wastes of government into which you must now venture."

His Lordship directed the registrar to lead the crowd in three cheers for the plaintiff, and the foreman of the jury, on behalf of the people of Greater Victoria, returned the compliment to the judge. The court then adjourned.

NEWSPAPERMEN TAKE STAND

Publicity Deters Drunken Driving

HAMILTON (CP)—The Canadian Managing Editors' Conference Friday discussed newspaper handling of charges of drunken and impaired driving charges and agreed that such publicity acts as a deterrent in many cases.

Joseph Collins of the Guelph Mercury said replies to a questionnaire sent to various Ontario newspapers showed they all print the names of persons charged in such cases.

Many motorists involved complained to the newspapers over the adverse publicity, Mr. Collins said, but such news benefits the public.

Said one reply to the questionnaire:

"Our stand is that publicity is as much and probably a greater deterrent than the meagre fine which is handed out. We feel that the person who has so little regard for the lives of his fellow citizens that he will drink and drive is deserving of no consideration. . ."

William Metcalfe of the Winnipeg Free Press, which carries reports of drunken driving charges said such stories are a public service.

"I think the cause of sobriety has been greatly aided by our policy."

Earlier T. N. Morrison of the Welland Tribune, president of the conference, welcomed delegates to the organization's 11th annual meeting.

Sole aim of the conference is the continuing improvement of the Canadian daily newspaper, said Mr. Morrison.

"We are not a policy-making group," he added. "We seek nothing more than, through a free and friendly exchange of views and experiences, to suggest ways and means of making the Canadian daily newspaper more readable, more entertaining and more informative."

Toronto Editor E. C. Phelan Collapses

HAMILTON (CP)—E. C. Phelan 44-year-old assistant managing editor of the Toronto Globe and Mail, collapsed Friday while heading a discussion on newspaper headlines at the Canadian Managing Editors' Conference.

Mr. Phelan, standing beside a screen while illustrations were being shown by lantern slide, slumped behind the head table in a hotel ballroom. A doctor said his "condition is not good."

He succeeds H. Alan Maclean, QC, who was recently appointed a judge of the Supreme Court.

Dr. Kennedy, who will come to Victoria about the middle of April, is a former British Columbia editor of the Canadian Bar Review, and national chairman of the section on administration of civil justice of the Canadian Bar Association.

U.S. Communists To Set Future Policy

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. communists will go into a four-day convention here today in a showdown struggle on future policy.

The question is whether the party will adopt what some party members call "an American road to socialism" or standfast to the traditional Marxist - Leninist line handed down by the Kremlin.

UN CORRESPONDENCE

By CHARLES LYNCH

Next Role for UNEF

This is the first in a series of articles by Mr. Lynch on the future of the UNEF, with emphasis on Canada's position. The second will appear Wednesday.

NEW YORK—The latest General Assembly resolutions on the Middle East left so much unsaid that the omissions have more significance than the resolutions themselves.

Events arising out of what the resolutions did and did not say are moving too swiftly just now for comment here, but what one can do is try to understand why the General Assembly acted as it did and why, having labored so mightily, it brought forth such a mouse.

Lynch

Any recounting of the events leading up to the midnight vote on Saturday is bound to show up potential weaknesses not only in the functioning of the General Assembly, but in the Canadian position in regard to the Middle East in general and the United Nations Emergency Force in particular.

Nobody is better aware of these weaknesses than the secretary for external affairs, Mr. Lester B. Pearson. It is doubtful if any diplomat ever worked harder to get what he wanted than Mr. Pearson did here during the last two weeks in January. He returned to Ottawa a tired and perhaps a disillusioned man, although, like the unnamed cowboy, he "don't disillusion easy." He is too skilful a diplomat to display his emotions even in private, although he was heard to say that the two weeks in question were just about the most difficult he had known in all his years of diplomacy, and that goes back to 1928.

Mr. Pearson returned to Ottawa without getting what he wanted, but at least he had the satisfaction of knowing that what he wanted simply was not to be had. What he wanted was a resolution spelling out in fairly specific terms what the next chores of the United Nations Emergency Force were to be.

Canada wanted this for two reasons—first, because Canada has the largest single contingent of troops in UNEF, and she is no less anxious than she was in Second World War to know as clearly as possible what is expected of her troops, and to what uses they will be put. Second, she felt that only a clearly-worded resolution would give the secretary-general, Mr. Dag Hammarskjold, the backing he would need in order to achieve something worth while in the way of keeping the peace between Egypt and Israel, and laying the groundwork for long-range settlements.

It may be that Mr. Pearson's absence from the United Nations from late November until mid-January may have weakened Canada's position—during that period the Canadian delegation was very quiet indeed. Perhaps the vigor with which Mr. Pearson addressed the problem when he did return more than overcame any unawareness that may have developed of Canada's interest in the matter.

WEEKEND WEATHER PICTURE ACROSS CANADA

SYNOPSIS — A brisk flow of Pacific air is now sweeping across the province, driving the Arctic air mass east of the Rockies. Embedded in this Maritime flow is a series of storms. The next of these is scheduled to cross the north coast late tonight. It will pass through the central interior and over the south coast early Sunday afternon and should reach the Kootenays by evening. In coastal areas it will give rain and gusty winds in exposed places. East of the coast mountains snow showers are expected from it but these should not be heavy.

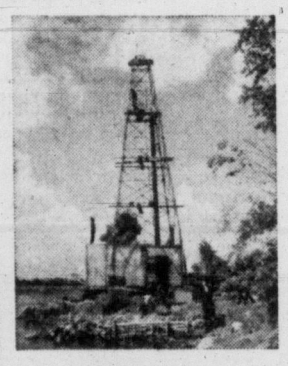
Inco Research helps Canada Grow

1. How these mines were discovered—For years Inco used airborne devices to scan vast areas. The possibilities of ore deposits in this area suggested further exploration.

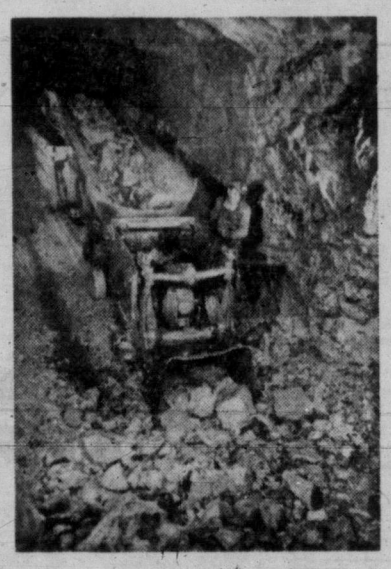


2. How ore bodies were probed—Diamond drills then began bringing up samples of rock and ore from underground; another step toward exploring the size and location of ore bodies.

This is how a Nickel mine is born

New mines in Northern Manitoba will help add over 100 million pounds to Nickel output

3. How an exploration shaft was sunk—This was the toughest job of all. Only a few men could work at a time. Their air-powered drills could drive only a few feet a day. After each blast, the shaft was scaled and shattered rock mucked out—long hours of work between each round of drilling.



4. How the ore is reached—A completed shaft is like a "door" to a mine. Once production shafts are finished, crosscuts will have to be driven toward the ore deposits, then drifts driven through them. Only after these are completed can mining of Nickel ore begin.

Ten years and ten million dollars ago, Inco launched Exploration Project Manitoba.

Purpose of the project: to discover new deposits of Inco Nickel, new sources of mineral wealth deep in the woodlands.

The exploration project having revealed sufficient ore to warrant mining, Inco will now develop its new underground mines and processing plants in Mystery-Moak Lakes area of Northern Manitoba.

To get them into production calls for a new railway, townsite, power plant, schools, hospital. This $175,000,000 project is part of an Inco four-year expansion program expected to help add over 100 million pounds a year to over-all Nickel output.

Mining for Nickel, a colour film, shows step by step how Nickel mines are discovered, developed and expanded. It is loaned to technical societies, universities and industry.

BOOK TALK By JAMES SCOTT

Chaplin Writing Book on 'Laughter'

Among the books which are now in preparation the two which interest me most this week are from very different people, neither of whom I am quite sure can be classified as authors. First, is James Jones. Now Mr. Jones wrote a tremendous success of gigantic proportions called From Here to Eternity but, quite frankly, I have been wondering ever since whether this might merely have been a one-shot wonder. Such things have happened in Bookland and Jones' failure to get anything else into print has caused some speculation.

SCOTT

However word now comes that the reason for the delay is simply that his new book is to be even longer than From Here to Eternity. It will be published next fall under the title Some Came Running. When it arrives it may answer the question as to Mr. Jones' real writing ability.

The other man I have in mind needs no introduction, as they say. And he sure doesn't. I mean none other than Charlie Chaplin who has now turned his talent—one might well say, genius—to writing and is hard at work on a book which, almost inevitably, will be called Laughter. This one I really look forward to. No date of publication set yet.

Dylan Thomas' Widow Has Trouble

Caitlin Thomas, widow of the late and much lamented Dylan (the finest lyric poet of our generation) has been in hot water again. According to the author of Dylan Thomas in America (reviewed in this space about a year and a half ago) Caitlin was never the quiet, relaxed type which a temperamental poet might have found beneficial.

There were descriptions of fights in which anything at hand was thrown, moody silences and bitter arguments, culminating with the famous scene at the hospital in New York where the poet lay dying. On her arrival Caitlin is reported to have asked, "Well, is the bloody man dead yet?"

Now, in reports from overseas, one hears that in a recent interview over BBC-TV she became so wrought up over some questions (not the most tactful ones in the world, I gather) that the cameras had to be cut and the show faded out. The news report does not say if anything was thrown.

Two books which are almost sure to have runaway sales this season are the just released Blue Camellia by Frances Parkinson Keyes and Challenge to Venus (not yet out but due soon) by Charles Morgan.

Both Mr. Morgan and Miss Keyes have their own band of loyal readers, albeit of very different stamp. Miss Keyes' latest is called frankly just "a love story"; Mr. Morgan's is billed as "a mystical love story set in Italy" and that, I would say is just about the difference.

MALIGNANT SEX

In more serious circles, the talk of the month centres around Harvard professor Pitrim Sorokin's The American Sex Revolution. Professor Sorokin pulls no punches and the thesis of his book is bluntly put in the statement "Americans are victims of a sex mania as malignant as cancer and as socially menacing as communism."

In this careful study, the author lays most of today's sins to the door of what he calls "the rising tide of sex which is flooding every compartment of our culture." The result, he says, is that "our morals have changed so that constanency, chastity and faithfulness are increasingly viewed as oddities,

CHARLES CHAPLIN
. . . turns author

as the ossified survival of a prehistorical age."

Whatever one may think of the professor's argument—and you have to think something about it—it cannot be denied that he is a real virtuoso with words. Almost every sentence in the book is a performance in itself. Obviously he feels strongly about the matter and he knows how to make words present his case in the most powerful terms. Like this:

"We live in a video environment saturated with exhibitionistic or teasingly semi-draped nudity. Sex appeal has become a must in commercial advertising . . . our civilization has become so preoccupied with sex that it now oozes from all the pores of American life."

Well, maybe that's enough for one week.

Years of Old Age Can Be Full and Happy If Declining Path Properly Approached

Reviewed by Tom Merriman

DAY AFTER TOMORROW by Roma Rudd Turkell. Alvernia Publishing Co., Montreal, P.O. Box 1300, Station "O", Montreal 9, P.Q. 242 pages. $3.75.

The newly-formed Alvernia Publishing Co. of Montreal has released another philosophical, thought-provoking book in "Day After Tomorrow," by Roma Rudd Turkell.

The book is about preparing for retirement and the time that follows and is addressed to those in their young and middle years. It is natural that on such a controversial subject many readers will disagree with the author on many points.

Most will agree, however, she has made a sincere attempt to offer something happier for aged persons.

Her suggestions are based on extensive research, many interviews with old people, some happy, some lonely and sad in their retirement. The outlook of young people towards old age and preparation for it is also discussed at length.

How old is old? is one pointed question the author raises. Her opinions may come as a bit of a shock to some of her readers.

After noting the life span has increased by 20 years in the last half century the author says 65 has been generally accepted as the start of old age because it is the age when compulsory retirement is most often set.

She indicates she does not agree with this. "There is no reason why the start of old age shouldn't be set at seventy, eighty or ninety," she says.

EARLY OR LATE

Startling thought for youngsters under fifty, she comments, "on the other hand, the start of old age could quite legitimately by set at forty when our physical powers begin to decline, or even on the morning of our twenty-sixth birthday when according to many people, we have taken the first step past our prime."

One can admire the author's sympathy but question the emphasis she places on loneliness which she describes as the greatest single problem of those who reach the later years.

"Loneliness may some day be proved to be the number one killer of the aged because it shrivels their spirit and kills their will to live," she says.

The author may have been misled by the frequency with which old age and loneliness are linked in news stories but it should be borne in mind that it is always the unusual that makes the headlines

CIRCLE WIDENS

Except where families have separated to move to different cities or countries loneliness is no concomitant of old age and the extra years bring greater interest rather than fewer. It is natural that the longer a couple lives the more people they know. Besides long-time friends they have sons, daughters and grandchildren as a lively and continual source of interest.

And there is no greater time to enjoy children than the grandparent stage when with glorious irresponsibility you can enjoy their antics to the full and then turn them over to their parent at the first signs of fretfulness or need of attention.

Although loneliness is the thing to fear most about "the day after tomorrow" it is, happily, the easiest to prevent, the author says. She devotes many pages to show how aged people and their families can combat it and how planning, before old age creeps on, can play an important part.

The problems of old age are no more serious than those of adolescence or the middle years. They need not be lonely years unless we deliberately make them so the author says. They simply are different. They can be the "golden years" or the "bonus years."

Mrs. Turkell is a devout Catholic. Justifiably she draws attention to the projects Catholics have promoted for the sick, the infirm and the aged. If in her old age she should be forced to go into an institution, she says, she hopes it will be one where she receives the self-sacrificing care and devotion of nuns.

In one pungent paragraph she makes her point of the devotion of nurses to their cause.

A visitor observed a hospital nun dressing the bruises and wounds of a badly mangled accident victim.

"I wouldn't do that for a million dollars," the visitor commented.

"Neither would I," the nun replied.

No one can challenge the author's tribute to the Catholic Church on its welfare record. Even non-Catholics are ready to acknowledge the lead the Catholic Church has given and the establishments it has built for the care of orphans, aged, the sick and infirm.

In a chapter headed "The Forgotten Fourth" (commandment) the author seems to deplore the passing of the day when houses were larger and there was always a spare room known as "Grandma's room" or "Grandpa's room."

She writes about her own recollections of her grandfather living with them when she was a child. They are happy recollections.

She gives a number of instances where this is working well today but also admits such an arrangement can wreck a home.

Generally the author agrees aged couples are better off with accommodation of their own. She suggests people in their middle years (40 to 50 probably) start now to investigate the various types of living accommodation available for later years.

A suggestion kindly meant but it would take a lot of kick out of life to start glooming about old age twenty years or so before it carries any threat.

In spite of the issues taken with a number of the author's ideas in this review, readers will find it an interesting, thought-provoking book with fine material for discussion groups.

Dramatic and singing star Alfred Drake has been signed by the American Shakespeare Festival Theatre and Academy to play Iago in its production of "Othello" at its Stratford, Conn., theatre next summer. He also will have a second role in another production there, but just what it will be has not yet been decided.

Arena Style Staging For Miller Tragedy

For the past two or three years, this city's only glimpse of Arena-style theatre has been provided by Victoria College Players' Club, plus one or two presentations at the Art Gallery by Intimate Stage.

This year, Victoria College "does it again," having successfully produced Christopher Fry's "Lady's Not for Burning" in that medium last spring.

On this occasion, the vehicle is "The Crucible," a two-act tragedy by Arthur Miller (author of "Death of a Salesman"). The play is a bitter condemnation of "McCarthyism" in general, its particular setting, Salem in 1692, scene of some of the most ruthless witch hunts in history.

Play will be presented February 26 to March 2 at the college.

Five different scenes are necessary, including one exterior. This, in conjunction with all the inevitable difficulties of central stage production, creates major problems for the technical crew.

Norm Jones, planning a career as an electrical engineer, directs the technical side. He was a member of last year's team which did outstanding work.

POETRY PROVED POPULAR

It seems that poetry has a wider general appeal than the average person is led to believe.

According to reactions to a CBC Vancouver program, "Emerson Presents," there are a good many people who enjoy hearing poetry read aloud by the right person.

John Emerson, Vancouver pianist and actor, is presenting a second series of poetry readings on Wednesdays at 9 p.m. Popularity of a first series, heard on CBU last fall, has prompted the repeat performance.

According to Mr. Emerson, he gets "quite a few letters from Victoria (especially when I do Tennyson or Rudyard Kipling)."

He attributes the success of his program to the fact that he has retained an enthusiasm for poetry which he acquired at university.

But he adds: "I didn't stay at University long enough to acquire too academic an approach."

The literary rate of the world ranges from 96.9 per cent in Belgium to 0.3 per cent in Portuguese Guinea, according to a United Nations survey.

University of B.C. has granted 23,736 degrees since the first graduating class in 1916.

HANS GRUBER CONDUCTS

Capital's Centennial Project Should Have Permanent Value

With the approach of the 100th anniversary of the Province of British Columbia, much thought is being given already to appropriate ways of celebrating the event. Committees are hard at work, seeking the almost impossible answer to providing something for everybody.

Hans Gruber

Well, there are as many opinions and tastes as there are people. I, for one, should lack the courage of taking on the chairmanship of the centennial committee, no matter what the considerations. The regional chairman and his committee cannot really win, and may well earn more criticism than thanks for their trouble.

Their decision as to how to spend the money allocated to them must be an agonizing one. There will not be enough jazz for some, there will not be enough symphony music for others; there will be too much of this for one person and not enough of that for another.

Free Luxury of Giving Advice

Too many will finally conclude that THEY ought to have been the ones to run the whole centennial show. I see no reason therefore why I should not also indulge in the free luxury of offering unsolicited suggestions.

I should like to see B.C.'s 100th anniversary commemorated with the fulfilment of my fondest dream: namely, with the building of an auditorium in at least two of B.C.'s largest cities.

I cannot bring myself to accept the financial impossibility of an auditorium for Victoria, if governments at all levels really got together with a single-minded determination. Where there is a will there is a way.

British Columbia, with all its present wealth, and its immeasurably greater potential wealth—now having reached the age of one hundred—must, it seems to me, decide that the time has come for its capital city to have an auditorium suitable for a great variety of uses.

LET'S BEGIN

Now I do not imagine that the local centennial committee handles funds that would be sufficient to build a multi-purpose auditorium in Victoria. But the beginnings of a fund must come from somewhere. Money is going to be spent—considerable money—for the staging of various events, which will give momentary pleasure to different groups of people.

An auditorium, though, admittedly, costly, would remain a lasting symbol of the province's attainment of maturity, and provide continuous benefit practically to all residents of this area indefinitely, as against a number of fleeting, isolated entertainments for a comparatively limited number of people.

Nothing less than a proper auditorium should be the way of commemorating the anniversary, for us and future generations to enjoy. And think of the gratitude we should earn from the bi-centennial committee in 2058! Their only task then need be to enlarge and renovate our 1958 auditorium.

I should think it interesting if the centennial committee, together with governments from provincial to municipal levels, were to take the issue of a centennial auditorium to the people by means of a plebiscite.

Talented Newcomer Plays in 'Anastasia'

One of the acting plums in the play, "Anastasia" which Victoria Theatre Guild will open next Saturday at Langham Court Theatre, has fallen to a newcomer to city dramatic circles.

David Shearer, who enacts the complex role of "Prince Bounine", is, however, an actor of 10 years experience in various aspects of stage and radio drama.

More recently his voice has become familiar to night-owl Victorians as swing-shift disc jockey on radio station CJVI.

Shearer has been interested in theatre work since his high school days in Vancouver, where he won a couple of honorable mentions for his acting in high school drama festivals.

At University of B.C. he was active with the Musical Society and Players' Club. He spent two years as sound technician with the Theatre Under the Stars and acted with the Vancouver Little Theatre and the Vancouver Players Guild, formerly known as the Wayfarers.

He admits modestly to "quite a bit of work with CBC in drama — particularly school broadcasts and Vancouver Theatre."

DAVID SHEARER

His most hair-raising experience, theatre-wise, was stepping into the lead of a comedy at two weeks notice when an actor fell ill.

"Prince Bounine" he regards as the most challenging and stimulating part he has yet essayed.

"I'm thoroughly enjoying this experience; it's one I would have hated to miss," he comments.

Gilbert and Sullivan Society Has Fine Entertainment Record

On June 4, 1946, a new entertainment organization made its debut in Victoria at what was then the Empire Theatre. This was the Victoria Gilbert and Sullivan Society. The vehicle was "HMS Pinafore" and it was an outstanding success, with full houses and many people turned away.

During the 10 years since, the society has staged 15 productions including most of the Gilbert and Sullivan favorites, "The Red Mill." "Merry Widow" and some revues.

In 1955 the sponsoring organization finally retired from the field and the operetta group has since operated on its own, maintaining a reputation for spritely, colorful entertainment.

Latest of their productions is to be Oscar Strauss's gay musical based on Bernard Shaw's play "Arms and the Man," titled "The Chocolate Soldier."

It will be seen at the Royal Theatre for three nights, April 29 to May 1.

Casting of principals is complete and includes some top Victoria singing and stage personalities. Leading female role of Nadina has gone to Margaret Hall, whose "Merry Widow" was a highlight of Gilbert and Sullivan Society annals. Talented Diana Clifford and contralto Eleanor Duff have the other important women's roles.

Operatic tenors Del and Michael Rogers will sing the heroic roles, with Jimmy Meadows and Walter Cownden in comedy and character parts.

The same stage and musical directing team of Jim Yeomans and Arthur Budd, who were responsible for a well-staged, successful "Pirates of Penzance" last season, will handle "Chocolate Soldier."

TWO for the SHOW

By PHIL LEE

A (Don't Miss) AA (Oscar Class) B (For Rainy Days) BB (Worthwhile) C (To put in time)

(A) "THE KING AND FOUR QUEENS" (Odeon)—As undiluted entertainment Clark Gable's first independent production, "The King and Four Queens," rates aces high even though you can't believe what passes as a plot for this zaney grey western.

GABLE

As long as he keeps moving about in high gear Gable looks not unlike the Gable of yore, the "big guy," the "king" who for years played second only to Shirley Temple at the box office. Truly it is remarkable how he resembles the man who won an Academy in 1934 for his sparkling comedy with Claudette Colbert in "It Happened One Night" or the dashing Rhett Butler of the unforgettable "Gone With the Wind."

It is only when the camera catches his face in repose that he looks what he is, a fit, middle-aged man of 55.

Fortunately for Gable and the film, however, the four queens—Eleanor Parker, Jean Willes, Barbara Nichols and Sara Shane — keep him constantly on the move. One by one they roll into and out of his arms until it seems that love, too, has succumbed to automation.

As the rascal who learns of hidden wealth in a deserted one-horse town being held by the mother of three murdered gunmen and four beautiful women, Gable proves once again that he is a competent actor. He skilfully pits one girl against the other while he wins over their grieving, flint-faced mother-in-law, Jo Van Fleet, who, against her better judgment, allows him to stay.

The lines are funny and often gay. In one instance Gable takes one of the blonde gals for a trip to the spring for water. "What kept yuh so long," demands the angry mother after the pair returns in the cool of the evening?" "I was very thirsty," explains Gable cheerfully.

But it doesn't take the theatre-goer long to perceive that calculating Gable has met his match in calculating Eleanor Parker. So it comes as no surprise when they hoodwink Maw, steal the $100,000 pot of gold, and race away in a cloud of dust with the sheriff's men in hot pursuit.

Parker

Although the four man-hungry women are each excellent in their respective roles it is Miss Van Fleet who carries the day. Indeed it is not too much to expect that she may once again be nominated for best supporting actress, the award she won last year.

In summary: "The King and Four Queens" may not be a grand slam but it can be counted on as a winning hand.

JARO NEWS — One wonders if it is necessary that JARO news reels, made for Canadian consumption, must be quite so un-Canadian.

Surely these news items can contain less English news and carry more topics of Canadian interest. Year end reviews, for instance, feature English soccer finals, the Ashes, British home politics and so on, and rarely a glimpse of Canadian statesmen, Canadian affairs, NHL hockey, the Grey Cup and other events of importance that take place on this side of the Atlantic.

To Become Independent

Director Fred Zinnemann has announced formation of his own motion picture production firm to be known as F. R. Z. Company.

Zinnemann completed negotiations with Warner Bros. to finance and distribute two films to be made by F. R. Z. and is currently negotiating for one or two properties acceptable to him and the studio for his first independent production.

Zinnemann will not be free to start his first independent until 1958, as he is currently directing "A Hatful of Rain" for 20th Century-Fox and has one other film to do for Fox, plus three picture commitments with Paramount.

Walter Completes Brahm's Symphonies

By HUMPHRY DAVY

After listening to a number of new records, I can single out one which I am certain the average listener will enjoy. It is Brahms Symphony No. 4 performed by the Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra of New York with Bruno Walter conducting on Columbia ML5127.

There are many versions on vinylite of Brahms 4. Each have their fine points. In this interpretation, however, the performance's outstanding merit is its vigor and majesty. In addition, the record is sonically of high order.

Davy

Incidently, Walter has performed on records the complete series of Brahm's symphoniesb This collection is worth having, for it is doubtful if the veteran conductor will ever undertake again to make a series of these major works.

As for the symphony itself, many of Brahms' admirers consider it his best work. It is not dramatic as his first, but contains some of the best music the composer ever wrote. It was his last symphony and as a whole is elegiac in atmosphere.

★ ★ ★

Other new releases include a spoken-word album, featuring Siobhan McKenna and E. G. Marshall. They read soliloquies from James Joyce's "Ulysses," (Caedmon). Columbia has also issued Richard Strauss' "Death and Transfiguration," performed by the New York Philharmonic Symphony, Bruno Walter, conducting.

★ ★ ★

POPS LIBRARY: The Four Lads' "Who Needs You" (Columbia) should be a big hit. Others: "Hawaiian Rhythms on Hawaiian Favorites" (Alfred Apaka, Decca); Dutch jazz in "Jazz Behind the Dikes" (Epic).

★ ★ ★

NEW YORK (UP) — "Music to Suffer By," an LP recording of 12 odd numbers by Leona Anderson on the Unique label, may torment you or it may make your pains vanish.

It all depends on your sense of humor as to whether you'll like or abhor this crazy concert by the woman who admits she is the world's most horrible singer.

Miss Anderson is a vocal caricaturist in some respects. She is also a biting satirist. She shows that the Habanera from "Carmen" is pure trash and that some of Victor Herbert's "clasics" such as "Italian Street Song" are pure hokum and maybe Victor should have stuck to his cello.

And Miss Anderson's version of "Il Bacio" (The Kiss) will make all amateur hour sopranos shiver. But the most horrible number of all is her groaning of "Rats in My Room."

Platter chatter: Louis Jordan's big hit of 1946 "Choo Choo Ch' Boogie" has been revived by Mercury and also rocked and rolled by Bill Haley on the Decca label . . . "Look Homeward Angel," a ballet inspired by Thomas Wolfe's first novel, could be a million-record seller for Johnny Ray (Columbia) . . . And "Don't You Rock Me Daddy-O" may be Lonnie Donegan's best record (Mercury) since "Rock Island Line."

Rock and Roll—"Rock, Pretty Baby" (Decca) contains all of the music from the sound track of the movie of that name which starred Sal Mineo and featured Jimmy Daley and the Ding-a-Lings . . . Best new R & R single is "Rock and Roll Medley," three tunes beautifully blended by Johnny Maddox (Dot).

Licia Albanese, Metropolitan Opera soprano, recently made her 200th appearance as the tragic heroine of Puccini's "Madame Butterfly."

LEADING CELLIST with Victoria Symphony Orchestra, Mary Evens will appear in joint recital with Vancouver pianist, Lloyd Powell, February 19, at the Empress Hotel. Both artists are well known recitalists on the Pacific coast, Mrs. Evens having long been associated with much musical activity in Victoria. This is the fifth of Victoria Musical Art Society's winter series.

Musical Festival Is Honored By Canada's 'Dean of Music'

A signal mark of recognition has been paid the Greater Victoria Music Festival, with the acceptance by Sir Ernest MacMillan, Canada's "Mr. Music", of an invitation to become Honorary President of that organization.

Sir Ernest, who recently retired as director of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra is this country's most frequently honored and highly regarded musician on an international level.

He has had fellowships conferred on him by both the Royal College of Music and Royal College of Organists, and in 1935, was the first person outside Great Britain, to be knighted for his services to music.

He became conductor of the Toronto Symphony in 1931 and it was under his direction of 25 years' duration, that the orchestra achieved international importance as one of the world's major symphonies.

His honorary presidency of the Victoria Music Festival is particularly appropriate in that he has consistently encouraged such festivals across the country.

He has been a leader in the development of a musical culture in Canada, and as a former dean of the faculty of music at Toronto University and principal of the Royal Conservatory of Music, Toronto, has taken a keen interest in student activities across the continent, giving active encouragement at all times.

An excellent panel of adjudicators has been selected for this year's Victoria festival which will take place May 8 to 10 and 13 to 15. Entries will be received care of the secretary, box 308, Victoria, up to and including March 23.

SIR ERNEST MACMILLAN . . . international figure.

Here is a terrific picture for the whole family to enjoy together which we can unreservedly recommend. The scenery of England, the "shots" of London and its pageantry, the humour and pathos of its "characters" all blend into a picture which will send you home having laughed a lot and cried a little. When two children run away to see the Coronation to decide whether the Queen actually does wear her crown "all the time" they run into adventures aplenty, especially when they look up Uncle Ben at Knightsbridge Barracks as he prepares to ride out with the Sovereign's Escort. Come prepared to enjoy yourself to the limit. Yes, it's Technicolor too.

OUT OUR WAY

THIS GETS ON YOUR NERVES SO THAT YOU CAN'T STAND IT

Usually if you are a great shakes at anything you win. Not in this game. If you are the least bit shaky here, you not only lose but are eliminated.

Play requires an empty catsup or soda bottle and a box of wooden toothpicks (flat ones).

To begin, each player places a toothpick across the mouth of the bottle until a complete layer is formed. Then a second layer is begun; then a third, etc. As the pile gets higher and higher, it becomes increasingly difficult to add a toothpick. The object, of course, is to pile as many on as is possible without causing the stack to topple.

The player who causes the pile to fall is eliminated from the game and another round is begun.

AN EYE-CUE TESTER

A line of letters on the eye-doctor's card reads thusly:

H I Z T N

When Ima Sharpie read off the letters correctly, she added, "Doctor, by adding one letter to those five, and rearranging the six, a well-known English word can be spelled."

What word had she in mind?

Answer: The word "zenith."

WHAT'S THE DIF?

1. What's the difference between six dozen dozen and a half-a-dozen dozen?

2. What is the difference between twenty four-quart bottles and four-and-twenty quart bottles?

Answers: 1. There's a difference of 102. 2. A difference of 56 quarts.

A third dimension is important to the legibility of the writing in the diagram at right. Hold the paper at eye level and look along the lines. Names of three members of the zoo are discernible. How quickly can you pick them out?

If you are a doodler, you may wish to try putting your own name on paper in similar fashion. A ruler will be helpful in the application. A sharp pencil is also desirable for making fine lines.

RATIO-RELATIONS TEST

Two numbers under 50 are in the ratio of 3 to 4. If seven is subtracted from each of them, the remainders are in the ratio of 2 to 3. What are the numbers?

Answer: Twenty-one and twenty-eight.

PRODUCTION IS IN ORDER HERE

Presented below are a number of occupations which have become obsolete or are now known by other names. You are asked to identify them by their connection with certain products. Three products are given in each instance, only one of which is correct.

2. Chandler — (a) candles, (b) eggs, (c) cuffs.
3. Wainwright — (a) moulding, (b) wagons, (c) planes.
4. Cooper — (a) boats, (b) barrels, (c) guns.
5. Cordwainer — (a) bread, (b) leather, (c) rope.

Answers: 1 (a); 2 (a); 3 (b), 4 (b), 5 (b).

MINI-TEST: You pay off a debt of sixty-five dollars with seven bills, not one of which is a one-dollar bill. How do you manage it?

Answer: With one fifty, one five and five twos.

'Radisson' Series Tonight

All-Canadian Film Seen on C-2, 6 at 7

Musical Honeymooners See Paris; James Stewart in Sunday Drama

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

Victorians, with the rest of Canada, can see tonight exactly what kind of television play-makers we are.

At 7 p.m. the CBC unveils its new series covering the life of Pierre Esprit Radisson, fabulous fur trader and 17th-century Canadian explorer. The title role will be played by a one-time accounting student turned actor, Jacques Godin.

This is supposed to be our country's answer to the U.S.'s "Davy Crockett." Will our youth suddenly turn in their space helmets and Crockett hats for the headgear of a courir de bois? An interesting conjecture.

"Radisson," of course, was filmed in Canada and boasts an all-Canadian cast. It will be carried on channels 6 and 2.

Anothering interesting Saturday night chore should be the "Honeymooners." Last week Jackie Gleason departed from his not-too-successful format to plunge into a musical hour featuring Art Carney, Audrey Meadows and Joyce Randolph. It was a splendid show. Tonight the cruise continues at 8 on channels 11 and 12. The scene is Paris.

Hockey fans can watch Channel 13 at 8 when the local Cougars take the ice against Seattle Americans.

Sunday's offerings include several varied and interesting programs.

At 1 p.m., Odyssey will present a 60-minute semi-documentary on the Middle Ages. Entitled "Medieval Knight," the Channels 11 and 12 offering tells of the life of a young knight, covering life generally such as peasants working in the fields, a castle banquet, the torture inflicted on a dishonored knight and a battle.

At 3 p.m. opera lovers come into their own as Channel 4 offers the world premiere of an opera based on Balzak's story, "La Grande Breteche." It will be sung in English by Gloria Lane, Hugh Thompson, Adelaide Bishop, Davis Cunningham and Jimi Beni.

At 9 Broadway and filmdom's fine actress, Julie Harris, plays St. Joan of Arc in "The Lark." This is on Channel 4.

At the same time, but on Channel 11, popular film star James Stewart takes over in GE Theatre's "The Town With a Past," wherein an old eccentric refuses to sell her abandoned silver mine to the railroad.

TONIGHT

6.00: Channel 5: Ray Anthony takes over his new time slot.

7.00: Channels 2, 6: The CBC commences its first all-Canadian series, "Radisson." In the first episode the great 17th century Canadian is captured by Indians after his friends have fallen to the Iroquois.

7.30: Channel 4: Art Linkletter's People Are Funny.

Channels 11, 12: If you enjoy the comparatively new quiz show You're On Your Own you'd better hurry because the program is soon due to be on its own for lack of sponsor.

8.00: Channels 2, 6: Perry Como hosts opera singer Helen Traubel, comic Joey Bishop, Edity Adams and Peter Palmer.

Channel 4: In his latest show Perry's guests include Myrna Loy, Lord Flea and his group plus the regulars.

Channels 11, 12: Jackie Gleason and his Honeymooners continue their gay, musical tour of the world. Next stop: Paris.

Channel 13: Hockey: Local Cougars tangle with Seattle Americans.

9.00: Channel 4: Sid Caesar and the gang do another Commuters skit. Later the comic will do one of his famed satires.

Channel 5: Lawrence Welk and his happy gang.

Channel 11: Oh Susanna sees Susanna worrying about a 14-year-old boy who has a violent crush on her.

9.30: Channel 11: Jeannie Carsons worries about her income tax report.

10.00: Channel 2: And here is the favorite Lolly Too Dum at its new time.

Channel 4: George Gobel entertains old pal Garry Moore.

Channels 11, 12: In the Gunsmoke western adventure Marshal Matt Dillon attempts to serve a warrant on a man who nobody will identify.

10.30: Channel 4: Your Hit Paraders tackle the top seven tunes plus a couple of extras such as "This Can't Be Love" and "Taking a Chance on Love."

SUNDAY

11.30: Channels 11, 12: The Last Word panel show features authoress Gypsy Rose Lee and poet Robert Graves.

1.00: Channels 11, 12: Odyssey shows "Medieval Knight." See column lead for details.

2.30: Channels 11, 12: Gerald McBoing-Boing cartoons are excellent entertainment. This week will see "Quiet Town" and "Just Believe in Make Believe."

3.00: Channel 4: NBC Opera presents the world premiere of the one-hour opera, "La Grande Breteche." This is based on a short story by Balzac and will feature the voices of Gloria Lane and Hugh Thompson.

Channel 4: Up-and-coming Steve Allen offers Lou Costello (Sans Abbott); Peter Lawford, Margaret Whiting and the Step Brothers.

Channels 11, 12: Ed Sullivan entertains tremendous funny-man-pianist Victor Borge, Benny Goodman, Blossom Seeley and Benny Fields, comic Johnny Carson, comedienne Charlotte Rae, some puppets and a tight wire performer. Screen tests will be shown for the lead role in "Marjorie Morningstar."

9.00: Channels 2, 6: Phyllis Kirk and Arthur Franz star in All-Star Theatre's "Mrs. Wayne Comes to Call." A woman who has just lost her young son, has a difficult time seeing a homeless young waif.

Channel 4: Julie Harris plays St. Joan of Arc in "The Lark." This is a 90-minute color spectacular.

Channel 5: Omnibus presents the folk opera, "The Ballad of Baby Doe," starring Bill Johnson, Virginia Copeland, Martha Lipton and Marjorie Mayer.

Channel 11: James Stewart stars in GE Theatre's "The Town With a Past." An eccentric old woman refuses to give up her abandoned silver mine to the railroad people.

9.30: Channels 2, 6: Murray Matheson appears to play Charles Dickens in "The London of Charles Dickens."

Channel 11: Phyllis Thaxter and Ralph Meeker star in Alfred Hitchcock's "Malice Domestic." Did the dainty young bride start poisoning her proud young husband? Ummm . . .?

AT CROSSROADS?

Ernie Kovacs Yearns To Be A Producer

BY WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UP) — Ernie Kovacs has reached a crossroads.

Within the past year, he has hit solidly as a TV comic. But he wants now to move himself and his cigar out of camera range.

"I want to get behind the camera and NBC seems to want me to do it, too," said Kovacs today. "They're pitching a producer-writer contract at me and the only thing holding it up, I guess, is that I've asked for a little too much money.

"Another thing is, they want to add 'actor' to the terms of the contract. But I've reached a point now where I really don't want to perform too much."

Kovacs a veteran funnyman who has labored in comparative obscurity inside TV gulch, romped off with a recent Sylvania award for the comedy show he turned out on NBC last summer. Last month, he reaped heavy critical applause for a special 30-minute color show on the same network.

"That Sylvania thing was a complete shocker," confessed Ernie. "I thought they had made a mistake. I had three different people call up for me to make sure. And the color show was really gratifying—we got letters from all over the country on that one.

"But you know, stardom in this business is a kind of emphemeral thing. It's so intangible.

"Another thing is that my biggest effort on all my shows goes into the writing. That, and the lighting you're kind of time you get the costumes set and the shots and the action, along with the sets, the sound and he lighting you're kind of lost when it comes to your own place in the show.

"The very last thing you want to do, is go on and do the show. It seems like the least important thing."

Kovacs, who last worked steadily on the old "Tonight" show, currently is filling his time by writing. "I started writing a novel last Thursday," he said, "and a publisher is pretty interested in it already. There's also a chance I may do a Kraft theatre.

"Everything is really quite nebulous now. I'm not even sure whether I'm on the NBC payroll," he laughed happily. "I think—I'm on salary until June. At least I hope so.

"One thing I'm sure of about the future—I'll never take over any show again with a low budget. I've had too much of that in the past.

Brown, Smith Fight For Lightweight Title Wednesday at 7

Mickey Rooney in Thursday Drama; Jack London Series Starts Friday

Verily, verily it would appear indeed as though television has its feast and famine on alternate weeks—this being the week for a minor famine.

Principal highlight belongs to those who dote on the sport of pugs. On Wednesday next at 7 p.m., Channel 5 will produce the fight for the world lightweight crown, champion Joe Brown defending against challenger Wallace Bud Smith. The 15-rounder will be held in Miami Beach, Fla. This is third meeting between the two. Brown won both previous bouts.

On Thursday Mickey Rooney will take the lead in Playhouse 90's "The Comedian." Rooney, one of the most capable actors on the cinematic scene today, will be aided and abetted by Edmond O'Brien and Kim Hunter. It is the tale of a successful TV comic who is hated cordially by all those about him.

On Friday at 8.30, Channel 4 will lead off with the first in a series entitled "Jack London Stories of Captain David Grief." Filmed against the authentic South Sea backgrounds London knew so well, the story relates how Capt. Grief saved an island from decimation at the hands of a feared disease. British-born Maxwell Reed stars as Capt. Grief.

Meanwhile, here are the other highlights in order of their appearance.

To Produce Show

Judy Garland's next movie interest is centred in the best-seller, "Born in Wedlock," to which she and her husband, producer Sid Luft, have the rights. It will be the first independently produced film by the pair.

The book is the work of Margaret Echard. It is described as an "imaginary memoir," involving a turn-of-the-century musical show actress who travels around the country with her two young daughters.

Controversial Film 'The Street' Still May Hit TV

TORONTO (CP)—A spokesman for the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation said recently the CBC is still looking for a suitable time and program to show the controversial film, "The Street," a national film board production about the rehabilitation of a prostitute.

The film was recently withdrawn from the CBC's television program schedule as being unfit for family viewing.

The spokesman said he could not confirm a Winnipeg report that the film will be shown in early March, but said when it is shown, it will be at a time when children are in bed and on a program that would be suited to the film.

Cameron Scores Trans-Mountain Stock Split

OTTAWA (CP)—CCF member Colin Cameron said Friday that a bill to permit Trans-Mountain Oil Pipe Line Company to make a stock split of five shares for one is "a bare-faced attempt to increase the profits of a few individuals."

The Commons, debating private members' bills, was discussing one sponsored by Francis T. Fairey (L-Victoria, B.C.) to permit the company to increase its shares to 25,000,000 from 5,000,000.

An amendment proposed last week by Erhart Regier (CCF-Burnaby-Soquitlanm), that the federal government consider taking over the pipeline, which carries oil between Edmonton and the west coast, was ruled out of order.

Mr. Cameron, opposing a Trans-Mountain stock split, said the company has sold only 1,500,000 shares of the total authorized, and of those only 450,000 had reached the general public.

VALUE INCREASES

When the bill was introduced last week, Mr. Fairey informed the House that since the company's incorporation by Parliament in 1951 its shares had risen in value to $100 from an original $10. A stock split would enable greater public participation in the company's affairs.

Mr. Cameron said the company should first be asked why all the shares authorized by Parliament six years ago have not yet been released, and whether the company is prepared to release them now, and at what price. The bill should be referred to a committee.

"This is not a bona fide attempt to broaden the basis of public support for this company, but a bare-faced attempt to increase the profits of a few individuals," said the member for Nanaimo.

"Capital gains do not come from the thin air. They come from the pockets of the Canadian people. Every dollar we allow these men to take reduces the area from which dollars may be taken for our social-security program."

WANTS EXPLANATION

Elmore Philpott (L, Vancouver South), speaking for Mr. Fairey, who was not in the House, said the bill would only allow the company to run its affairs in the same way as its competitors ran theirs.

Heavy Losses Send Market To 3-Month Low

By RON ANDREWS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canadian stock markets this week suffered their worst setback since last November.

The industrial index on the Toronto Stock Exchange lost nearly nine points, base metals 7½ and western oils 5¾. There were five losses to every two gains.

Traders were discouraged during the entire week as bullish factors of any importance failed to appear. Although trading was faster than the previous week, many issues, especially among industrials, moved on extremely light turnovers.

The markets got off to a bad start. Monday it was coppers which led prices lower. The price of the red metal on the world market was reduced to its lowest level in months near the end of the previous week and the full affect of this reduction was left on the stock market at the beginning of this week.

GRIM PROSPECT

Tuesday former United States president Herbert Hoover triggered wide-spread selling both in Canadian and American markets with his address concerning depression signs detected in the present inflation. The markets suffered their worst single-session loss in more than three months and never recovered during the remaining three days.

At week's end there were few noteworthy gains in any section. And only a few issues—mostly the ones which climbed steadily last month—showed sizeable losses.

Steels were taken back with the decline and had three big losses. Algoma was off $4.50 to $112, Aluminium $3.50 to $112 and Stelco $2.25 to $64.

Trans Mountain Pipe Line, which leaped ahead in the previous week, was swept back by profit-taking. It lost $6.75 at $107. Most other price changes were less than $2. Price Bros. however, managed a $2.25 gain at $55¼ and International Pete added $1.62½ cents at $47.62½.

COPPER DOWN

Three senior base metals had heavy losses—Hudson Bay, $4 to $79.50; International Nickel, $3.75 to $98.50; and Falconbridge, $3.37½ to $35.37½.

Coppers had the biggest declines among other mining groups. Losses ranged to $1 and several stocks were down between 35 and 60 cents. Pronto Uranium dipped 40 cents to $5.90 and Gunnar lost 1.87½ at $18.75. The most active stock was Atlin - Ruffner, which gained one cent at 69 cents. It traded more than 3,300,000 shares. Including 1,400,000 Monday when it touched $1.02.

Mention of Inflation Controls Puts Retailers in Jittery Mood

By WALTER BREEDE JR.?

NEW YORK (AP)—Talk of inflation, deflation and possible wage and price controls posed new questions for U.S. businessmen this week.

Former president Herbert Hoover warned that it could happen again.

Hoover repeated Treasury Secretary George Humphrey's warning that big federal budgets, if long continued, will produce "a depression that will curl your hair."

Questions about the future were also raised by President Eisenhower.

The president said if business and labor can't contrl inflation, the federal government will have to move in with controls.

Many businessmen jumped to the conclusion that he meant wage and price controls.

Cries of protest from retailers brought this assurance from Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks: "There is no disposition in this administration" to crack down with wage and price controls.

Even so, the mere mention of inflation controls was enough to give retailers the jitters.

Backgrounding inflation talk was a generally - mixed business picture.

Soft spots included: A decline in freight carloadings, lagging sales of appliances and television sets, a continued slump in home building, and a shaky stock market.

Latest reports on unemployment showed job totals slipping behind 1956 levels.

On the plus side, the steel industry was roaring along at near capacity and auto production was picking up. Spending on new construction in January touched a high despite the home building lag.

Consumer spending continued to top the 1956 rate.

Ford reported net profit of $236,500,000, down 46 per cent from 1955.

Chrysler's net of just under $20,000,000 was off a whopping 80 per cent.

In each instance, total sales were below record peaks of 1955.

Briefly over the business scene:

Average weekly wage of U.S. factory workers $82.41, down $1.64 from December . . . a federal grand jury will look into the recent increase in oil prices. RCA has developed an electronic computer that will tell retailers when, what and at what price they should buy — provided these first feed the machine the proper information.

Summer Training For 5th Battery Set for Mainland

For the first time in its peacetime history 5 Medium Battery (recently 5 Harbor Defence Battery) will take its summer training off Vancouver Island.

With its conversion to a mobile field artillery unit, the battery must concentrate for summer training where there is a firing range and area in which it can manoeuvre with other militia units.

Usual summer camp for other units in Alberta and B.C. is Camp Wainwright, Alberta.

B.C. Area commander, Brig. J. W. Bishop indicated after his inspection of the unit this week the 5th would soon be receiving its two 155 mm. field weapons, which will enable the 80 active gunners to familiarize themselves with their operation by summer.

THOU (COUGARS) SHALT NOT PASS

Amerks Just Lack Feeling for Drama

Cats Blanked As Francis Steals Show

Seattle 2, Victoria 0

By DENNY BOYD

Victoria Cougars Friday night finally drew the audience they have been waiting for all season but a chorus of Seattle Americans stole the stage, crabbed the act and loused up the script.

With over 3,800 fans in the pews, the biggest Cougar crowd of the season, a Victoria win would have been a smash hit in any reviewer's book. But Seattle went and knocked the ratings askew by sneaking off with a 2-0 victory.

The salve that might ease the pain of disappointment for the Cougars would be that they were beaten by a red-hot team and an equally hot goalie, Emil Francis, and that Vancouver Canucks also lost Friday.

Vancouver's loss, their first in three games on the prairies this week, left the Cougars still one point out of third place, a deficit that could be swallowed up tonight when the Cougars play a return game at Seattle while the Canucks visit Brandon, home of the prairie division-leading Regals.

Two great goalies, Francis and Victoria's Marcel Pelletier, locked horns here Friday night and when it was over, Francis wore the sharper horns. Pelletier's were dulled slightly by more work and the two goals that meant defeat.

SECOND TIME

Pelletier stopped 36 shots while Francis was leak-proof on 29 to score his second shutout of the season against the Cougars.

The Cougars had their chances, plenty of them, in the first period but Francis was always ready with an argument and the Victoria club never did put their point across.

Indication of what was to come was given early. After eight minutes of the first period, Pelletier kicked out a ticketed shot by Ray Kinasewich on a breakaway and on the return rush, Francis bolted the door securely on a stiff shot and a rebound by Gordie Haworth.

Cougars were short-handed after two successive penalties when Seattle's Mr. Big, Guyle Fielder, scored the only goal that was necessary.

He snapped in a low shot on Alex Kuzma's rebound as the Cougars were bunched around Pelletier, trying to throw up a cordon of bodies against the Seattle broadsides.

Cougars had two more big chances in the second period, Bruce Carmichael firing into Francis' voluminous pads on a promising chance and Wayne Brown chipping paint off the post with one of his slingshot drives during a Cougar power play. And then in the third period, Francis snatched a dangerous shot out of the top corner from a long blueline drive by Nels Bulloch.

His American teammates showed their appreciation for Francis' efforts when they gave him a little more padding to work with.

EXTRA GOAL

On an all-out Cougar ganging attack, Art Hart intercepted and was off and flying from the Seattle blueline. Showing a tremendous burst of speed, Cougar defenceman Lionel Heinrich caught up to Hart, half-checked his shot and Pelletier kicked the puck out of the crease.

However, Bruce Lea hot-footed in from the opposite wing and pushed back the rebound for the goal that was wheat in the bin for Seattle.

The Victoria fans found something to cheer about in the third period in the return to action of veteran centre Ray Powell, who was dressed for the first time since suffering a broken arm before Christmas.

Pivoting Brown and Larry Leach, and dealing off passes with the deftness of a card-shark, Powell gave Francis and the Seattle defence some anxious moments.

TOP-NOTCH SPLASHERS DIG FOR CITY CROWNS

The cream of Victoria's swimming talent will be on display at the Crystal Garden tonight for the annual city championships.

Competing in the 32-event program will be splashers from YMCA, Victoria Amateur Swimming Club and Navy.

Bob Wheaton will make an attempt to retain the Jack Todd Trophy in the boys' under-17 medley swim, while Gail Parker and Alice Genge, who tied for the Todd Trophy for the girls' medley swim last year, will also be back for a try at another medley title.

Two other featured events will be the junior boys' and girls' relay races for the Canadian Legion trophies.

Starting time is 7 p.m.

WARRIORS PULL SURPRISE

Canucks Lurch, But Not Royals

By The Canadian Press

The law of averages caught up with Vancouver Canucks Friday night but New Westminster Royals thumbed their noses at the odds.

In the 200-odd games played so far this season in the Western Hockey League, the home team has won two out of three games.

But New Westminster cut down the margin Friday night as they edged Edmonton Flyers, 6-5, before 3,904 Edmonton fans.

Canucks, who previously had won seven out of 10 games played on the Prairie tour, dropped a 1-0 decision to the Warriors in Winnipeg.

Murray Wilkie surprised about 3,000 Winnipeg fans and Vancouver goalie Ray Mikulan when he scored Warriors' only goal, a 20-foot sizzler in the third period.

The victory didn't help Warriors much. They are still in the Prairie division basement nine points back of Calgary Stampeders.

TWO FOR FASHOWAY

The Royals victory over Edmonton brought no change in the league standing but it increased New Westminster's lead over the third-place Canucks to six points.

Gord Fashoway's second goal of the night in the final period proved the winner. Other Royal marksmen were Bobby Love, Arlo Goodwin, Denny Olson and Ollie Dorohoy.

Flyers counted goals by Tom McCarthy, Jerry Melnyk, Bill McCreary, Don Poile and Tony Leswick.

Goalie Bev Bentley was spectacular in the Royal cage and he also drew a couple of penalties, one for holding the puck. The second came two minutes later when anxious Bev juggled the puck over the boards. Royals protested the resulting penalty by throwing 14 hockey sticks on the ice.

Histamines May Dictate Bert's Badminton Fate

By DOUG PEDEN

When you hear of histamines, you usually think of hospitals, drug stores or television commercials.

Yet, the little fellows which make habit of running around inside Bert Fergus may have a lot to say about who packs home the men's singles title when the British Columbia badminton tournament at Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club winds up Sunday.

The histamines residing in the slender Lulu Island school teacher's system are unpredictable types which decide the state of his bronchial asthma. When they're good, Bert's asthma is good. When they act up and charge out of Bert's tissues, his badminton suffers, and so does Bert.

Sometimes his allergy keeps him out of action for several weeks, but right now the histamines are behaving and this could be the time he finally turns the tables on Dave McTaggart, reigning Canadian champion and top seeded in the B.C. tourney.

Fergus doesn't blame his asthma for the fact that he doesn't yet own a tournament singles victory over McTaggart. He has felt in good condition for several of his losing encounters with the drop-shot artist from Vancouver. "Dave's just got all the shots," he explained while waiting to go on the court Friday night.

"But I'm feeling better than I have for a couple of years," he said. "This might be the time. It could be now or never."

Owner of a remarkably flexible wrist and a master of doubles play, Fergus is a badminton rarity in that his backhand shots are rated stronger than those coming off his forehand. He had litle trouble winning his opening match against Norman Hughes, 15-6, 15-8 and if he can get by the quarter-final round today, should meet McTaggart in the semis tonight.

MCTAGGART WINS

McTaggart served notice that it will be a tough chore to keep him from wresting the singles crown away from Vancouver's Johnny Bouck as he polished off Eain Lamont UBC, 15-0, 15-2.

Bouck, expected to meet Seattle's Don Davis in the semis, moved past Victoria junior Warren Bell, 15-2, 15-7, while Davis advanced to the quarter-finals with a 15-5, 15-2 victory over T. Johnston.

McTaggart believes the strongest opposition in his attempt to regain the singles crown he won two years ago could come from Fergus.

"Bert is undoubtedly the best doubles player in Canada," the Thomas Cup star remarked. "If it wasn't for his asthma troubles, he would probably be the best singles player, to."

One thing will be working on the side of Bert's allergy since the histamines work most efficiently when Fergus is over-tired.

He is paired with McTaggart in the men's doubles and defending the mixed doubles title with Lois Reid. If he gets to the finals in three events, Fergus will have played eight more matches before semifinals are completed tonight. And badminton as currently being practiced at the Amphion Street courts isn't exactly a leisurely pastime.

However, if the little troublemakers behave and Bert finds the confidence in singles that his ability warrants, this could possibly be the time.

VICTORIA HOPES DIMMED AS HURD INJURES ANKLE

One of Victoria's main hopes for top honors in the B.C. badminton tournament at Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club may be out of the running, although unbeaten on the courts.

Harvey Hurd, the 16-year-old city open champion, defeated Rupe Topp of Seattle in his opening singles match but sprained his ankle in the process, and was carried from the court.

Hurd, scheduled to play in the Canadian junior tournament at Kingston next month, had the ankle taped and returned to win a mixed doubles match. But it was swollen badly at the finish and Hurd was a doubtful starter in today's matches.

GAINS SECTION FINAL

Duncan's Tony Still a Threat

NELSON (CP) — Dick Topping of Kamloops was eliminated from further competition in the British Columbia Curling Championships here Friday when he lost to Bill Croft of Summerland, 10-9.

The win advanced Croft to the finals of the B section of the play-downs along with Tony Folk of Duncan. Folk beat Ray Mathieson of Kimberley 10-9.

The losses eliminate Mathieson and Topping from the double knockout competition.

Late Friday night, the primary A Diamond Jubilee event was won by Reg Stone of Trail who beat Eric Bisgrove of Kimberley 12-9 with a six-ender in the 12th.

Stone was tumbled from the unbeaten ranks with a 9-7 loss to Topping in the B section.

Friday, Mathieson topped Coates 8-6 in a game that was tied 6-6 coming home.

Croft eliminated Clarence Larsen of Chilliwack by handing the Fraser Valley skip his second loss. Folk took Bill Carmichael of Prince George out of the competition with an 8-3 win over the northern rink. Score of the Croft-Larson game was 9-5.

MEETING CAUGHT COLD

Shamrock Ideas Cooly Received

(Special to the Times)

VANCOUVER—Victoria Shamrocks tossed a fresh theory at the Intercity Lacrosse League here Friday night and got trimmed for their troubles.

Shamrocks suggested rule changes—daring and immediate.

Specifically: 1—The game needs two field judges and only one referee to solve the referee problem by saturation. 2—Players must have two hands on the stick and keep 'em there. 3—A time limit of 30 seconds should be imposed on the team with possession of the ball. Unless a shot is taken in that time the team loses possession.

While the 24th annual general meeting tittered nervously, president Carl Grauer got up. "I for one am in no position to comment on these suggestions," he said darkly. "I don't feel any of us are. I now formally ask that member clubs discuss such proposals before our meetings rather than catching us cold."

It was no complete rebuff, though, if results count. Grauer said a meeting will be held in Nanaimo on March 3.

ANOTHER CHANCE

At that meeting the Victoria ideas will be sternly probed. So will another by Nanaimo's Canadian champions.

The Timbermen advocate a travelling pool based on action at the gate. At season's end the pool would be emptied to soothe financial travelling wounds.

Most vital to the playing aspect of lacrosse were Victoria's unique propositions. "We have to change our thinking about the game," insisted Victoria spokesman Arnie Ferguson, tall and gaunt and serious. "The fans aren't satisfied.

No more complex were the elections. The entire executive was returned, starting with president Grauer and continuing south. Tommy Gordon, secretary-treasurer; Bill Dickinson, vice-president; and Ed Popham Sr., Bus Matthews and Art Jefferd, commissioners.

The 1957 season will be preceded by an exhibition game, with all proceeds going to the Tommy White fund.

The defending Canadian champion Nanaimo Timbermen will take on a bundle of predestined trouble when they face an all-star team made up from the other three league teams. The money gained will go to the widow and family of former Timberman White, killed recently in an auto accident.

Climbs Off Floor to Win

NEW YORK (AP) — Isidro Martinez, a switch-hitting featherweight from Panama, brushed off a second-round knockdown to stop Bobby Courchesne of Holyoke, Mass., in 32 seconds of the 10th round Friday night at Madison Square Garden. Martinez weighed 129, Courchesne 129½.

Stan Leonard at Peak, Will Enter U.S. Open

VANCOUVER, Feb. 9 (BUP) — Stan Leonard, Canada's top golfer, for the first time in his career plans to enter this year's United States open, the continent's top prestige tournament.

Leonard, who lived in Vancouver and until recently served as professional at Lachute, P.Q., made the announcement Friday after returning here for a brief break from the winter circuit.

He passed up the $15,000 Tucson Open after recently picking up a total of $2,740 in prize-money in the Bing Crosby Pro-Amateur, the Tia Juana tournament, the Thunderbird Invitational and the Phoenix Open.

In these four tourneys, comprising a total of 15 rounds, Leonard compiled a 70.5 stroke average for what he called "the best golf of my life."

Leonard said he plans to enter the qualifying round for the U.S. Open, scheduled for the Inverness Club at Toledo, O., June 13-15. He said he planned to pass up next week's Texas Open, and fly to Houston, Tex., for the $36,000 Houston Open Feb. 21-24.

He will compete as an "unattached" professional. His contract with the Lachute Country Club recently expired.

Five-Pinners Scorch Planks

That odor of overheated wood down Esquimalt way this week didn't rate any attention from the hose and ladder laddies. It was only the work of a bunch of five-pinners warming up the lanes for the Vancouver Island tournament.

Larry Marshall's Esquimalt Bowladrome won't host the second annual Island fivepin meet until early April, but if the way the pins were bouncing around this week is any criterion, Larry's liable to have a bit of scorched wood on his hands before the tourney rolls around.

Geoff Worrall came the closest to committing arson as he sizzled through a 953 triple and followed up a couple of days later with an 821 effort. In all, a total of 32 games over 700 were cooked up on the eight-alley layout.

In his 953 performance, Worrall started with 383, had 236 in his second game despite being left with six corner pins and finished with 334.

Tony Bishop, who shared the Island doubles title last year, was next in line with an 808 three-game score, which included a 318 single.

Also hitting 725 or over at Esquimalt were D. Moseley 761, Phil Young 749 (307), Fred Worseley 744 (330), J. Frampton 743, Norm Martin 732, Ben Price 725 and Hazel Chamberlain, who set the pace for the gentler sex with a 736 triple, including a 314 single.

★ ★ ★

There were also a pair of over-800 triples registered at Capital City Bowladrome. Jim Thorburn spilled the maples for 821 and Don Marshall racked up 805. Ollie Rogers came close with 797, Jim Douglas had 792, Walter Wigg 785, Gordie Ball 778, Doug Romkey 766, Marge Berry 757, Art Barry 734, Bob McKnight 732, Bob Green 732, Des Nex 709, Jerry Brown 709, and Irma Ronden 704.

At Strathcona Alleys, Ted Sneizek had a 773 triple with a 332 single.

Ken Munn, operating in the commercial loop at Gibson's Bowladrome, posted the high tenpin score of the week, hitting 585 with a 234 single. John Pickburn 571, P. Graham 547, Chuck Bennett 542 (210), and H. Hazzard 540 (200) also rolled notable commercial league scores.

In Gibson's senior tenpin it was Herb Chandler setting the pace with a 583 (236) triple. Then came Bill Holness 576 (222), B. Odgers 568 (213), R. Bridger 556 (205), Gordie Bamford 545, Cass Sapala 551, Len Murrant 554, Roy Begg 546, Kenn Munn 577, Wilbur Webb 546 (210), B. Coates 547 and Bud Marty 572.

Tom Sparks posted a 560 triple to lead the way in Gibson's mixed tenpin trundling, Jack Hobby had 559, Bill Holness 550 (200), and Len Murrant 547 (207). Mona Corbett led the ladies with a 510 effort. In the ladies' tenpin loop, Gladys Cornthwaite registered a 542 triple with a 198 single.

★ ★ ★

Bells Mean Nothing To Nino and Kitione

LONDON (AP) — Kitione Lave of Tonga lasted one round as a sparring partner for Cuban heavyweight Nino Valdes Friday and went out looking for a new job. But, man, what a round!

It was like one of those boxing matches you heard about in the bare-knuckle days. The bell rang—end of round one. But nothing changed. The two giants just kept on slugging, each getting angrier and angrier with every punch.

Some 100 fans watched in open-mouthed astonishment at the Leroy Street gym as the bell clanged again and again but the fighters refused to quit. Then Tobey Noble, 218-pound owner of the gym, dived through the ropes and grabbed Valdes. Dave Edar, Valdes' manager, pounced into the ring on the other side and grabbed Lave. The two boxers were finally shoved apart and escorted out of the ring.

Valdes said Lave, just hired as a sparring partner, was roughing it up more than necessary. Lave said it was the other way around—Valdes was giving him "the works."

Both agreed to shake hands later, but Valdes, who is training for his London fight with British heavyweight champion Joe Erskine Feb. 19, said Lave had better look for another job.

Lave, a minister's son, and a favorite of Tonga's Queen Salota, said it was the shortest job he's ever held. The crowd in the gym said it was terrific.

Dead-Shot Vikings Face Stingy Cadets

By IAN SMITH

Vic College Vikings and Royal Roads Cadets clash in the finals of the annual Interscholastic Basketball Tournament at Vic High tonight.

At stake is the Times Trophy, won last year by Vic High Totems.

Totems were eliminated by College, 71-38, while Royal Roads trounced Oak Bay High School, 70-33, in Friday night's first-round games.

Tonight's final at 8.30 will match a team that seldom misses a shot matched against a squad that controls the ball as if they own it.

In the first game Friday, Royal Roads used the first quarter principally to get acquainted with the court and then passed their way into the finals with a skill seldom witnessed in prep tourneys.

Trailing 11-9 at the close of the first period, the Cadets suddenly found themselves and proceeded to dazzle Gary Taylor's Oak Bay team with their fancy dribbling and passing techniques.

At halftime the score stood at 28-18 for Royal Roads, and by the three-quarter mark the count had jumped to 50-29.

Gary Jacob led the winners with 20 points, while Peter Rosewarn chipped in 16. Jack Showers dumped in 14 points for the Bays.

NO BETTER OFF

Vic High fared no better in the second contest than Oak Bay had in the first, but for a different reason—Vic College just couldn't seem to miss.

While both clubs left little to be desired with their ball handling, Totems could not match the superb shooting shown by the Vikings.

The game started off on an even keel as both Vikings and Totems used their shots to advantage, and at the first-quarter whistle College led by only a 16-11 margin.

From then on things went differently, however, and as the College attack waxed fat and sassy the Totem offence petered out to a mere trickle. It was 36-18 for Vikings at the half.

Bob Tomlinson and Waldo Skillings both hooped 18 points in leading all College scorers, while centre Dave Wilson dropped in nine for the losers.

Losing squad in tonight's final clash receive the Bob Whyte runner-up trophy, while Vic High tackles Oak Bay in a consolation game at 7.30 to determine third and fourth positions in the tourney.

Most valuable player in the tournament will be awarded the H. L. Smith Trophy, last year won by Tomlinson when he performed his chores for Totems.

Scorers follow:

Royal Roads—Colin Sangster (2), Ed Hare (2), Wayne Wharton (2), Gary Jacob (20), Peter Rosewarn (16), Marks McAvity (12), Tony Manson (8), Cal Conner (6), Dave Bell (2). Total—70.

Oak Bay—Jack Showers (14), Roland Hawes (4), Jack McKay (11), Bernie Johnston (4). Total—33.

Vic College—Bob Tomlinson (18), Waldo Skillings (18), Art Chiko (8), Ed Kowalyk (6), Tom English (8), Doug Flynn (4), Terry Lore (2), Ken Brousseau, Ken McCulloch (6). Total—71.

Vic High—John Devlin (6), Dave Wilson (9), Dick Austin (4), Ron Pederson (6), Darrell Lorimer (7), Dave Skillings (2), Willie Wong (4). Total—38.

Viking Views

By ROBIN FARQUHAR

Tonight, the Victoria College men's basketball team plays in the finals of the inter-scholastic tournament at Vic High.

If what they say about experience being the best teacher is true, then the Vikings are definitely the best educated team in the tournament. From past records, it is obvious that they learned their lessons well.

Let's take a brief squint at the five first-string members.

First, there's lanky Bob Tomlinson, six foot-three inch centre. Bob has played in three inter-scholastic tournaments, so this year is his fourth appearance. Two years ago, he made the inter-scholastic all-star team, and last year he repeated.

But big Bob wasn't satisfied with his all-star appointment last year, so he went one better, and won the most valuable player award as well. If he continues to improve, Laurie Wallace and the other judges are going to have a rough time trying to find an award for him this year.

And then there's Waldo Skillings, who tops Tomlinson by half an inch, and fills the right forward spot on the Vikings' squad. A former Vancouver Island all-star, Waldo is making his fourth appearance in the tourney.

The other forward is last year's Most Valuable Player award-winner in the Vancouver Island tournament, Art Chiko. During his two years with the Vic High Totems, Chiko played in the inter-scholastic, so this is the third time for the southpaw with the radar-aimed jump shot.

And now, retreating back to the guard line, we bump into another veteran of the inter-scholastic wars. Ed Kowalyk is also enjoying his fourth year of competition in the tournament. Last year Eddy earned himself a spot on the all-star team along with Tomlinson.

In the other guard position is Tom English, who has been Kowalyk's running mate for so long that when they are on the floor, they think and act like one person. And that one person is a top-notch ball player.

Tom is the captain of the Vikings this year, and has recuperated from a Christmas holiday appendix removal. This is also the fourth year for English in the inter-scholastic.

With experience like this behind the Vikings, they must do one of two things: either get stale, or walk away with the Times Trophy and top tourney honors. This question will be answered tonight, with the finals commencing at 8.30.

★ ★ ★

Last Tuesday, Vikings downed Chemainus Junior Men by 30 points in the first game of a home-and-home series for the Lower Island Junior Men's title.

They will travel to Chemainus next Tuesday for the return match and, if successful, will then meet Alberni for the Island championship.

In other basketball action, College's second team was well trounced by a greatly improved Royal Roads unit. In their previous encounter, the Norsemen had topped the cadets by 11 points.

The Roads volleyball team was also successful, as they took two straight games from the College in a best-of-three series.

Also in volleyball, College's two women's teams hosted UBC, and Ganges, Oak Bay, Victoria, Esquimalt and Mt. View High Schools in an eight-team tournament this afternoon at Lansdowne Junior High School.

★ ★ ★

College's water-polo team is developing into a unit of top-notch splashers, according to their coach. The team has shown favorably in practice and it is hoped that they will play an exhibition game with the navy within the next month.

Packers Lose Two In Riotous Game

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP)—Kelowna Packers downed Vernon Canadians, 11-4, in an Okanagan Senior Hockey League game here Friday night that saw two Packers knocked out for the rest of the season with injuries.

The game saw 20 minor penalties, four majors, a 10-minute misconduct, two game misconducts and two match penalties.

Moe Young, former Packer coach, scored four goals before leaving the game with a match misconduct. He was involved in a ruckus with Johnny Harms.

Mike Durban suffered a broken jaw, sidelining him for the third straight year as OSHL playoffs approach, when he collided with the elbow of Frank King.

RIBS BROKEN

Bill Swarbrick picked up two or three broken ribs when he took a stiff body check from Ted Lebodia and was crashed into the boards.

Bugs Jones, of Kelowna, played the best game of his career, picking up seven points.

Kelowna led 3-2 at the end of the first on two goals by Young and one by Jones. Vernon's counters were made by Art Davison and Odie Lowe.

In the second frame Brian Roche, Joe Kaiser and Young with two scored for Kelowna.

Rookie Al Schaefer picked up two in the third and Roche and Orv Lavell added singletons. For Vernon, Sherman Blair and Don McLeod picked up singles.

Al Balding Four Strokes Off Leader

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Toronto professional Al Balding fired a four-under-par 66 in the second round of the $15,000 Tucson Open golf tournament Friday but landed four strokes behind the leader.

Balding had a 69 Thursday for a 36-hole score of 135, and is the only one of eight Canadians entered still close to the big money, as American pros tore the par 70 to shreds.

Billy Casper Jr. of Bonita, Calif., holed a 45-foot chip shot on the 18th green for a 65, which added to his first-round count of 66 put him in front with 131.

Bob Harris of Winnetka, Ill., had 68-64—132 for second spot.

Jack Kay of Montreal finished the round with the second-best score among the Canadians, 69-70—139.

Other Canadian scores were: Gerry Kesselring, Kitchener, 70-71—141; Bill Mawhinney, Vancouver, 71-70—141; Bob Wylie, Calgary, 75-69—144; John Hendrick, Ottawa, 72-74—146; George Knudson, Winnipeg, 77-70—147, and Muray Tucker, Toronto, 73-76—149.

Skeet Series Opens Sunday

Victoria Gun Club will send a strong team to Vancouver Gun Club Sunday for the opening round of a four-shoot skeet series with teams from Lynden and Bellingham, Wash.; Vancouver and New Westminster.

Other rounds will be held later this season at New Westminster, Lynden and Bellingham.

Representing the Victoria club will be Bill Pearsall, B.C. all-gauge skeet champion; Ted Bailey, the Vancouver Island all-gauge champ; Dib Noble, holder of the 20-gauge provincial crown; Henry Pottinger, runner-up to Noble in the B.C. shoot, and Hugh Neuman.

DUSSELDORF, West Germany (Reuters) — The United States amateur hockey team touring Europe scored a 12-3 win over a West German team Friday night.

Bum Today or Any Day Says Dick of 'Fixer'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Boxer Dick Goldstein threw welterweight Art Aragon's fight-fixing trial into an uproar Friday by calling him "a bum."

Superior Judge Hebert V. Walker twice threatened to clear the courtroom of spectators, saying it was "not a place of amusement."

Goldstein charges that Aragon offered him $500 to "take a dive" in their scheduled bout at San Antonio, Tex., last Dec. 18. The fight was cancelled when Aragon said he was ill.

The furore began when Aragon's lawyer, Paul Caruso, asked Goldstein whether he had said: "Aragon is a bum. Before I'm through with him he'll be off the sports pages."

Goldstein said he had not threatened Aragon's career but added:

"I called him a bum many times."

"You feel he is a bum today?" asked Caruso.

"Yes," Goldstein replied.

Goldstein had testified earlier that Aragon told him that if he changed his mind about the purported fix "my life wouldn't be worth two cents."

It was difficult to tell whether the players or kibitizers were having the most fun at Strathcona Bowling Alleys Friday. A group of 25 old-age pensioners were guests of the alleys for a session of fivepins and all agreed it was one of the bright spots in their week. (Photo by Bill Halkett.)

ABSENT-MINDED PUNTERS FORGET MILLION BUCKS

BALTIMORE (AP)—Horse players tossed away more than $1,000,000 last year—not counting what they lost on horses that didn't finish in the money.

The money represents winnings bettors failed to collect.

They either forgot or didn't realize their nag was in the money—or lost their winning pari-mutuel tickets.

Figures compiled by the National Association of State Racing Commissioners show this carelessness enriched treasuries by $1,231,052 in 10 leading racing states.

NO CROWDS, NO MONEY

UBC Facing Drastic Athletic Cut-Down

VANCOUVER (CP)—The University of British Columbia may be forced to drop its entire extramural athletic program, a students' spokesman said today.

Stan Beck, chairman of a committee appointed to study the university's athletic program, said students are paying about $33,000 a year for outside sports activities "yet every year the crowds get smaller. We feel that they could put their money into something more gratifying."

If UBC decided to abandon its outside athletic program, it would end intercollegiate competition with other Canadian universities and the Evergreen Conference, a group of universities in the Pacific Northwest of the United States. The Evergreen Conference holds competitions in basketball, football, skiing and swimming.

Don Jabour, president of the students' council, said it would be unfair to ask the 7,400 students for more money. The UBC administration, which pays for the school of physical education and meets expenses of sports competition within the campus, hasn't any additional money, he added.

Any recommendation of the committee would be submitted to a vote among students, Jabour said.

SHOT IN POPULARITY ARM

Video Hockey Wowing Yanks

By The Canadian Press

Television, which has been blamed for the slow death of some sports, apparently is acting as a shot in the arm for hockey in the United States.

That at any rate is the reaction in hockey centres after the first five of a scheduled 10 nationally-televised National Hockey League games.

This afternoon in Boston the colorful Montreal Canadiens were to be screened in a game with Boston Bruins. Their free-wheeling style of play should cause the game's ratings to shoot even higher.

Columbia Broadcasting System executives have been delighted with such reactions as this one from a LaMarque, Tex., viewer:

"I have been wishing all my life for a chance to see ice hockey . . . this is the peak in sports enjoyment. . . ."

OWNERS PLEASED

Owners of minor league and NHL clubs have been just as pleased by subsequent effects in attendance figures.

In the American League Hershey Bears turned away 1,000 customers one night, Rochester Americans had a record 7,203 Friday night, and Cleveland Barons played to their first full house this season.

Even in Chicago, perenially in the NHL doldrums, attendance jumped to 11,143 Sunday night after the Black Hawks appeared in a Saturday telecast.

The number of stations taking the program has grown from 59 the first week to the present total of 113.

DON'T HIDE FIGHTS

One of the apparent reasons given for the game's popularity is the cameraman's instruction to keep his lens on the brawls, unlike U.S. pro football telecasts in which the director shies away from fights.

Other cities in Canada have received recent publicity for the scoring records of their youthful hockey players, but Victoria also has a few youngsters who have learned how to fire the puck in oppenents' nets with regularity.

Most prolific scorer in the Greater Victoria Minor Hockey Association this season is Mike Woodley, who has collected 33 goals and 11 assists in 13 bantam league games.

Mike's brother, Dave, has managed 16 goals in 14 peewee league games but has to yield honors to Paul Bion, with a 21-goal record and Wayne Anderson, a 19-goal performer.

ENTHUSIASTIC GROUP

The peewee players are the most enthusiastic group in the 300-player Victoria minor puck program and are forced to operate with 28 players to each team during their once-a-week games at Memorial Arena. This means that each player averages about 10 minutes of playing time each week, which makes Bion's record an imposing one.

It is to help all Victoria's young hockey hopefuls that the Victoria Minor Hockey Association is staging its annual "Minor Hockey Night" at Memorial Arena Monday night in conjunction with the "Young Canada Hockey Week" being observed across Canada.

All proceeds from Monday night's program will be used to provide equipment and travelling expenses for teams in the association.

ALL-STARS CLASH

Highlighting the night will be a game between Victoria and Nanaimo midget all-star teams, which is due to start at 9.15.

Proceedings get under way at 7 with a game between two city bantam teams and will be followed at 7.30 by a peewee league tussle.

Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross will take part in the official opening ceremonies at 8.15.

Entertainment will be provided by the S. J. Willis Junior High School Band and several door prizes will be given to lucky ticket buyers.

Another peewee tussle is scheduled to start at 8.30 and an exhibition tussle between junior and juvenile teams, which starts at 10.15, will wind up the program.

Fraser Wins 3-Mile Run

Lanky Ian Fraser loped over a three-mile cross country course in 16 minutes 38 seconds Friday afternoon at Vic High as he won the annual interhouse race for House II.

In second spot was chunky Ed Pomeroy, who galloped home in 17.23 for House III, while Monty Vanden carried House IV's banner into third spot with an 18.00 clocking.

Trailing were Bruce Simpson, Jack Horn, Norman Hamilton, Peter Roche, and Ray Ford.

Closing Gap

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Rochester moved to within one point of third-place Hershey Friday night by rallying to defeat Buffalo Bisons 6-3 in an American Hockey League game.

A crowd of 7,203 — the largest ever to watch a hockey game in Rochester—jammed the War Memorial Stadium.

"WHITE TIE AND TAILS"

By Maurice Humber

In white tie & tails, it's fun to step out,
Makes you feel gay . . . & a gad-a-bout.
You get away from TV & a microphone,
So all the ad-libs . . . are your very own.
And then as you waltz to the ballad-makers,
So hauntingly played by Maestro Len Acres,
You suddenly feel a new urge to life,
Despite the fact . . . your partner's your wife.
She even smells different all close & bent,
Something she chose with a more heady scent.
So you forget you're a husband, her ear you bite,
And you find yourself, sort of pulling her tight.
And you don't feel silly after all these years,
And you start "shootin' a line," without any fears.
But she doesn't want to talk . . . she's in a trance,
All she wants . . . to do . . . is dance.
All dames are the same . . . brunettes . . . blondes or henna,
They dream they're dancin' in old Vienna.
So,—they let themselves go, throw back their head,
Swept by the Danube . . . 'tho the guy's only Fred.
Who tries like crazy to catch the same mood,
'Tho he's mostly dreaming, about when they serve food.
'Tho a bit mixed up in his fancy cos-tume,
And fighting all the time that new per-fume.
And when you get home, & you're nearly dead,
And you kick off your shoes, & flop on the bed,
Your last glimpse of "her" 'ere sleep does entomb,
She's swirling past the mirror . . . waltzin' ROUND THE ROOM.

FIX-IT FORUM

Q—How can we remove a yellowish stain which appears near the drain in our bathroom washbowl?—J. M.

A—You might try making a solution, using turpentine and a quantity of salt. Scrub vigorously with a soft cloth soaked in this solution.

Q—Several windows in our new home stick and bind. Is there any way to correct this other than by having them taken out and planed?—R.C.

A—By no means, DO NOT have them taken out unless it's obvious that the windows are out of line. As lumber in your home dries during the next several months, they'll undoubtedly work with ease to spare. For the present, purchase one of the several stick-type lubricants now in the market and rub along sash track of windows affected.

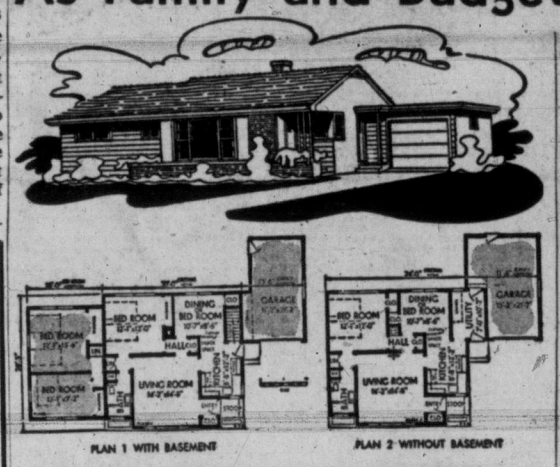
This Plan Allows for Stretching As Family and Budget Expand



Illustrated here is an expanded home (shaded portions in the plan show the additions in detail). The original plan designed especially for the small family, provided two bedrooms, living room and kitchen.

With the bedroom wing added however, the child's bedroom in the original, by eliminating the folding partition, can become a dining room in convenient proximity to the kitchen.

The small, four-room cottage thus easily becomes, when need arises and budget allows, a lovely rambling ranch-type home.

Blueprints are available from The Loder Company, Revillon Building, Edmonton.

ARCHITECTS SHOULD BE HUMANISTS

BANFF, Alta. (CP)—An internationally-known architect and anuthor says homes should be designed to suit people and where possible the design should consider such things as high blood pressure and coronory disorders of potential residents.

Richard J. Neutra of Los Angeles told more than 40 Canadian and American architects attending a conference here recently that architecture is a human pursuit. He advised architects to make a study of people and develop an approach which would win the confidence of clients.

WEEK'S WORK

By JACK BEASTALL

Pruning and spraying of fruit trees to be done on the first suitable day.

Many bedding plants may be propagated now by taking cuttings from plants overwintered in porch or greenhouse; heliotrope, fuchsia, ageratum, lobelia, agathea, pelargonium (all types of pot geraniums).

Sow seed indoors of Dianthus heddewigii (Japanese pink) and D. chinensis (Indian pink). Both are best treated as annuals, are very showy, but have no perfume as most other pinks.

Potted ferns just showing new growth and which need repotting, should be done at once.

Take cuttings (two to three inches long) of Chrysanthemum frutescens (Paris daisy, or yellow marguerite). Root under glass jar in a warm place (70 deg. F.).

BEASTALL ADVISES

Proper Prune-Spray Sequence Should Be Prepared for Now

By JACK BEASTALL

The main work on the gardener's calendar for February is the spraying and pruning of fruit trees and the collection of scion wood for grafting later in the season.

While pruning may be done at any time during the dormant season, that is, between leaf fall and the starting of bud growth, in our climate it is preferable to leave it until late in the season to prevent early forcing of the growth should the weather remain mild.

Jack Beastall

When spraying is done after pruning has been completed, there is less wood to be covered, the insects are more susceptible because they are nearer the stage of activity, and a better job is possible after the trees have been cleared of superfluous wood.

The most difficult part of the job is possibly the selecting of suitable weather. Frosty weather should be avoided if possible for pruning, and spraying is not effective if rain falls within 24 hours after the work is completed. A good spray job is also impossible when a wind is blowing.

JUMP AHEAD

However, we do have short periods of suitable weather during February, and the gardener with everything in readiness is the one who can take advantage of the breaks.

See that the supply of spray concentrates are adequate, test the sprayer with plain water, sharpen secateurs and pruning saws; check the condition of ladders and steps and have a few boards or planks handy to lay on soft ground.

When scions are wanted for grafting, select one-year-old shoots from the outside portions of the tree. Spray the scions well, or leave them on the tree to be removed after spraying has been completed.

STORE SCIONS

Since grafting is not done until the buds are swelling later in the season, the scions must be stored in a manner to keep them in good condition but to prevent their becoming active.

A simple method of storage is to tie name labels on each bunch of scions, wrap them in a piece of sacking, and bury three inches below soil level in a place well sheltered, well drained and out of the sun.

The north side of a building or fence is often the most suitable place.

MAKE IT PAY

Considering the amount of space occupied by a large fruit tree on a city lot, the limited scope of gardening due to its shade and roots, such a tree should produce an abundance of high quality, luscious fruits to pay for its keep.

To do this, spraying, pruning, feeding and general cultivation play an important part. Pruning must be correct, spraying carefully and thoroughly done and correctly timed.

The spraying charts and pruning bulletins obtainable free from the Department of Agriculture and the Dominion Experimental Farm are an essential part of the fruit gardener's equipment. These may be secured from the Douglas Block on Government Street or the Experimental Farm at Saanichton.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

Twice-a-Year Spraying Battles Peach-Leaf Curl

By JACK BEASTALL

Q—When should peach trees be sprayed for peach-leaf curl?—S. B., Oak Bay.

A—It is now generally agreed the first spray should be applied soon after the crop is harvested and another before the end of the third week in January.

Q—I have just received seed of polyanthus primrose. Should these be sown now indoors or kept for outdoor sowing at a later date?—Mrs. G. R., Gordon Head.

A—For successful germination, seed of any of the primulas should be sown within one month after harvesting, usually in July. After this date germination is slow and erratic. Suggest you sow immediately indoors in 50 to 60 degree temperature, pricking out seedlings which appear as soon as large enough to handle without too much soil disturbance.

Rubber Tile Bounces To Role as Table Top

Rubber tile gets up off the floor and takes its place on the card table in the game room.

TOUGH and resilient, rubber tile bounces out of its traditional role as a floor covering and comes into its own as a decorative material for topping game tables, cocktail tables, children's play tables, toy chests and other pieces of recreation-room furniture.

Relatively easy to fashion and to install, it offers a good medium in which to work for the home handy man.

To take a "for instance," here's how to cover an old card table with rubber tile:

YOU'LL NEED several rubber tiles (perhaps some left over from when you or a neighbor had a rubber tile floor installed). Rubber flooring cement, a rubber flooring knife, chalk or soft pencil and sandpaper are the other major "musts" you'll want to have at hand.

FIRST, sand its top well to give a surface suitable for bonding by rubber flooring cement.

LAY OUT the desired pattern with chalk or a soft pencil.

KEEP IT SIMPLE for this first effort. Stick to square and rectangular shapes. Diamonds, triangles and odd shapes and sizes can be executed later, if you find you'd like to tackle other covering jobs.

CUT TILING to fit various sections of your design. Assemble complete mosaic of tiles on table's top to make sure it fits before you begin the cementing operation.

SPREAD special rubber flooring cement for several rows of tiles. Work from one corner and extend your row all the way along that edge of the table. Fit the pieces as tightly as possible, following the same general procedure used for installing rubber tile flooring.

WHEN JOB is completed, wipe away excess cement which may have squeezed between individual tiles. Allow the job to dry for 24 hours before you use the table.

You'll have a playing surface which is cigaret and food and drink resistant ready for the next party at your house.

Trucker Banned For Three Years

SCURRAH TO VACATION 2 WEEKS IN CALIFORNIA

Mayor Percy Scurrah leaves this weekend for a two-week holiday in California.

The mayor, who took only one week's vacation during the first half of his term last year, will be accompanied by Mrs. Scurrah.

Council is expected to meet at least once during the mayor's absence to complete first and second reading of the new fire hall by-law.

Most other pressing business was cleared up at a special meeting Friday.

MONTE ROBERTS

My old friend Dan dropped in to see me last evening. And, unlike his usual smiling self, he was frowning and muttering under his breath.

I was a little surprised to see Dan so early—he doesn't usually turn up until nearly the middle of the month—but I was even more surprised to note his sober mein.

So, naturally enough, I started out with a cheery greeting.

"Why, Daniel," I said. "Daniel Cupid. How good to see you. What brings you down from your rosy, heart-shaped cloud so early?"

"Nyaaah," said Dan (I guess we are allowed to call him Dan) Cupid.

"Come, come," I said, "is that any way for a busy little messenger of love to talk? Especially," I added, "when the open season on lovers starts next Thursday, February 14, you know."

"I know," muttered Dan.

"What's your big trouble, son?" I asked. "Roses Red, Violets Blue, Sugar's Sweet, but mortgage due?"

"Nyaaah," said Dan.

"Hmmm," I hmmmed. "Something here we must look into. Could it be there's a new rhyming dictionary out? Love no longer rhymes with above? June doesn't rhyme with spoon or moon?"

"Worse than that," Dan Cupid growled. (I know you will find it hard to imagine Dan Cupid growling, but that's just what he did. I heard him.)

What could be worse than June not rhyming with spoon or moon? or even croon?" I asked, by this time genuinely alarmed.

"It's my ordnance," said Dan.

"Your what?" I cried.

"These," said Dan, lifting the traditional instruments of his trade—weapons he has carried for lo, these many years.

"What's wrong with them?" I asked. "They look in good repair to me."

"They're in good repair, all right," said Dan, with a small note of pride in his voice. "I, personally, keep them that way.

"But," said Dan, "everyone else has modern weapons. Guided missiles. Acoustic torpedoes. Atomic bombs. Jet planes. Radar-operated cannon.

"And what am I stuck with?" Dan went on. "Look. I'm still back in the bow and arrow age."

"Gee, that's bad," I admitted. "Why don't you write a letter to the editor about it?"

"Precisely why I am here," he said, plucking a feather from one of his arrows and dipping it in ink.

"Be sure to sign it 'Indignant D. Cupid,'" I said.

"That I will," said Dan.

Boy Injured In Hit-Run; Man Charged

Woman Hurt In Highway Crash

Alexander Hammond, 14, 1025 Moss, was in "fairly good condition" in St. Joseph's Hospital suffering head injuries and multiple abrasions received when his bicycle was in collision with a car at Fort and Cook at 4.20 a.m. today.

Charged with failing to remain at the scene was Norman Leslie Nantes, 1037 Pendergast, who was remanded in city court without plea to Wednesday on $500 bail.

Icy road conditions in Saanich were responsible for shoulder injuries to Mrs. L. Bitten, RR 1, Saanichton, who was riding in a car driven by her husband when it went out of control and into a ditch on Patricia Bay highway near Beaver Lake Park entrance about 10.45 a.m.

A 2½-months-old daughter also in the car, and Mr. Bitten, were not injured.

Mrs. Bitten was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital by Saanich police, and admitted.

In the early morning accident, young Hammond, a newspaper carrier, was on his way to work when the accident occurred.

Police said the car involved was proceeding south on Cook when it collided with the cyclist heading west on Fort.

Ronald Moore, 1843 Crescent, who was a witness, told police the car kept going along Cook. He gave police a description of the car.

Saanich police reported about a half dozen cars and two buses went off the highways when they hit icy patches this morning, but without property damage or injuries reported.

"MR. CANADA" will visit here next Wednesday. He's John Fisher, lawyer, author, broadcaster and executive director of the Canadian Tourist Association. He'll be here on an informal visit because, as he has said earlier, and often, "I like Victoria."

$525 in Fines After Crash

Twenty-year-old Robert Thompson, 924 Market, was ordered in Colwood RCMP court Friday to pay fines totalling $525 and $27.50 costs or face three months in jail for criminally negligent driving and violating driver's licence restrictions.

Thompson was driver of a loaded wood truck which collided with a car and overturned Jan. 7 on Trans-Canada Highway near Thetis Lake Road, sending two Belmont High School teachers to hospital.

Injured were Gordon L. McIntosh, 2047 Chaucer, and H. J. Walter, occupants of the car, which was heavily damaged.

In addition to the fines, Magistrate A. I. Thomas ordered Thompson's driver's licence suspended for three years.

"I'm very much concerned about this man's ability to drive," the magistrate said. "In fact, he had no ability to drive, in my opinion." He imposed the maximum penalty for negligence.

LENGTHY RECORD

RCMP Cpl. Daniel Thompson, in charge of Colwood detachment, read a lengthy record of driving offences committed by the accused. Thompson's licence was suspended for a time last year, but reinstated before the accident.

He was permitted to drive trucks up to ½-ton size. The truck he was driving at the time of the collision was a three-ton model.

Previous evidence brought out the fact there were mechanical defects in the steering gear.

"This man is certainly a menace on the highway and to himself," defence counsel James Proudfoot said, suggesting that he be suspended "for as long as he can be for the safety of the public and for his own sake."

Fine for negligence conviction was $500, with $27.50 costs, or three months in jail. The second charge brought a minimum fine of $25 with costs waived, or five days in jail, concurrent.

Cpl. Thompson opposed the court granting the accused time to pay his fines.

Magistrate Thomas said he felt "no extenuating circumstances should be given to him. He is obligated to pay the penalty."

$80,000 For Start On Forest Lab

A sum of $80,000 has been set aside in federal government estimates for the erection of a header-house and greenhouse, the first stage in a plan to construct a $1,000,000 forest laboratory in Saanich.

Dr. F. T. Fairey, MP for Victoria, said construction of the greenhouse will start in early spring. It will be 27 feet by 100 feet, with heater house attached.

SEVEN-ACRE SITE

The greenhouse will be constructed on seven acres of land adjoining the new Trans-Canada Highway and Burnside, alongside the Rowland Heights subdivision.

The government purchased the land three years ago for $26,500.

Federal forest laboratory offices now are in the Federal Building on Government Street.

Dr. Raymond E. Foster, director of the Forest Biology Laboratory, said the greenhouse will be constructed first.

March 9 Vote Set On New Fire Hall

Pandora Green Site Proposal Abandoned; New Location Plan at Next Council Meeting

City council decided Friday to submit a money by-law to ratepayers March 9 seeking authority to spend $325,000 for a new headquarters fire hall.

Only Ald. E. D. McEwen opposed the plan which was put forward by Mayor Percy Scurrah earlier this week.

"It should be a joint city hall, fire hall and police station," the alderman said.

There was nothing wrong with the present police building, said the mayor.

CONFUSE PUBLIC

"We're going to confuse the public" by holding a by-law for a fire hall at the same date ratepayers will vote again on the school by-law, said Ald. McEwen.

"We shouldn't assume our taxpayers are that stupid. We'll get more people out (to vote)," said Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow.

Mayor Scurrah indicated an earlier proposal for erection of the new hall on the Pandora Green had been withdrawn.

"It was only a trial balloon and it didn't mean a darn thing," he said.

He hinted a more acceptable site had been found, and suggested an extra $25,000 be added to the $300,000 he had originally asked to be spent. The additional funds would be required for land purchase.

Council Shies On Tough Dog Leash Law

Proposed extension of the leash law to cover dogs wherever they may roam in Victoria was sent back to parks committee Friday for "watering down."

It had been proposed by the committee that all dogs in the city be required to be leashed when off their home property. The regulation is in effect for the downtown area now, but in residential areas dogs may run free if accompanied by a responsible person.

Ald. Edgelow, chairman of the parks committee, was first to object to the proposal his group had accepted from parks administrator W. H. Warren.

He suggested the phrase "on a leash or chain" should be changed to "under effective control."

Ald. Hugh Ramsay noted this is already in effect.

City solicitor T. P. O'Grady said the dog regulations require further clarification. He was authorized to meet with the committee to bring in a revised recommendation.

Carpenter Elected By Garden City Horsemen's Club

New president of Garden City Horsemen's Club is well-known show rider, C. C. Carpenter, elected at the annual meeting Friday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Simpson, Blenkinsop Road.

Mr. Carpenter succeeds Mr. Simpson in the office and will have as his vice-president J. "Ved" Donaldson; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Jean Whitworth; auditor, Gerry Aitken, and committee members Mrs. Aitken, George McGee, Bob Owen and Ken Kent.

The club, which sponsors the annual Labor Day weekend two-day horse show at the Saanichton fall fair, as well as other smaller shows and social functions, decided to postpone the annual dinner scheduled this month. New date will be announced later.

4 Downtown Firms To Sue City

Four city firms located near the intersection of Vancouver and View will sue the city for damages caused in Dec. 9 flooding.

Council was advised of the action Friday by legal representatives for Reynolds Colgate Barbour Ltd., M. Griffin Ltd., Pacific Coast Insulation and Roofing Ltd., and metal works shop of Harry Selander.

The flood, ". . . was an act of God," protested Ald. E. D. McEwen.

City solicitor T. P. O'Grady said the matter would be referred to the city's insurance firm.

Survivors include his wife, Fern, daughter Lorna and son Everard, all at home.

Rev. A. I. Higgins will officiate at the funeral. Cremation will follow.

Saanich Astronomer Elected To National Vice-Presidency

Dr. Andrew McKellar, a member of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, Saanich, was elected vice-president of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada at its annual meeting in Toronto Friday.

Dr. Helen Sawyer Hogg, associate professor of astronomy at the University of Toronto, was elected president. She succeeds Dr. R. M. Petrie, director of the Astrophysical Observatory here, who also attended the meeting.

Dr. McKellar, who has been at the observatory here since 1936, has won international recognition for his studies on the nature of comets and interstellar matter.

During the war he served with the RCN, working under the director of operational research. He was born in Vancouver and graduated from the University of British Columbia, where he specialized in physics and mathematics.

Dr. Petrie announced the society had awarded the Chant Medal to Maurice Drolet of Quebec City. The award is for outstanding contribution to astronomy by a Canadian amateur.

Elected to the society's national council were: Robert S. Evans, Victoria; G. M. Shrum, Vancouver; R. J. Lockhart, Winnipeg, and E. H. Gowan, Edmonton.

LIKES COL. BLIMP TAG

'Old Guard' Bruce Still on the Loose

By TONY DICKASON

Sir Michael Bruce, Bart., is one of those people so English that if they were any more English they wouldn't be able to speak at all.

"Humph," he snorted in the Empress Hotel, when asked what he did for a living.

Sir Michael writes a column for a Vancouver paper. He succinctly sums up his job:

"Gossip."

LAUGH, LAUGH, LAUGH

What is your philosophy which has come about from your adventurous life?

"Laugh and the world laughs with you, snare and you sleep alone."

The bucolic gentleman was fooling, slightly. He's had a riot of experience, and work, in at least 25 of the world's countries.

As he sums it up, "I have had the luck of going places."

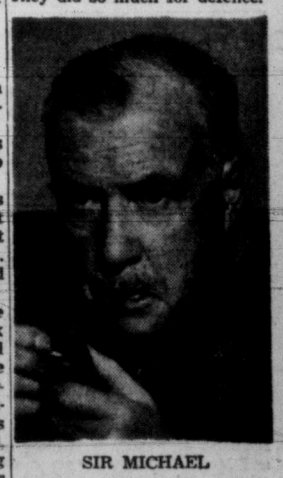
Sir Michael, brother of the late Nigel Bruce of Sherlock Holmes film fame, has been ill this area of the world three years. He's a controversial person because he's always hauling out some titled toff in his columns with whom he wined, or dined, or did pig-sticking years agone. This annoys younger West Coast columnists, who think he should write about up-to-date subjects.

Vancouver columnist Jack Scott took Sir Michael to task the other day, for being so "veddy, veddy" British.

The baronet has words for Mr. Scott; calls him "blatantly ignorant—blatantly vulgar."

Mr. Scott, in his phrasing of the Bruce character, drew some non-charming comparisons with Col. Blimps.

"I like to be a Colonel Blimp," said Sir Michael, tossing off a Scotch and water. "Where would England be in the last war if it wasn't for Colonel Blimps? They were in the home guard. They did so much for defence."



SIR MICHAEL

ASK The TIMES

Q—Was the City of Nelson named after the great British admiral?

A—No. The founding of the city dates from 1887. It first was named Salisbury after Lord Salisbury, then Stanley after Lord Stanley of Preston, Governor-General of Canada from June 11, 1888, to Sept. 18, 1893. It finally was named Nelson, in 1888, after the Hon. Hugh Nelson, Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia from 1887 to 1892.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

A questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

COMPARATIVE RELIGIONS

Tolerance Basic Tenet of Hinduism

The human soul does not begin with the conception of birth because it is a part of God which has always existed. It lives forever, passing from one human being to another, gathering new experiences.

This is the philosophy behind "Karma," or moral action of reincarnation as seen by Hinduism.

Giving the first of two lectures on Hinduism as part of the Victoria College night school course, comparative religions, Dr. D. P. Pandia of Vancouver, said:

"Certain things have no attraction for you, yet they attract others. It is because of the Karma in your past lives. Things which do not tempt you have been outlived in some former life, and you have profited by your own experiences.

"Similarly, personal characteristics have been brought over from past incarnations. You are what you are today by reason of what you were in your last life, and your future life is based upon your present life."

The Hindu believes in one God, the absolute, omnipotent. He conceives a universe without a beginning, without an end.

His religion is a tolerant one, which has shown a great capacity for absorbing new ideas and adapting to new conditions. Hindus believe all religions are equally valid.

"Life is a great school for the learning of moral lessons," said Dr. Pandia.

"We, through our own actions, get our reward or punishment. We are not punished for our sins, but by our sins," he stressed.

"Therefore, God does not judge us, we judge ourselves. For our sin is not an offence against Him, but against ourselves. Every man is master of his own destiny."

Dr. Pandia stressed there are two different levels of Hinduism: the popular and devotional which can be practiced and understood by all, and the philosophical and metaphysical, which is studied by those on higher educational planes.

At First Baptist Church, Rev. G. R. Easter will continue his series on St. John with "The Only Way to Save the World." His evening message is entitled "Keeping on Top of Things."

Theosophical Group To Hear J. Barnes

John P. Barnes of Hermes Lodge, Vancouver, will address a public meeting sponsored by Besant Lodge of the Theosophical Society, 904 Government Street, Sunday at 8 p.m. His subject will be "The Key to Occultism." Widely-known lecturer Mr. Barnes is editor of the Theosophical Society's Canadian Federation Quarterly.

YOU SAID TO ME-

By ETHEL TULL

A Sunday message of help and comfort for those puzzled, depressed or low in spirit.

You said to me, "How is everything with you now?"

The operation about which I told you is over and the verdict has gone against me from an earthly standpoint, but we feel the Heavenly one is different.

So next week I hope to be home again and to continue my talks with you.

I do so long that our talks together shall be really true experience of how we can change by the power and guidance of the Spirit, until we become absolutely honest and pure, and unselfish and loving. That is how Jesus will change the whole world.

Will you let me have your questions? My address is 339 Niagara Street.

Thank you all for your prayers and cards and enquiries. You have been good friends to me—let me be a good friend to you.

Second Month of Year

The month of February brings reunions in family life as brothers and sisters travel from the eastern and prairie provinces to spend the last days of winter in a comparatively mild climate . . . There are the annual meetings, too, when women's groups plan new programs and name new officers for the busy days ahead. It's a month of change . . . of comings and goings . . . also, the month of promise, for the warmth of spring days is just over the horizon.

Arranged By
ELIZABETH FORBES
Women's Editor

For First Time in Years

A family of four, two men and two women, born in Merrickville, Ont., some years ago, are enjoying a reunion in Victoria at present. They are together for the first time in 50 years.

Mr. Dan Kyle, who still lives in Merrickville, is here to visit his sisters, Mrs. Ellen Connolly, who came from Edmonton for the reunion, and Mrs. Mary O'Connell, 4042 Glanford Avenue, Victoria, and a brother, Mr. Francis Kyle, 3440 Calumet Avenue.

Mrs. O'Connell was married in St. Andrew's Cathedral in Victoria in August 1912, and has lived here for 45 years. Father Michael O'Connell of St. Andrew's Cathedral, is her son. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kyle came to Victoria in 1917 and have lived here ever since.

The brothers and sisters are enjoying reminiscing of the days when they were children. They have many friends here and several gatherings have taken place or have been arranged during the visit of Mr. Kyle and Mrs. Connolly.

At final session of the 43rd annual meeting of Victoria Presbyterial, Women's Missionary Society, Presbyterian Church in Canada, held this week, Mrs. F. O. Jenkinson, second from right, was named the new president. Miss Mary Sherrick, BA, B.Ed, at left, a missionary from India, and Miss Ellen Douglas, right, hospital visitor in Vancouver and formerly of India, were guest speakers at the meeting. Mrs. Gaines Cameron, second from left, is the immediate past president. Mrs. Maurice Clifford, Vancouver, WMS synodical president, installed the officers.

Annual bride tea arranged by the Woman's Auxiliary to the Royal Jubilee Hospital will take place Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 20, in the Nurses' Home. Committee in charge of arrangements includes, from the left, Mrs. J. A. Wilson, tea convener; Mrs. W. E. Speed, auxiliary secretary; Mrs. J. H. Newton, bridge convener, and Mrs. F. J. Broughton, ticket sales. Proceeds will be used for work of the auxiliary in the hospital. Players will bring own cards. (Photo by Bill Halkett.)

Mrs. F. G. Matkin, centre, was elected president of the Victoria Presbyterial, Woman's Missionary Society of the United Church in Canada, at final session of 31st annual meeting of the group held Tuesday and Wednesday in Oak Bay United Church this week. Mrs. V. A. Beaumont, left, is first vice-president, and Mrs. E. R. Bewell, immediate past president. (Photo by Strickland.)

SHOPPING GUIDE

Juicing Oranges Is a Snap With This Novel Gadget

By PENNY SAVER

No more rending, squeezing, pushing handles and attaching gadgets to squeeze juice from lemons or oranges, 'cause there's a new way to do the job. I came across a little cylinder that you push into the orange. Squeeze the orange, and the juice flows through the cylinder and out a little spout on the end. It eliminates messy pulp and sticky hands. It's made of aluminum, easily washed and easy to store. The price of this newest kitchen helper is just 35 cents.

Some of those pots and pans that have given you long and good service in the kitchen may be in need of new knobs or handles for the lids. You can buy handy bakelite ones to fit your needs for just 30 cents each.

There were so many calls about the new meat pounders I mentioned last week that I thought you'd be interested in the all-wooden ones I also found in town. These, an old-fashioned and efficient type, cost 49 cents.

For St. Valentine's Day, here are voile hostess aprons, meant to protect and enhance Milady's prettiest hostess dress. Of course, they're red with white floral print trim. At a special price for the occasion, they are $1.

Another special price is on top-fashion purses of smooth plastic that looks like patent. Black, avocado, red, tan, brown, russet or navy are there in clutch and handle styles. I was really surprised to see the low price on them. For casual or dressy wear, these purses are yours at $1.59 each.

Did you know that besides being able to buy extra woolen ribbed cuffs for jackets and sweaters, you can buy wide ribbing for waistbands? It comes in yard lengths at 59 cents. Brown, maroon, tan, black, navy and green, the same colors as the cuffs, are available.

HERBS IN THE HOME

Some New Ideas for Those Everyday Luncheon Menus

By PATRICIA RAE

Though not a particularly good cook, I once won a prize for this colored luncheon using herbs and though you might like to get some ideas from it, next time you feel like preparing something just a little different.

This is intended as a "quickie" meal say just before a shopping-spree or when you want to make an easy do-it-yourself meal with herbal touches.

ORANGE AND GREEN

I choose these colors, as they are so easy for salads and selected two simple, slimming salad-type dishes—carrot fruit-salad and cottage-cheese tomatoes.

Grate the carrots in a fine grater; set in deep individual coupes, covering the top of the carrots with raisins and sultanas (previously soaked in fruit-juice). Decorate with dessicated coconut and three or four leaves of fresh lemon-balm, finely shredded. Add a little chopped Angelica (leaves and stalks) and one of the green and orange salads is complete!

Wash and cut the tomatoes in halves and set them on a large dish lined with young lettuce. Cover each tomato slice with cottage-cheese, mixed with cut chives, lovage and tarragon. Color the centres with a dot of paprika and stick a tiny sprig of winter-savory in the middle. (Later, if you can, get your lunch-companions to have a little nibble at the winter-savory leaves: such a help with baked potatoes, meat-roll, etc.).

The table decorations for these quickies, served with wholemeal scones and rye biscuits, followed by fresh fruit and coffee, were just plain garden marigolds in an old honey pot. If you have no flowers, a bowl of oranges prettily arranged, or a small pumpkin, polished and set in driftwood, make a good accompaniment.

Cottage-weave table mats suit this type of snack, or plain bamboo mats. Try floating a few flowers of borage on the tomato juice, it gives it a special flavor; also butter "curls" on a leaf or two of tansy, take on a special attraction and unusual flavor.

SCARLET AND WHITE

An alternative to the orange and green was red and white. For the table I chose rose hips and the silver-white transparent leaves of honesty (for these were winter lunches by the fire on a trolley, or at a sunny window on a tray). I used red lipstick-napkins for the table, on a plain white cloth. Fruit-juice had a cherry on a stick—currant jelly in tiny patty-pans set at each place—radish-roses and small glass dishes of beet, marinated in herb-vinegar and sprinkled with dill-seed.

The salad-dish for this was apple and potato, with the red apple-parings showing on the outside. The salad-bowl was first rubbed with orange-mint to give that subtle herb-flavor. Topping the salad, were chopped walnuts mixed with shreds of apple-mint. Celery, processed cheese and dates. Brown scones or wholewheat biscuits were accompaniments to this meal which was easily prepared half an hour beforehand, leaving you entirely free to enjoy your guests.

Get in the Swim With a New High-Neckline Bathing Suit

By NONA DAMASKE

Right now it seems a far cry to the hot days of summer but after seeing Jantzens 1957 collection modelled at the Crystal Garden the swimming season seems much closer.

Fashion-wise the newest trend is toward swimsuits with a more covered-up look at the shoulders and neckline.

The "Zambezi Sheath" included in the international collection is a striking example of this trend.

Nona

Made of colorful imported Nigerian cotton print, exclusive with Jantzen . . . inspired by a primitive South African design, this suit has a high straight neckline in front and plunges almost to the waist in the back. Included in the Zambezi group is a swimsuit and shorts combination and a beautiful sarong type skirt.

A surprise package is the "Ancon Bikini" in Jantzen's own Marvelure fabric. The one I saw modelled was in navy blue with an intirguing silvery lustre. The surprise comes when the model peels off the tube-like sheath to reveal a two-piece Bikini with the briefest of tops and shorts. A wonderful three-piece ensemble which complete will give you comfort on any beach and when worn as a Bikini in more secluded places allows you the full benefit of good old Sol.

Somewhat impractical but a beautiful window or fashion show item is "Diamond Mine" . . . a sooty black elasticized bridal satin sheath lavishly studded with clusters of sparkling rhinestones. This formal swimsuit will cost you $30 but if you long too loll glamourously at the poolside this is your answer.

Also at the top rung of the price ladder is "Clover Girl" a suit with delicate white clover embroidery on black latex faille. Wide shoulder straps and a high-cut neckline indicate the covered-up look. This suit has no skirt and is made with the look of shorts.

Tartans, always popular in Victoria, also enter the water . . . Stewart Prince Edward tartan in a finely woven English gingham which is Sanforized is shown in a suit with a shirred bustline. A full wrap-around skirt of the same tartan is put on by our model and then we see a very fetching sun dress.

"Gay Nineties" is not only gay but something quite different. Made in velvety Velvalure this bold horizontally striped black and white suit has shoestring black ribbons which can draw up the side legs into a shirring.

These suits and many more will be in our shops next month so, if you want to spend an hour pretending that summer has arrived go to your favorite store and try on a swimsuit or two.

First thing you know you will be in the mood for a dip so, round up the family and visit our lovely Crystal Pool.

"Monaco Stripes" . . . the covered-up look is the new feature of this turtle-neck top. Short trunks and bare midriff allow Beverly plenty of scope for becoming sun tan. Designed by Jantzen of lastex and cotton this two-piece suit is completely lined.

"Mayflower" . . . from the Jantzen international collection is the daintiest of all swim suits . . . white eyelet embroidered organdy sashed in pale blue satin. Modelled by Beverly Reid, "Miss Jantzen," this is truly a swim suit for those who appreciate the soft, feminine look.

"Gay Holiday" . . . striking stripes in lastex sharkskin . . . designed by Jantzen of Canada for the active swimmer who needs a durable suit that is also flattering and smart. This slender sheath has wide adjustable straps and a full back zipper.

MANY RUSSIAN WOMEN ENTER SCIENCE FIELD

TRAIL, B.C. (CP) — Dr. George M. Volkoff of the University of British Columbia said here Thursday night that 70 per cent of the doctors behind the iron curtain are women.

Addressing honor students from the J. Lloyd Crowe and Rossland High Schools, Dr. Volkoff said there is no reason to believe women cannot enter scientific studies but there is a reluctance in Canada for women to become scientists.

Russian scientists at an international meeting in Geneva last year said the high percentage of women doctors in Russia was caused by the shortage of manpower during the Second World War, Dr. Volkoff said. He said enrolment at the University of Moscow is 90 per cent women. Of physics students at UBC, only 25 per cent were women.

Don't Overlook Simple Health, Beauty Routines

Many of the best rewards in life, maybe most of them, are the result of the ability to invest wholeheartedly in seemingly unimportant daily routine.

The job you have may not seem very exciting and the little things you do for a daily beauty routine may not seem so either. However, and it is a big however, we cannot even calculate the dividends of enthusiastic self-investment in any category!

I would like to bat this idea about further and will do so in some future column, but today I want to remind you of some of the simple health (and therefore beauty) routines, which the medical profession has known about for years but which we, in our wish for something dramatic to cure our physical ills and our heartaches, have not taken seriously.

Here, then, are some simple health routines which are being highlighted by more and more medical research!

1. Take advantage of all that is known now about nutrition. This is at least one of the most important steps on the ladder to happiness and success and a vibrant long life.

2. Exercise unless there is some reason for not doing so. Ask your doctor about this. There is great and exciting and accumulative data which seems to indicate that we are dying of poor nutrition, lack of physical exercise and boredom.

These are the three big culprits! Avoid them as you would a plague! It seems that we are dying of "rocking chairitis, overweight from the fat of the land, and boredom—in an era which provides the most information about nutrition, and exercise, offers the most in adult education, and is probably the most challenging and exciting era anyone ever lived in.

Of course you need an adequate amount of sleep, but if you eat correctly and exercise and are on fire with interests, I think you will sleep very well.

Hawaiian Kau Kau

The women's committee of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club is holding a dinner dance in a Hawaiian theme at the clubhouse on Saturday evening, Feb. 16, with Andy Anderson's orchestra.

The conveners, Mrs. D. J. Shepard and Mrs. John Wallace, have arranged a floor show and flowers are being flown from Honolulu for the occasion.

Help Youngsters Make Valentines With Doilies, Books, Wallpaper

"Roses are red, violets are blue,
Honey is sweet and so are you."

Everyone knows this old rhyme and there are few better ones to print or write on a Valentine. But how about trying to make up an original short rhyme or poem? Mother, or grandmother would get a big thrill out of a verse a child wrote all himself, even if it were "doggerel."

Making Valentines is great fun and everyone likes to receive pretty cards from their friends. Suggest to your children that the members of one's own family, even if some of them are "grown-up," enjoy getting Valentines too! Why not make a Valentine place card for each person in the home and put them on the table at suppertime on Feb. 14?

Nancy

If there are young brothers or sisters in your home, do let them share in Valentine making! They may be too small to cut out a well-shaped heart from red cardboard. But they can find scissors and paste and look for pretty colored pictures in magazines or catalogs.

An old sample wall paper book is another wonderful place to search for attractive Valentine decorations. If you ask the merchant who has sold wallpaper or paint to you to keep an out-of-date sample book, he will likely be glad to oblige you. With a little direction from you, a younger child can put paste on the back of a cutout picture and choose where it is to be placed on the heart.

The children might decorate ordinary paper serviettes with some red hearts which they drew and colored with their crayons or cut out from red paper and pasted on them. Mother might have a good idea about a pretty table centrepiece, possibly using a little man and woman salt and pepper shakers as the two central figures. One family made a charming decoration for the table out of plasticene figures using four contrasting colors. Likely mother will plan the first course, but perhaps either she or big sister could make heart-shaped cookies. Red gelatine jelly is an attractive dessert. A school-age child can make it himself because the directions are so easy to follow.

This fourteenth of February, half way through the long winter months, can be a very jolly time for everyone, if each member in the home co-operates in making Valentine greetings and in the preparations for a Valentine home party! These "special occasions" in family life provide a feeling of belonging. They are also very nice to remember when little folk are grown and away from home!

Wedding Vows Solemnized Today In Floral-Decked City Church

Spring blossoms formed a lovely background in Centennial United Church this afternoon for a wedding ceremony in which Jacqueline June Harrison and Roy Allan Jones were married.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Stanley Harrison, 3182 Donald Street, was accompanied up the aisle by her father. For the ceremony she wore a white nylon tulle bridal gown fashioned with a scalloped lace redingote with lily point sleeves and a tiny stand-up collar. Her Swiss-embroidered floor-length veil was held by a coronet of lace and iridescent sequins. Pink rosebuds and hyacinths were in her crescent bouquet, and completing the charming ensemble she wore the groom's gift of pearls and her great-grandmother's diamond and pearl earrings.

In floor-length gowns of deep turquoise taffeta, Mrs. Barbara Fletcher, matron of honor; Miss Jean Fraser, bridesmaid, and Mrs. Frances Madill, bridesmatron, attended the bride. Their gowns, styled with long torso line and tiny cap sleeves were accessorized with matching caps and gloves and crescent bouquets of tulips and hyacinths. Flower girl, Rene Clevette, wore a pink dotted nylon frock in floor length with Peter Pan collar and tiny puffed sleeves. Her head band was of pink rosebuds.

The groom, son of Mr. David T. Jones, 804 Burde Street, Port Alberni, and the late Mrs. Jones, had Joseph Fletcher as best man, and Kenneth Loucks and William Clevette, ushers.

Rev. Douglas B. Carr officiated at the early-afternoon ceremony.

At the reception party held at "Dulcie's," 514 Fort Street, Mrs. Harrison, in an apricot-toned taffeta cocktail gown with matching jacket, assisted in receiving guests. She chose white accessories and a corsage of white carnations. The newlyweds received their guests while standing beneath a white canopy hung with wedding bells. A three-tier wedding cake was placed on the bride's table. Spring flowers and pink tapers in silver holders completed the arrangement. The bride's cousin, Albert Clevette, proposed the toast.

Following a honeymoon trip up-Island, Mr. and Mrs. Jones will live at Suite 3, 125 Clarence Street.

For travelling, the bride wore a black dressmaker suit with waist-length jacket. Her accessories were black and pink and her corsage of pink rosebuds.

VOTE OR NOT

Swiss Women In Centre of Small Tempest

UNTERBAECH, Switzerland (Reuters) — This Alpine village shocked the nation Thursday with a suggestion women vote in a forthcoming referendum.

Through the centuries, Switzerland has barred women from the polls. Recently there have been sample polls for women and much agitation but still no vote.

Yet, the local council of Unterbaech decided that the village's adult females could participate in a referendum since it directly concerns them.

The referendum March 3 will decide whether women must undergo compulsory civil defence training.

Word of the council's decision in Bern immediately sent a message to the council reminding them the vote is restricted by federal law to men. If the women are allowed to vote, the poll for the village would be annulled, the federal warning said.

Altar Guild Heads Named By Auxiliary

Mrs. W. R. Russell was chosen head of the Altar Guild of St. Martin's Chapel in Veterans' Hospital, at a meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary to the hospital held earlier this week. Mrs. J. W. Van Norman was named head of the Altar Guild of the Chapel of St. Michael and St. Luke at the hospital.

Mrs. Leslie Macdonell presided and Mrs. Aldhelm White reported that recent sales of dogwood pins amounted to $32.50.

Miss Jean Robert's report showed that 400 books and many magazines and pocket editions had been distributed to bed patients. Eighteen members of the auxiliary assisted with the library carts during January.

Plans were made for a sale of delicatessen dishes made from recipes out of the auxiliary's cook book in the Douglas Room at the Hudson's Bay on March 14, with Mrs. F. Logan as convener.

Mrs. E. C. Hart was named convener of the Dogwood Garden Fete to be held at the hospital on Richmond Road in late June.

Introduced by the hospital matron, Miss S. J. Roberts, the Red Cross supervisor of arts and crafts at the hospital, Mrs. P. Hathway spoke on her work among the patients. She showed woven placemats, stoles and other articles, as well as woolly animals, made by the patients. All the articles are for sale at the Red Cross Lodge, Richmond Road.

Canada Needs Working Women

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Rex Eaton of Vancouver, president of the National Council of Women, said Friday Canada's economy would be endangered if women were forced to withdraw from the national labor force.

Mrs. Eaton is en route home from Montreal, where she attended on plans for the International Council of Women's first conference in Canada at Montreal in June.

She told the local council executive the latest available statistics estimate Canada's labor force at 5,773,000, of whom 1,349,00 are women. Forty per cent of these women were married.

She said:

"The economy of the country has placed such demands upon and such opportunities before women that they have been forced into the labor market in increasing numbers.

"There's no use saying that married women should not work, that they should go back to their homes. This is a matter of individual decision. What we must protect is their right to work if they wish to do so."

She said there is no evidence to indicate married women neglect their homes or children by working.

Stanfield, Mrs. E. Ard, Mrs. M. Waddell, Mrs. E. Hume, Mrs. F. Noel and Miss V. Quested, president of Juvenile Lodge, No. 55. Mrs. V. Keatley gave a talk on the history of the lodge from the time of organization. Music and games followed.

BRIDGE LESSON

By Oswald Jacoby

I am indebted to J. G. Ripstra and Marty Nelson of Wichita, Kansas, for today's hand. Both the bidding and play are of interest.

Mr. Nedson's three diamond response showed a very big hand, so Mr. Ripstra marked time by merely rebidding to three spades. Mr. Nelson just went to game. He had shown strength and it was up to Rip to go on if a slam could be made.

That is just what Rip did. He bid five clubs to show that ace, whereupon Marty bid five hearts to show control in that suit.

Rip's jump to six spades closed the bidding. Marty did consider the grand slam, but decided against it because he could not be sure that trumps were solid and that there was no diamond loser.

The jack of hearts was opened and dummy's ace held the first trick. Then Mr. Ripstra made a simple safety play. He led the deuce of trumps from dummy. When East played the four spot he merely played the ten.

When West showed out, Rip laid down the ace of trumps to drop East's jack, conceding one trick to the king.

This safety play was a sure thing against any combination of trumps. Rip could afford to lose one trick but not two.

With any two-one trump break he automatically would lose one trick with this play. If West had held three trumps, East would have shown out—whereupon Rip would have played his ace and then led toward dummy's queen.

Of course the hand would have been lost if West had made a singleton honor and then given his partner a ruff. But that was much less likely than the three-nothing trump break.

Kimberchiks Have a Record for Outstanding Performance

During the 5 years ending with 1955, Kimberchiks entered in the California Official Random Sample Laying Test averaged:

250 eggs per bird, based on the number of pullets at one week of age.

91.9% livability to about 18 months. $5.58 income over feed costs.

Although this five-year record indicates very fine breeding, the real worth of Kimberchiks is how they perform on commercial poultry farms.

Because of their large early egg size high production and good livability, Kimberchiks may well be the answer to more profitable operation for you. That's why we suggest you start some K-137 Kimberchiks and compare them under your own farm conditions with the birds you have previously raised. CARROLL RICHTER'S ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

MONDAY, FEB. 11, 1957

"The stars impel . . . They do not compel!
What you make of your life is largely up to you."

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)—Get matters at home in as perfect a condition as you can. You may have to make some concessions that do not exactly suit you, but they are well worthwhile for the general well-being of everyone concerned. Arrange sensible budget.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—You have unusual ability at looking at statements, reports and seeing any flaws or errors therein. Be sure you do spend today perfecting every single matter connected with sales, purchases, study, visits, transportation or communications.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—Your property needs to be cleaned, polished, etc. Get into that as well as specific items connected with money, budgeting. Wield paintbrush, etc., also. Behind-the-scenes support from down-to-earth individuals can be successfully sought also.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21)—This is your day to really go directly to all friends and let them know what you want—and how you would like to have it. There is little chance they will say thee nay. Be up and doing. Work vigorously for your personal desires.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—Start the weekend right by looking at whatever does not please you or that renders difficult getting what you want in the world of outside activities. Later you quietly enjoy close companion in happy reunion.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—This is your day to go off with friend on some jaunt or expedition or meet some newcomer who is able to give you the data, information you need to get ahead more quickly. Let others see you value their good will. Be open-minded for better systems.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—Now you can get the private and confidential suggestions from those in power that will give you the clue how to increase your efficiency in financial matters, as well as happiness in personal relationships. Listen to understand, then follow.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—Be open-minded to new slant given by determined and purposeful associate. It is true he is doing it largely for his own welfare. But your progress is also tied up in this plan. Follow and don't cut off your nose to spite your face!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—This is your day to dig into the mass of details connected with property deals or money matters with others and get your relations with them on a sound and secure basis. It requires work, but is well worth every moment so spent.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Emotional but astute partner has some excellent suggestions to make to you today. Be sure you follow with appreciation. Good for entertaining or otherwise showing others you value their good will. Have fun and be happy tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Now you can plunge into all that work facing you, whether at home, your office, in the world of business, politics, finances, etc. Put real thought today on improving your appearance, health, well being. Plug away. Get results now.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)—This is your day to really have a good time. You awaken with a happier feeling and can put into motion creative ideas or get others to see your special aptitudes with greater ease. P.M. fine for social and general prosperity, popularity.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN MONDAY . . .

Monday's child is one of those very conscientious youngsters who will seem very reticent unless you early have many playmates about during young and formative years, and those of a high caliber and under close supervision, since your tot is too likely to hold onto your apron strings and to be a Mom's baby. Teach self-reliance and give as rounded an education as you can. Your progeny will absorb all kinds of ideas, so have only the best present. Fine chart for merchandising public commodities for vocational outlet.

"COMPLICATIONS"
The $64,000 question for years has been—"Shall we sell first or buy first? (1) If we sell first, we must, as a rule, give possession in 30 days, and will that be enough time for us to find the home we have in mind without compromising on our requirements? (2) If we buy first, we must, as a rule, provide our down payment in 30 days, in which case we may be forced to sell at a price or terms that we would not like to have to take—or perhaps we might not sell in time. (3) If we decide to build a new home we have more time to sell our old home (providing our contractor will wait for his down payment and take a chance, along with us, on the sale of our old home). But, then, if by some chance we sell right away, what will we do for two or three months after we have given possession and have to wait for our new home to be finished? If we are lucky enough under these circumstances to get good accommodation for that short a period, we might have to move to a different school district in the middle of the term. A double move?—with three kiddies?—not so good. As a matter of fact, it's a heck of a problem!" Douglas Hawkes have the answer to your problem. New two, three and four-bedroom homes with basements, designed to your precise needs, are available on the sweetest arrangement you could dream of. Thirteen Fairfield locations to choose from. Treed Esquimalt area near Gorge Vale golf course and other locations—or build on your own lot. All homes planned to individual requirements and cost bracket. Terms engineered to your circumstances. Full information gladly given if you will please phone Eric Barloewen at Douglas Hawkes Real Estate, 4-7128 (after hours, 4-0623 or 4-7128), 408A and 508 Royal Trust Building, 612 View Street.

SELECTIVE THIEVES TAKE TIME OUT

DUNCAN — Smash and grab thieves who broke a window in Stenmark's jewelry store Thursday were selective but considerate.

They stole only half the display in the window, taking four watches with a retail value of $400. According to Cleve Stenmark, co-proprietor, the articles stolen were valued at just $3 under the maximum insurance coverage for a window display. A large club was used to break the window.

The proprietors erected a sign on the boarded-up window informing the public, "He Got A Good Deal," and another sign, pointing to an ad clipped from the Duncan newspaper, saying "But We'll Give You A Better One."

At Parksville, jeweller Sam Gough reported the front window of his store smashed and an expensive yellow gold watch stolen Thursday.

New BCE Cable To James Island This Summer

One of the two underwater electric cables through which the B.C. Electric serves the Canadian Industries Ltd. plant on James Island will be renewed this year.

BCE engineers say the three-quarters of a mile length of 12,000-volt cable will be run out on the sea floor from Saanichton spit to the James Island shore at mid-summer. It will replace a similar voltage cable which has given service for 42 years.

Line crews will become seagoing for the task, using a cable drum and braking arrangement aboard a tug, as was done in the laying of power cable to Chatham Island.

It is unlikely that any attempt will be made to raise the veteran cable from its sea bed, the work involved outstripping its salvage value.

Big Capacity Boost Set at Bamberton

3.5 Million Barrel Production When Expansion Finished This Year

Completion of plant expansion at Bamberton will increase capacity to 3,500,000 barrels a year, B.C. Cement Co. announced today.

The company said plans are underway for installation of a fifth kiln 350 feet long and 50 feet wide.

Present capacity at the Bamberton plant is 2,200,000 barrels of cement.

Estimated cost of the new kiln and other installation is $4,000,000.

BURNABY EXPANSION

The kiln alone will cost about $1,500,000, and the added funds would go to acquisition of the new plant site, together with expansion also planned for the company's new site at Burnaby.

In this latter location, a cement distribution centre is now being constructed, consisting of bulk silos, packers and complete facilities for servicing the trade with bulk and sack cement by truck or rail.

Ewart Named Centennial Group Leader

CHEMAINUS — Harry Ewart has accepted chairmanship of the Chemainus Centennial Celebrations committee, it was announced Friday by Fred W. Fearman, chairman of the North Cowichan Centennial committee.

A meeting to set up the local committee was held last week. In attendance were George Hemmingsen, Rotary Club; Frank Dyer, Canadian Legion, and Murray Poskitt, Kinsmen Club. Bob Bennie is to represent the Chamber of Commerce and Al Dyer will represent the Community Centre.

The committee decided that Chemainus Centennial celebrations should take the form of a two or three-day celebration over the May 24 holiday. Although there have been no May 24 celebrations here for the past two years, previously they were extremely popular.

It was felt that a miniature logging show and other displays highlighting the lumber industry could be featured during the local celebrations.

BIG PROJECT

As to a permanent project, members of the local committee were agreed that it should take the form of one large project that would serve all parts of the municipality.

It was felt that the proposed 500 to 800-acre park at Maple Mountain and Smith Bay, offering facilities for hiking, camping, swimming and riding, combined with an outstanding view, would not only be of benefit to the entire district but would also prove a good tourist attraction.

Firemen to Ask Conciliation On Wage Dispute

Victoria firemen's union was expected to ask appointment of a conciliation officer following council refusal Thursday to offer more than a 5 per cent wage increase.

City manager C. C. Wyatt told council the firemen, who have asked a 15 per cent boost, spurned a counter offer of 5 per cent, but agreement had been reached n award of some fringe benefit requests.

He explained that findings of such a board would be binding as in arbitration hearings according to special regulations governing police and firemen.

Mayor Percy Scurrah said that inasmuch as both inside and outside staffs of the city had accepted a 5 per cent agreement, council could not offer more. He recommended the matter go to conciliation.

HE HAD PERFECT MANNERS

Queen's Favorite Horse Destroyed After Injury

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth's favorite parade horse, Winston, is dead. The golden chestnut had to be destroyed after he slipped and fell when being exercised.

He was known as the horse with the perfect manners—and a complete indifference to noise, traffic and crowds.

Winston was ridden by King George at London's trooping of the color ceremony in 1947 and the late monarch recommended the horse to his daughter when she was Princess Elizabeth.

She rode Winston first in 1947 and then at all trooping of the color ceremonies she participated in since becoming Queen five years ago.

NANAIMO SYMPHONY SUNDAY

Violinist, 15, Emulates Aunts

FRED WONG
. . . symphony violinist

NANAIMO—Fred Wong, 15-year-old violinist with the Nanaimo Symphony Orchestra, is following in the footsteps of his two musical aunts.

Both Lila and Nellie Wong are well-known musical products of Nanaimo, Nellie as a soprano and Lila as a violinist.

Lila Wong caught the imagination of Island music lovers as concert master with the Nanaimo Symphony Orchestra. Several years ago she went abroad to the Royal College of Music in London with the highest marks in violin ever awarded in Canada. There she won honor upon honor, and became tremendously popular as a concert artist on several European tours.

Lila is now married to a distinguished British musician, Concert Master Collier of the Bournemouth Symphony Orchestra, and is under contract as first violinist. She is also teaching choral work and has a 150-voice school choir.

IN EDMONTON

Miss Nellie Wong, after receiving her degree from the Royal Academy of Music, went to Edmonton where she takes part in operetta and oratorio.

Fred started his musical training about four years ago and is already an honor student in Trinity College of London.

He is also studying piano and theory and shows considerable musical promise. An enthusiastic junior high school student he also finds time to bowl, play basketball and other team sports.

On Sunday, young Fred will take his place in the violin section of the Nanaimo Symphony Orchestra during its first concert of the year. He is to be counted upon as a reliable performer.

He was also associated with the Canadian Fishing Co. for the last 35 years.

FIVE SONS

He was a great friend of Rev. A. J. Hall, first missionary at Alert Bay, and was an influential member of the Christ Church Anglican congregation here.

Survivors include five sons—Reg and Herb of Alert Bay, Gilbert and Chris of Vancouver, and Cyril in North Surrey—and three daughters—Mrs. E. Kenmuir, A. Bell, and R. Mountain, all of Alert Bay. There are also 30 grandchildren and 44 great-grandchildren.

Rotarians Give $500 Toward Heart Machine

CHEMAINUS — The Rotary Club will make a grant to the Chemainus General Hospital for the purchase of an electro-cardiograph, an instrument that records movements of the heart.

The machine is expected to cost between $700 and $800. The Rotary Club will make a grant of up to $500 to the hospital. This amount represents two-thirds of the cost. Remaining one-third will be contributed by the government.

President Harry Ewart told the club that the cardiograph would be a big asset to the hospital. Just recently a local resident had suffered a heart attack and it was a week before a machine was obtained to take a reading of his condition.

100,000 Israelis Vow To Keep Egyptians Out

Call UN Policy 'Strangulation'

TEL AVIV, Israel (Reuters) — The largest crowd ever assembled in Tel Aviv vowed today never to let Egyptian guns return to the Gulf of Aqaba or allow Egyptian "invaders" to again occupy the Gaza Strip.

An estimated 100,000 Israelis, led by cabinet ministers, approved a resolution supporting their government.

Every mention of United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold's name was booed. Orators demanded his immediate resignation. They blamed the UN for a "strangulation policy."

The resolution protested against "attempts made in the UN to strike a blow at Israel's security."

OPPOSE RETURN

It added: "We declare our opposition to any attempt to bring back to the Gaza Strip the Egyptian invaders . . . for the purpose of sowing death and destruction in our peaceful villages.

"We declare our unremitting opposition to any attempt to bring back to the Gulf of Aqaba Egyptian guns which were used to block free navigation.

"We demand demilitarization of the Sinai peninsula and the opening of the Suez Canal to Israel shipping."

WON'T WEAKEN

The meeting vowed "no political or economic pressure, no threat of sanctions, will break our spirit or weaken our determination."

The crowd was backing up Israel's announcement Friday that it will not withdraw further from Egyptian territory without guarantees.

Similar demonstrations were held in the Israeli sector of Jerusalem, Haifa and other Israeli towns.

SANCTIONS ASKED

At UN headquarters in New York, the Afro-Asian bloc was reported preparing a resolution calling for sanctions against Israel because of her refusal to withdraw from Egyptian soil.

Brig.-Gen. Yigal Alon, a leader of the leftist Achduth Haavoda party, drew the wildest cheers when he declared:

MILD WEEKEND FORECAST; SUN SUNDAY

A "nice, mild" weekend for Victoria was predicted today by weatherman Bill Mackie.

Low tonight will be 36 degrees and high Sunday, 40 degrees.

A weather disturbance approaching "fairly rapidly" from the northern Pacific will bring increased cloudiness tonight with rain beginning early Sunday, Mr. Mackie said.

Sunday afternoon is expected to be clear and sunny.

'FIRED' CLERK CASE

'Issue Bigger Than the Job' —Monteith

W. Berkeley Monteith, "fired" law clerk of the legislature, today denied there was any "hidden reason" behind his dismissal other than those he revealed to the Times Friday.

He refused a challenge from Premier Bennett that he would reveal a "very definite reason" for the firing if Mr. Monteith asked him to do so.

Friday Mr. Monteith said reasons for his dismissal were refusal to contribute to a Social Credit candidates' campaign funds, and a clash with Premier Bennett on a procedural issue.

"I am not concerned with a petty personal grievance," he said today. "I don't give a damn about the job; I couldn't care less.

"The major charge I make is that Premier Bennett has tampered with the constitution of this province and the prerogatives of parliament.

"His 'challenge' is nothing but a red herring across the trail of the real issue.

"The issue is bigger than the job," he emphasized.

"When he talks about a 'very definite reason' for firing me, I don't know and don't care what he means. I know there was no such reason."

He said he had no intention of asking the premier for the reason for his dismissal.

Alan Bigelow, city lawyer named by Mr. Monteith Friday as the person who solicited campaign funds, said in a prepared statement:

"Certainly, I laughingly suggested to Berkeley in the course of the last campaign that he might support our Oak Bay campaign.

"He declined, saying that he was an officer of the legislature, which to me was a perfectly proper reason, though he needed to give none, and I had forgotten about the whole incident until the matter was raised by him."

'I Can't Give Reason'—Mr. Speaker

Thomas Irwin, speaker of the legislature, told The Times today: "Obviously I can't give the reason for Mr. Monteith's dismissal when the premier himself has withheld it, until and unless he is asked by Mr. Monteith to make a public statement."

Friday Premier Bennett answered Mr. Monteith's charges, published in The Times, by challenging him to "ask for" the real reason for his dismissal.

He said Mr. Monteith has been dismissed for a "very definite reason."

"If Mr. Monteith wishes me to make known the reason, he should advise me." He suggested a letter.

"Mr. Monteith was certainly not released from his position because of a refusal to give campaign funds," the premier told reporters.

"I say most emphatically that was not the reason," Mr. Bennett added.

Mr. Monteith was replaced by city lawyer Ian Thorne as legislature law clerk at the opening of the session Thursday.

DISPUTED ORDER

Mr. Monteith disputed the cabinet order firing him last month and attended the opening in the robes of his office, sitting in a back row beside Mr. Thorne.

He stalked out of the chamber after a resolution ratifying his dismissal was passed by the legislature.

Opposition members voted against the resolution but there was no discussion as there had been on a previous resolution dealing with appointment of a new sergeant-at-arms.

Premier Bennett insisted that "personalities" were not involved in Mr. Monteith's dismissal.

He denied that he was ever in a dispute with the law clerk over constitutional procedure.

Mr. Monteith claimed the disagreement occured at the special fall session of the legislature in 1953 over the government's handling of estimates.

Premier Bennett emphasized that the "reason" for Mr. Monteith's dismissal was "greater than a cause."

The next step in the dispute is up to Mr. Monteith, the premier said.

'BAN DRUNK DRIVERS'

$33 For a Life Too Cheap—MLA

In a plea for tougher penalties for traffic violators, a legislature member said Friday a B.C. magistrate had recently set the price of human life on our highways at "approximately $33."

Mrs. Buda Brown, new Social Credit member for Vancouver-Point Grey, cited an accident in which a drunken driver killed a father and his two children and left the young mother injured.

The driver was given a suspended jail sentence and fined $100.

Mrs. Brown urged that drunk drivers be banned from the road.

"It is better to hurt traffic law breakers than to allow them to hurt innocent people," she said.

"Much stiffer fines should be imposed to stop the reckless driver who is often as much a menace to society as the criminal."

There is "very little difference between the drinking driver and the drunk driver," Mrs. Brown said.

Mrs. Brown, considered the leading candidate for the new cabinet post of recreation and conservation, also called in her maiden speech for increased development of parks in B.C.

Mrs. Brown said she was not recommending extravagant or elaborate facilities in parks but asked:

"May we have more access roads, trails, picnic facilities, and in the larger parks more lodges and cabins."

"There is not much point in building a prosperous and populous province if we do not make outdoor recreational facilities available for all our people," she said.

The new government member for Vancouver-Point Grey, wife of former MLA Don Brown, was chosen to second the reply to the speech from the throne.

Mounting Discord in Commons Could Force Election in May

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Corespondent

OTTAWA — Possibility of a May general election was being mentioned in the corridors on Parliament Hill at the close of this week, a week that has seen disorder and discord mount in the Commons.

The date that some members are circling on their calendars is May 27, a Monday.

If the temper of the House continues to deteriorate — and Mr. Speaker Rene Beaudoin has difficulty in maintaining some dignity within the chamber — Prime Minister St. Laurent may decide not to wait until June for the general election.

NERVES FRAY

The election-conscious Commons this week witnessed displays of bad temper, frayed nerves and the use of expressions which in other sessions would have resulted in Mr. Speaker expelling one or more members.

Even though the prime minister protested some Opposition remarks, Mr. Speaker has declined to single out any member or party as being in the wrong.

The debate Friday on the bill to extend the wheat board for another five years until July 31, 1962, aroused much wrangling, particularly between the CCF and Social Credit members.

Here are some samples of the exchanges:

Solon Low, Social Credit leader (after an interjection by the CCF): "When you begin to tie a tin can to these brain-jackasses' tails, they can make a lot of noise."

Henry Hosking, Liberal, Wellington South, objecting to the long speeches critical of certain wheat board operations emanating from the CCF benches, took exception to the "complaining, snivelling and whining by the Socialist members."

Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe, denying he was nervous during the wheat board debate, said he was "not nervous, just bored."

"Parliament always bores the minister," retorted Stanley Knowles (CCF-Winnipeg North Centre).

Mr. Howe (objecting to statements made by Claude Ellis (CCF-Regina City): "I do not mind a loud voice covering an empty mind, but I think there should be some respect for the debate we are having."

DIEFENBAKER REVEALS TORY POLICY MONDAY

By VICTOR J. MACKIE

OTTAWA — The Progressive Conservative party is expected to unveil in the Commons Monday the first of its major planks in its platform for the coming general election, when Opposition leader John Diefenbaker will open the debate on a motion to "go into supply."

During a normal session 12 days are given over to this debate. This permits the airing of major grievances, and the Conservatives will have the first opportunity.

Reports circulating on Parliament Hill today were that Mr. Diefenbaker would take the opportunity to outline one of the main lines of attack that his party will launch against the administration during the coming election campaign.

Manchester U. Smothers Arsenal 6-2

LONDON (Reuters)—League leading Manchester United today launched a savage second half attack to score a 6-2 victory over Arsenal, the hottest team in the English soccer league.

Manchester overcame an early lead to whip the London club. Arsenal had lost only one of its last 14 games to shoot from nowhere to third in the league standings.

By winning Manchester moved a step closer to accomplishing a unique triple — victories in the league championship and the English and European cup championships.

Tottenham Hotspurs stayed within four points of Manchester by beating Sunderland 5-2. The Spurs have yet to lose at home this year.

THE WINNING HAND WALKED IN AND OUT

EDMONTON (CP) — The Friday night poker game was moving along nicely. Stakes were running high. Then the little man walked in.

He stepped confidently into the hotel room, and before seven astonished men completing a round of stud scooped up all visible cash from the table and ran out. Police were given his description but said today they had not found him.

The loot totalled $4,200.

Eisenhower Plan 'Step Toward War' —Marshal Zhukov

NEW DELHI (AP)—Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov said today the Eisenhower doctrine for the Middle East "undoubtedly is a step toward war."

Zhukov's remarks were made at a cocktail party he gave for Prime Minister Nehru and other Indian officials.

AWAKE . . . AFTER 51-DAY COMA

In a coma for 51 days after being knocked from his bicycle when struck by a car, 13-year-old Bruce Harrington of Vancouver said: "Oh boy, Oh boy," upon awakening and finding his nurse holding a toy dump truck. However, there was tragedy on the other side of curtain in Bruce's room. There Pat Kowalski, 15, still was unconscious, as she has been for 145 days.

IN THE LEGISLATURE

Women MLAs Get Big Welcome

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Two new women members who have changed places with their husbands in the Legislature were feted with flowers, smiles and vigorous desk-thumping when the House got down to business Friday after the pageantry of Thursday's opening ceremonies.

Mrs. Buda Brown, Social Credit member for Vancouver Point Grey, used to watch proceedings from the public galleries while her husband, Conservative Don Brown, sat as MLA in the Coalition government.

Cribbens

Mrs. Lois Haggen, quiet-spoken CCF member from Grand Forks-Greenwood, also watched from above when her husband, Rupert Haggen, represented this same constituency for the CCF.

Mr. Haggen, first elected to the Legislature in 1949, did not seek the nomination in the election last September because of ill health. He suffered a stroke and has been confined to a wheelchair the last few years.

The House was one big smile as the two women took their places at desks piled high with roses, tulips and daffodils. CCF leader Robert Strachan bowed and smiled to Mrs. Haggen; and Premier Bennett had a nod and a grin for Mrs. Brown, who sits next to Agriculture Minister Ralph Chetwynd and the rest of the cabinet.

Two-Minute Ovation for Mrs. Brown

The spotlight at this second sitting of the House centred mainly on Mrs. Brown since she was making her maiden speech in seconding a motion in support of the Throne Speech. Government members leaned forward in their chairs, the Opposition registered polite interest and the chamber thundered with desk-thumpings for nearly two whole minutes.

Distinctly feminine with dark blue dress and pearl necklace offsetting her fair waving hair, Mrs. Brown spoke without any evident nervousness in a clear, rather high-pitched voice, and made her points succinctly in a speech which had obviously been carefully prepared.

However, she is no newcomer to public life and has a natural poise acquired during many years on parks boards in Vancouver and other municipal bodies. Her enthusiasm for British Columbia's natural beauties was revealed in her repeated endorsation of the government's new ministry of conservation and recreaton, and she is an equally vehement advocate of youth welfare programs to combat juvenile delinquency.

It was noted that Mrs. Brown is considered a likely candidate for the new cabinet position of minister of recreation and conservation, as is tall, bespectacled Dan Campbell, who was making his debut as a legislative speaker. Mr. Campbell carried the Socred banner to victory for Comox in the last election. A Courtenay school teacher, he has a quiet conversational mode of speech and knows how to turn a graceful phrase.

Urging support of the government's conservation and recreation program, he quoted Wordworth's lovely lines: "I wandered lonely as a cloud, that floats on high o'ver vales and hills," and adroitly applied them to man's quest for peace in natural surroundings.

He expressed enthusiasm for development of the north end of Vancouver Island, called for long-term low-interest loans to municipalities, attacked the federal government's "tight money" policies and made the somewhat alarming statement that these policies might ultimately lead to the death of freedom and the emergence of "Big Brother."

Just who Mr. Campbell had in mind for the role of "Big Brother" he did not say, but he was obviously referring to the despotic dictator created by George Orwell in his frightening novel of the future, "Nineteen Eighty-Four."

TB Pavilion Here To Close in March

About 15 TB patients will be transferred to mainland sanitariums when the TB Pavilion at Royal Jubilee Hospital closes at the end of March.

The pavilion is no longer needed, Dr. R. M. Lane, director of the Vancouver Island Chest Centre, said Friday night.

Facilities of the 43-bed unit, rented by the provincial government since 1935, will be turned over to the Royal Jubilee Hospital, and personnel, mainly on Jubilee Hospital staff, will take over other duties.

Of 22 tuberculosis patients at the centre, about seven will be returned to their homes and the others will be sent to Vancouver or the sanitarium at Tranquille, near Kamloops, Dr. Lane said.

Decline in incidence of the disease and a definite decrease in the length of hospital treatment per patient in B.C. are responsible for the number of beds available at the two sanitariums, he said.

LESS NEED

Although out-patient and clinic work will continue here, Dr. Lane predicted the need would be "less and less" as time goes on.

"In another 10 years there won't be much to do here," he said.

Space made available by the pavilion closure will not ease overcrowding appreciably in the opinion of F. G. Mulliner, chairman of the hospital board.

"We should start now on the new extension," he said. "How we finance it should be secondary. The needs of the community which is growing by 5,000 a year should come first."

More Negotiating On Alberni Zoo

City council Friday authorized Ald. Geoffrey I. Edgelow to continue negotiations for establishment here of the Port Alberni zoo owned by Paul Hertel.

Ald. Edgelow showed council pictures of himself in a cage with African lions at the zoo, and of a cougar posed in the front seat of his car while he sat in the rear seat.

Mr. Hertel would require about $10,000 to move his zoo here and would put up security for a city loan.

If he came here he would locate in Thetis Lake Park, provided the city granted permission and either a loan was available from the city or a local zoological society could be formed to handle financing.

Bingo 'Take' $429,387 For 3 Years

By The Canadian Press

VANCOUVER — Roy Bell, chartered accountant, testified in police court today a Vancouver club's gross take from its bingo tables during a three-year period was $429,387.

Bell was giving evidence of his examination of the books of the Arcade Whist Club. The club and five of its officers and employees are charged with keeping a gaming house.

The accountant said the club's books showed that between June 1, 1953, and June 20, 1956, prizes recorded were $317,446, leaving $111,940 profit.

Charges have been brought against the club, George W. and Elizabeth Cranham, William Jacobs, George Mellish and Carl Rosen.

Bell also said the records showed that between Jan. 1, 1951, and last June 30, Cranham's income from the company was $87,800 and his wife's $30,400.

U.S. Urges Nasser Lessen Demands

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The United States is trying to learn whether Egypt's President Nasser would agree to make a conciliatory policy statement which might help to get Israeli troops out of his country.

Informed sources said Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. and other members of the American UN delegation have been sounding out Egyptian diplomats. A U.S. source acknowledged that Lodge has been in touch with the Egyptians in the last few days, but declined to disclose details.

These moves were reported as Arab delegates urged punitive measures against Israel because of her refusal to withdraw from the Sharm El Sheikh area of Egypt and the Gaza Strip.

Many western delegates believe a mild-toned, solution-seeking statement by Nasser might persuade Israel to ease her stand against withdrawal. The U.S. is reported to have suggested to Egypt's delegation that such a move by Nasser would increase his stature and enhance Egypt's prestige in the West.

DEMAND ASSURANCE

Egypt's refusal to make any commitment or even suggest her future intentions regarding the Israelis has been one of Israel's main arguing points. In refusing to withdraw from Egypt or the Gaza Strip the Israelis have stood firm on one demand — assurance of non-belligerence from Egypt.

Walter Eytan, director general of Israel's foreign ministry, again told reporters in Tel Aviv that Israel will not quit Sharm El Sheikh at the mouth of the Gulf of Aqaba until she is guaranteed that Egypt will not impair Israeli shipping interests.

Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban Friday gave President Eisenhower Israel's reasons for not pulling out of Egypt and Gaza. Informants said it was a prelude to delivery of a reply from Premier David Ben-Gurion to Eisenhower's appeal that Israel comply with repeated UN withdrawal requests.

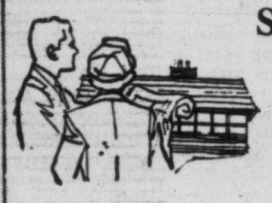
The Canada Permanent Story in 1956...
COMBINED ASSETS $288,164,545

Serving more people than ever before



C. S. Robertson, President and General Manager, in presenting the 102nd Annual Report, stated in part:

In 1956 our net profits, after taxes, reached an all time high of $1,873,146 and total assets rose above $150,000,000 for the first time. Our mortgage investments are relatively liquid in character, as evidenced by the fact that during 1956 principal repayments amounted to $20,317,532. The net increase of $16,471,636 in the total of our investments in mortgages by the end of the year was achieved as the result of the making of new loans for an aggregate of more than $36,750,000. The people of Canada need loans on single family dwellings most of all, and such loans are the mainstay of our business.

It is interesting to look back a few years and to note that we are now investing three times as much in mortgages as we did in 1946. At that time the average new loan was about $6,000. Exemplifying the conservative nature of our mortgage investments, which is due partly to caution in valuations and partly to the sound practice of requiring regular principal repayments, is the interesting fact that the average loan on our books is only $5,165.

Debentures and Savings Deposits showed an increase of over $2,500,000. It appears that more people are discovering that the Canada Permanent is a sensible place in which to save.

There are two pressing problems in our economy today. One is debt and the other is inflation. A certain amount of debt enables an individual to obtain a house and household goods before he has accumulated sufficient savings to pay for them. An undue amount of debt burdens the individual with payments of such size that he is lucky indeed ever to escape from their burden. During the past year and a half an attempt has been made by those in control of our monetary policy to restrict the growth of debt on the theory that too many individuals were getting too deeply involved for the public good.

It seems to me that two of the soundest methods of controlling inflation are encouragement of savings and encouragement of home ownership. But it is not enough for a few people to exercise thrift: the Government should give encouragement by precept as well as leadership by example, for one of the most important factors in the battle against inflation is psychology. If everbody expects prices to go up, nothing can stop them. On the other hand, if we are conscious of the need of saving for what we buy, there will be a relaxation of the pressure on prices, which will tend to slow down the rate of inflation.

As individuals, therefore, we can all contribute to the necessary stabilizing of our economy by postponing purchases and by encouraging savings.

CANADA PERMANENT
MORTGAGE CORPORATION

Growth shows value of Trust Services

Hon. T. D'Arcy Leonard, Q.C., President, in presenting the 44th Annual Report, stated in part:

The Directors' Report and Financial Statement reflect the most successful year in the Company's history. The ever-widening ambit of our business shows that we are performing a useful, efficient service to a constantly enlarging section of the public.

Canada's continuing expansion throughout 1956 has resulted in new records in national production, foreign trade, employment and other indices of economic activity. The capital investment programme in 1956 contributed substantially to the demand for goods and services, and to the pressure upon the amount of money available for investment. In the result, we have seen a marked rise in interest rates, tending to reduce inflation pressures, and to extend our capital investment programme over a longer period at a more even pace. They are welcome, also, to the beneficiaries of income from trusts and estates who have had a prolonged spell of low interest rates, combined with higher costs of living.

One of the factors that can contribute greatly to our future expansion is immigration. The increase in our national production visualized by the Gordon Report is predicated upon a net immigration varying between a minimum of 50,000 and a maximum of 100,000 persons per annum. I would hope that even the maximum figure would be exceeded. The future that I see for Canada offers advantages to all those willing to come here and contribute their energies and talents to our development.

W. Leo Knowlton, Q.C., General Manager, stated in part:

Assets under administration by the Company for estates, trusts and agencies now total $134,400,000, a net growth of $13,400,000, the largest in any year in the Company's history.

These figures speak well for the efficiency and quality of the work performed by the Company. To deal with estate and trust assets effectively requires experience, training and sound business judgment. Yet, over and above these essentials, we take just as much pride in the reputation we have gained for friendly, personal service. We have always felt that a trust company's relationship with beneficiaries demands a warmth and intimate understanding of individual problems.

It is expected that the Government of Canada will be introducing a new Succession Duty Act. It is to be hoped that consideration will be given to raising the basic value of estates exempt from duty from the present $50,000. The purchasing value of the dollar has decreased since this exemption was first introduced and recognition should be given to this fact.

Council Turns Down Nursing Homes Plea

City council upheld the 1956 zoning by-law Thursday, despite a spirited attempt by Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson to win "freedom of the city" to nursing homes.

Mrs. Wilson stood alone against seven fellow council members, the Town Planning Commission and the Victoria Real Estate Board.

Zoning regulations do not permit establishment of new nursing homes in single-family districts. Effect of the regulation is that a majority of nursing and boarding homes now in operation have become "non-conforming uses."

VALUES CUT

The alderman's main aim was to win the right to establish nursing homes in the large old homes in Rockland area. Main opposition to the campaign emanated from the realtors, who charged such establishments depreciate neighboring properties ". . . laundry lines and sick people in wheelchairs."

Ald. Wilson charged the Town Planning Commission with being inconsistent by rezoning for commercial use in other residential areas.

She pointed out that Victoria has a greater percentage of elderly people than almost any other city in the world.

She said there are 22 persons on a welfare placement list, nine of them referred by the hospitals here, and there were no nursing home space available.

Six of the nine were referred as far back as early January.

Ald. Don Smith seconded the motion to amend the zoning by-law, but was required to leave the council to take his seat in the Legislature before Mrs. Wilson had finished speaking.

NOT UNANIMOUS

Speaking as a member of the Real Estate Board, he said:

"Many of the statements of the Real Estate Board are not the true feeling of all members."

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow said he felt it was time outlying municipalities accepted part of the job of providing suitable sites for nursing homes.

"In Oak Bay they will not have a boarding home or a nursing home. There are none in Esquimalt. We are taking the load," he stated.

COUNCIL BRIEFS

Aldermanic Portraits—$1,000 Each

Portrait painter Plato Ustinov, of Vancouver, London and New York, advised city council Friday he would do paintings of leading civic figures as Centennial year projects for prices ranging from $500 to $1,000 each.

His letter was received and filed.

City council declined a request Thursday to provide an alderman to speak at a public forum being staged February 25 by Saanich CCF Constituency Association.

The Saanich group will discuss the topic "School By-law, Fact or Fancy."

The meeting will be held in the Douglas Street CCF Hall. Dr. J. M. Thomas and school board chairman W. H. Golby have already agreed to act on a panel.

A third speaker will be asked from Victoria Labor Council.

City lawyer George Gregory, MLA, wrote to council saying he could see nothing objectionable in any use of the trading stamps which was not prohibited by the Criminal Code. He said their use was no worse than the practice of some merchants to offer discounts, hold one-cent sales and "so-called clearance sales," to gain an advantage over competitors.

The city solicitor was instructed to prepare a submission to the provincial government asking special permission for the city to employ either the new Municipal Act or the Victoria City Act in setting a new scale of trade licence fees.

"We want to be able to apply whichever is the most advantageous to the city," the mayor explained.

It is anticipated the new Municipal Act will make it possible for the city to greatly increase revenue from this source in the next year.

New Seal Pact Gives Canada 15% of Catch

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States, Russia, Japan and Canada today signed an agreement, on an interim basis, to regulate fur seal hunting in the North Pacific.

The agreement in the form of an international convention, was reached after almost two years of negotiations. It provides among other things for:

1. Establishment of a four-member North Pacific fur seal commission.

2. A six-year co-operative seal research program.

3. The prohibition of seal hunting at sea.

4. Authority to search vessels at sea in suspicious circumstances and to arrest vessels and crews upon reasonable belief that they were seal hunting. Trial would be held in the country whose flag the vessel was flying.

5. Advocacy of the enactment and enforcement of such national legislation as may be required to guarantee observance of the convention.

6. A sharing of the land kill so that Canada and Japan will receive each year from the U.S. and Russia 15 per cent of the seal-skins taken from their islands by the latter two governments.

The convention is to continue in effect for six years and will become effective upon the deposit of ratifications in Washington.

DUBLIN (Reuters)—England beat Ireland 6-0 in a Rugby Union international today.

Macmillan, Ike Ready to Parley

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower probably will fly to Bermuda about March 21 for a conference with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, according to plans now being worked out between Washington and London.

Prior to the Bermuda trip the President probably will hold a round of talks here with Premier Guy Mollet of France.

CCF to Nominate Candidate Feb. 21 For Burnaby Seat

CCF members will meet at Burnaby Feb. 21 to decide who will contest the vacant seat in the B.C. Legislature created by the death of Ernest E. Winch, who had held the seat since 1933.

A by-election to fill the vacancy must be held within six months from the formal notification of Mr. Winch's death made at the opening of the Legislature Thursday.

Mrs. Grace MacInnis, a daughter of CCF pioneer James S. Woodsworth and a former CCF member of the Legislature, has been mentioned as a possible candidate.

Sink Regulation Gets More Study By City Committee

City council health and welfare committee will study still further the controversial sink-in-every-room issue for housekeeping rooms.

The problem was referred back to the committe by council on Thursday.

The committee earlier recommended that council give owners of housekeeping rooms three years to comply with the requirement that every housekeeping room have a sink.

The original by-law stating that housekeeping rooms should have sinks was passed in 1949, but council has had trouble enforcing the regulation.

Thames Overflows

LONDON (AP) — Swollen by steady rain, the Thames River rose steadily today and flooded parts of the Windsor castle ground and the Eton College playing fields. The river was two feet above normal. Flood warnings went out to bordering communities.

Cameron Scores Trans-Mountain Stock Split

OTTAWA (CP)—CCF member Colin Cameron said Friday that a bill to permit Trans-Mountain Oil Pipe Line Company to make a stock split of five shares for one is "a barefaced attempt to increase the profits of a few individuals."

The Commons, debating private members' bills, was discussing one sponsored by Francis T. Fairey (L-Victoria, B.C.) to permit the company to increase its shares to 25,000,000 from 5,000,000.

An amendment proposed last week by Erhart Regier (CCF-Burnaby-Coquitlam), that the federal government consider taking over the pipeline, which carries oil between Edmonton and the west coast, was ruled out of order.

Mr. Cameron, opposing a Trans-Mountain stock split, said the company has sold only 1,500,000 shares of the total authorized, and of those only 450,000 had reached the general public.

VALUE INCREASES

When the bill was introduced last week, Mr. Fairey informed the House that since the company's incorporation by Parliament in 1951 its shares had risen in value to $100 from an original $10. A stock split would enable greater public participation in the company's affairs.

Mr. Cameron said the company should first be asked why all the shares authorized by Parliament six years ago have not yet been released, and whether the company is prepared to release them now, and at what price. The bill should be referred to a committee.

ANIMALS AROUND US

Crayfish Meandering Puzzles Naturalists

It is obvious that plants and animals are not distributed evenly over the earth. Some species such as various fungi among plants and microscopic protozoans among animals are found on all continents but most living things are confined to their own particular areas on the globe. Thus, polar bears are found in the Arctic but not in the Antarctic and kangaroos are found in Australia but not in Asia.

Dr. Carl

The reasons for the presence or absence of some of these living things are sometimes fairly evident. Mountains, oceans, deserts, and unfavorable climates obviously act as barriers to the spread of plants and animals but sometimes the factors which influence the distribution of living things are very complex and we cannot put our finger on any good reason for some plants and animals being where they are.

Among the arthropods which we have been considering lately, the crayfish present many perplexing problems in their present-day distribution. These animals are something like a small lobster in organization but they are confined strictly to fresh water. Despite their inability to live in the sea, or even in brackish water, they are widely distributed on all the major land masses. They must therefore have gained access to the various continents very early in the history of the earth when land bridges joined the continents. Later as the land masses became more or less separated as they are now the crayfish became isolated and developed their own individual paths to produce a bewildering array of species which exists today. However, relationships still remain evident in most, so that the origins of many can still be conjectured.

B.C. Crayfish Same as in Europe

The crayfish of British Columbia and of the states west of the Rockies are almost identical with those of Europe; those of eastern North America apparently sprung from other stock. Some students contend that crayfish originated in the southeastern States and spread from this area over the whole continent and across to Asia and Europe via land connections across what is now the Bering Sea. Those on either side of the Rocky Mountain "backbone" have been separated so long that the two populations now differ one from the other both in structure and in habits.

Opponents to this theory argue that crayfish originated in the Old World, possibly in Europe. Those in North America came from the Siberian side and spread south over the continent. They agree with the former students, however, that the two North American groups of crayfish have arisen as a result of being separated by the Rocky Mountain system.

The spotty occurrence of crayfish in British Columbia provides many puzzles, too. For example, these crustaceans are found in the Okanagan system of lakes and rivers in the interior of the province, and in the Burnaby Lake drainage systems in the Lower Fraser. On Vancouver Island they are in Beaver and Thetis Lakes and Colquitz River near Victoria; in Langford Lake; in Shawnigan Lake; in Koksilah River and the lower reaches of Cowichan River; in Kennedy Lake and probably in other island systems as well.

How Did They Get to Nootka Island?

To complicate the picture further, crayfish also occur in a swamp on Nootka Island, off the West Coast. Since they are intolerant of salt water, one wonders how they got to these islands, especially Nootka Island which is rather small and isolated. Also, how come they are apparently not present in other lakes and streams on Vancouver Island which appear well suited to their needs?

Undoubtedly the crayfish now found in certain water systems of Vancouver Island are native but there is conflicting evidence about the origin of some. Those which populate Shawnigan Lake, for example, are said to owe their presence to an original planting made by the late Judge Hunter who had a home on the lake many years ago. Local "old-timers" claimed that the Judge imported "crawfish" from Oregon and released them into Shawnigan as a source of food. If this is true it is conceivable some may have escaped into the Koksilah River and then spread into the Cowichan but it does not explain their presence in the other waterways of the island.

Such puzzles in animal distribution await solution. Perhaps some naturalist of the future, bored with television and other modern distractions will turn his energies to some and come up with satisfactory of these intriguing problems answers.

Heavy Losses Send Market To 3-Month Low

By RON ANDREWS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canadian stock markets this week suffered their worst setback since last November.

The industrial index on the Toronto Stock Exchange lost nearly nine points, base metals 7½ and western oils 5¾. There were five losses to every two gains.

Traders were discouraged during the entire week as bullish factors of any importance failed to appear. Although trading was faster than the previous week, many issues, especially among industrials, moved on extremely light turnovers.

The markets got off to a bad start. Monday it was coppers which led prices lower. The price of the red metal on the world market was reduced to its lowest level in months near the end of the previous week and the full affect of this reduction was left on the stock market at the beginning of this week.

GRIM PROSPECT

Tuesday former United States president Herbert Hoover triggered wide-spread selling both in Canadian and American markets with his address concerning depression signs detected in the present inflation. The markets suffered their worst single-session loss in more than three months and never recovered during the remaining three days.

At week's end there were few noteworthy gains in any section. And only a few issues—mostly the ones which climbed steadily last month—showed sizeable losses.

Steels were taken back with the decline and had three big losses. Algoma was off $4.50 to $112, Aluminium $3.50 to $112 and Stelco $2.25 to $64.

Trans Mountain Pipe Line, which leaped ahead in the previous week, was swept back by profit-taking. It lost $6.75 at $107. Most other price changes were less than $2. Price Bros. however, managed a $2.25 gain at $55¼ and International Pete added $1.62½ cents at $47.62½.

COPPER DOWN

Three senior base metals had heavy losses—Hudson Bay, $4 to $79.50; International Nickel, $3.75 to $98.50; and Falconbridge, $3.37½ to $35.37½.

Coppers had the biggest declines among other mining groups. Losses ranged to $1 and several stocks were down between 35 and 60 cents. Pronto Uranium dipped 40 cents to $5.90 and Gunnar lost 1.87½ at $18.75. The most active stock was Atlin - Ruffner, which gained one cent at 69 cents. It traded more than 3,300,000 shares. Including 1,400,000 Monday when it touched $1.02.

Mention of Inflation Controls Puts Retailers in Jittery Mood

By WALTER BREEDE JR.7

NEW YORK (AP)—Talk of inflation, deflation and possible wage and price controls posed new questions for U.S. businessmen this week.

Former president Herbert Hoover warned that it could happen again.

Hoover repeated Treasury Secretary George Humphrey's warning that big federal budgets, if long continued, will produce "a depression that will curl your hair."

Questions about the future were also raised by President Eisenhower.

The president said if business and labor can't control inflation, the federal government will have to move in with controls.

Many businessmen jumped to the conclusion that he meant wage and price controls.

Cries of protest from retailers brought this assurance from Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks: "There is no disposition in this administration" to crack down with wage and price controls.

Even so, the mere mention of inflation controls was enough to give retailers the jitters.

Backgrounding inflation talk was a generally - mixed business picture.

Soft spots included: A decline in freight carloadings, lagging sales of appliances and television sets, a continued slump in home building, and a shaky stock market.

Latest reports on unemployment showed job totals slipping behind 1956 levels.

On the plus side, the steel industry was roaring along at near capacity and auto production was picking up. Spending on new construction in January touched a high despite the home building lag.

Consumer spending continued to top the 1956 rate.

Ford reported net profit of $236,500,000, down 46 per cent from 1955.

Chrysler's net of just under $20,000,000 was off a whopping 80 per cent.

In each instance, total sales were below record peaks of 1955.

Briefly over the business scene:

Average weekly wage of U.S. factory workers $82.41, down $1.64 from December . . . a federal grand jury will look into the recent increase in oil prices. RCA has developed an electronic computer that will tell retailers when, what and at what price they should buy — provided these first feed the machine the proper information.

Summer Training For 5th Battery Set for Mainland

For the first time in its peacetime history 5 Medium Battery (recently 5 Harbor Defence Battery) will take its summer training off Vancouver Island.

With its conversion to a mobile field artillery unit, the battery must concentrate for summer training where there is a firing range and area in which it can manoeuvre with other militia units.

Usual summer camp for other units in Alberta and B.C. is Camp Wainwright, Alberta.

B.C. Area commander, Brig. J. W. Bishop indicated after his inspection of the unit this week the 5th would soon be receiving its two 155 mm. field weapons, which will enable the 80 active gunners to familiarize themselves with their operation by summer.

THOU (COUGARS) SHALT NOT PASS

Cats Blanked As Francis Steals Show

Seattle 2, Victoria 0

By DENNY BOYD

Victoria Cougars Friday night finally drew the audience they have been waiting for all season but a chorus of Seattle Americans stole the stage, crabbed the act and loused up the script.

With over 3,800 fans in the pews, the biggest Cougar crowd of the season, a Victoria win would have been a smash hit in any reviewer's book. But Seattle went and knocked the ratings askew by sneaking off with a 2-0 victory.

The salve that might ease the pain of disappointment for the Cougars would be that they were beaten by a red-hot team and an equally hot goalie, Emil Francis, and that Vancouver Canucks also lost Friday.

Vancouver's loss, their first in three games on the prairies this week, left the Cougars still one point out of third place, a deficit that could be swallowed up tonight when the Cougars play a return game at Seattle while the Canucks visit Brandon, home of the prairie division-leading Regals.

Two great goalies, Francis and Victoria's Marcel Pelletier, locked horns here Friday night and when it was over, Francis wore the sharper horns. Pelletier's were dulled slightly by more work and the two goals that meant defeat.

SECOND TIME

Pelletier stopped 36 shots while Francis was leak-proof on 29 to score his second shutout of the season against the Cougars.

The Cougars had their chances, plenty of them, in the first period but Francis was always ready with an argument and the Victoria club never did put their point across.

Indication of what was to come was given early. After eight minutes of the first period, Pelletier kicked out a ticketed shot by Ray Kinasewich on a breakaway and on the return rush, Francis bolted the door securely on a stiff shot and a rebound by Gordie Haworth.

Cougars were short-handed after two successive penalties when Seattle's Mr. Big, Guyle Fielder, scored the only goal that was necessary.

He snapped in a low shot on Alex Kuzma's rebound as the Cougars were bunched around Pelletier, trying to throw up a cordon of bodies against the Seattle broadsides.

Cougars had two more big chances in the second period, Bruce Carmichael firing into Francis' voluminous pads on a promising chance and Wayne Brown chipping paint off the post with one of his slingshot drives during a Cougar power play. And then in the third period, Francis snatched a dangerous shot out of the top corner from a long blueline drive by Nels Bulloch.

His American teammates showed their appreciation for Francis' efforts when they gave him a little more padding to work with.

EXTRA GOAL

On an all-out Cougar ganging attack, Art Hart intercepted and was off and flying from the Seattle blueline. Showing a tremendous burst of speed, Cougar defenceman Lionel Heinrich caught up to Hart, half-checked his shot and Pelletier kicked the puck out of the crease.

However, Bruce Lea hot-footed in from the opposite wing and pushed back the rebound for the goal that was wheat in the bin for Seattle.

The Victoria fans found something to cheer about in the third period in the return to action of veteran centre Ray Powell, who was dressed for the first time since suffering a broken arm before Christmas.

Pivoting Brown and Larry Leach, and dealing off passes with the deftness of a card-shark, Powell gave Francis and the Seattle defence some anxious moments.

WARRIORS PULL SURPRISE

Canucks Lurch, But Not Royals

By The Canadian Press

The law of averages caught up with Vancouver Canucks Friday night but New Westminster Royals thumbed their noses at the odds.

In the 200-odd games played so far this season in the Western Hockey League, the home team has won two out of three games.

But New Westminster cut down the margin Friday night as they edged Edmonton Flyers, 6-5, before 3,904 Edmonton fans.

Canucks, who previously had won seven out of 10 games played on the Prairie tour, dropped a 1-0 decision to the Warriors in Winnipeg.

Murray Wilkie surprised about 3,000 Winnipeg fans and Vancouver goalie Ray Mikulan when he scored Warriors' only goal, a 20-foot sizzler in the third period.

The victory didn't help Warriors much. They are still in the Prairie division basement nine points back of Calgary Stampeders.

TWO FOR FASHOWAY

The Royals victory over Edmonton brought no change in the league standing but it increased New Westminster's lead over the third-place Canucks to six points.

Gord Fashoway's second goal of the night in the final period proved the winner. Other Royal marksmen were Bobby Love, Arlo Goodwin, Denny Olson and Ollie Dorohoy.

Flyers counted goals by Tom McCarthy, Jerry Melnyk, Bill McCreary, Don Poile and Tony Leswick.

Goalie Bev Bentley was spectacular in the Royal cage and he also drew a couple of penalties, one for holding the puck. The second came two minutes later when anxious Bev juggled the puck over the boards. Royals protested the resulting penalty by throwing 14 hockey sticks on the ice.

Histamines May Dictate Bert's Badminton Fate

By DOUG PEDEN

When you hear of histamines, you usually think of hospitals, drug stores or television commercials.

Yet, the little fellows which make habit of running around inside Bert Fergus may have a lot to say about who packs home the men's singles title when the British Columbia badminton tournament at Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club winds up Sunday.

The histamines residing in the slender Lulu Island school teacher's system are unpredictable types which decide the state of his bronchial asthma. When they're good, Bert's asthma is good. When they act up and charge out of Bert's tissues, his badminton suffers, and so does Bert.

Sometimes his allergy keeps him out of action for several weeks, but right now the histamines are behaving and this could be the time he finally turns the tables on Dave McTaggart, reigning Canadian champion and top seeded in the B.C. tourney.

Fergus doesn't blame his asthma for the fact that he doesn't yet own a tournament singles victory over McTaggart. He has felt in good condition for several of his losing encounters with the drop-shot artist from Vancouver. "Dave's just got all the shots," he explained while waiting to go on the court Friday night.

"But I'm feeling better than I have for a couple of years," he said. "This might be the time. It could be now or never."

Owner of a remarkably flexible wrist and a master of doubles play, Fergus is a badminton rarity in that his backhand shots are rated stronger than those coming off his forehand. He had litle trouble winning his opening match against Norman Hughes, 15-6, 15-8 and if he can get by the quarter-final round today, should meet McTaggart in the semis tonight.

MCTAGGART WINS

McTaggart served notice that it will be a tough chore to keep him from wresting the singles crown away from Vancouver's Johnny Bouck as he polished off Eain Lamont UBC, 15-0, 15-2.

Bouck, expected to meet Seattle's Don Davis in the semis, moved past Victoria junior Warren Bell, 15-2, 15-7, while Davis advanced to the quarter-finals with a 15-5, 15-2 victory over T. Johnston.

McTaggart believes the strongest opposition in his attempt to regain the singles crown he won two years ago could come from Fergus.

"Bert is undoubtedly the best doubles player in Canada," the Thomas Cup star remarked. "If it wasn't for his asthma troubles, he would probably be the best singles player, to."

One thing will be working on the side of Bert's allergy since the histamines work most efficiently when Fergus is over-tired.

He is paired with McTaggart in the men's doubles and defending the mixed doubles title with Lois Reid. If he gets to the finals in three events, Fergus will have played eight more matches before semifinals are completed tonight. And badminton as currently being practiced at the Amphion Street courts isn't exactly a leisurely pastime.

However, if the little troublemakers behave and Bert finds the confidence in singles that his ability warrants, this could possibly be the time.

VICTORIA HOPES DIMMED AS HURD INJURES ANKLE

One of Victoria's main hopes for top honors in the B.C. badminton tournament at Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club may be out of the running, although unbeaten on the courts.

Harvey Hurd, the 16-year-old city open champion, defeated Rupe Topp of Seattle in his opening singles match but sprained his ankle in the process, and was carried from the court.

Hurd, scheduled to play in the Canadian junior tournament at Kingston next month, had the ankle taped and returned to win a mixed doubles match. But it was swollen badly at the finish and Hurd was a doubtful starter in today's matches.

GAINS SECTION FINAL

Duncan's Tony Still a Threat

NELSON (CP) — Dick Topping of Kamloops was eliminated from further competition in the British Columbia Curling Championships here Friday when he lost to Bill Croft of Summerland, 10-9.

The win advanced Croft to the finals of the B section of the play-downs along with Tony Folk of Duncan. Folk beat Ray Mathieson of Kimberley 10-9.

The losses eliminate Mathieson and Topping from the double knockout competition.

Late Friday night, the primary A Diamond Jubilee event was won by Reg Stone of Trail who beat Eric Bisgrove of Kimberley 12-9 with a six-ender in the 12th.

Stone was tumbled from the unbeaten ranks with a 9-7 loss to Topping in the B section.

Friday, Mathieson topped Coates 8-6 in a game that was tied 6-6 coming home.

Croft eliminated Clarence Larsen of Chilliwack by handing the Fraser Valley skip his second loss. Folk took Bill Carmichael of Prince George out of the competition with an 8-3 win over the northern rink. Score of the Croft-Larson game was 9-5.

MEETING CAUGHT COLD

Shamrock Ideas Cooly Received

(Special to the Times)

VANCOUVER—Victoria Shamrocks tossed a fresh theory at the Intercity Lacrosse League here Friday night and got trimmed for their troubles.

Shamrocks suggested rule changes—daring and immediate.

Specifically: 1—The game needs two field judges and only one referee to solve the referee problem by saturation. 2—Players must have two hands on the stick and keep 'em there. 3—A time limit of 30 seconds should be imposed on the team with possession of the ball. Unless a shot is taken in that time the team loses possession.

While the 24th annual general meeting tittered nervously, president Carl Grauer got up. "I for one am in no position to comment on these suggestions," he said darkly. "I don't feel any of us are. I now formally ask that member clubs discuss such proposals before our meetings rather than catching us cold."

It was no complete rebuff, though, if results count. Grauer said a meeting will be held in Nanaimo on March 3.

ANOTHER CHANCE

At that meeting the Victoria ideas will be sternly probed. So will another by Nanaimo's Canadian champions.

The Timbermen advocate a travelling pool based on action at the gate. At season's end the pool would be emptied to soothe financial travelling wounds.

Most vital to the playing aspect of lacrosse were Victoria's unique propositions. "We have to change our thinking about the game," insisted Victoria spokesman Arnie Ferguson, tall and gaunt and serious. "The fans aren't satisfied.

No more complex were the elections. The entire executive was returned, starting with president Grauer and continuing south. Tommy Gordon, secretary-treasurer; Bill Dickinson, vice-president; and Ed Popham Sr., Bus Matthews and Art Jefferd, commissioners.

The 1957 season will be preceded by an exhibition game, with all proceeds going to the Tommy White fund.

The defending Canadian champion Nanaimo Timbermen will take on a bundle of predestined trouble when they face an all-star team made up from the other three league teams. The money gained will go to the widow and family of former Timberman White, killed recently in an auto accident.

Climbs Off Floor to Win

NEW YORK (AP) — Isidro Martinez, a switch-hitting featherweight from Panama, brushed off a second-round knockdown to stop Bobby Courchesne of Holyoke, Mass., in 32 seconds of the 10th round Friday night at Madison Square Garden. Martinez weighed 129, Courchesne 129½.

Stan Leonard at Peak, Will Enter U.S. Open

VANCOUVER, Feb. 9 (BUP) — Stan Leonard, Canada's top golfer, for the first time in his career plans to enter this year's United States open, the continent's top prestige tournament.

Leonard, who lived in Vancouver and until recently served as professional at Lachute, P.Q., made the announcement Friday after returning here for a brief break from the winter circuit.

He passed up the $15,000 Tucson Open after recently picking up a total of $2,740 in prize-money in the Bing Crosby Pro-Amateur, the Tia Juana tournament, the Thunderbird Invitational and the Phoenix Open.

In these four tourneys, comprising a total of 15 rounds, Leonard compiled a 70.5 stroke average for what he called "the best golf of my life."

Leonard said he plans to enter the qualifying round for the U.S. Open, scheduled for the Inverness Club at Toledo, O., June 13-15. He said he planned to pass up next week's Texas Open, and fly to Houston, Tex., for the $36,000 Houston Open Feb. 21-24.

He will compete as an "unattached" professional. His contract with the Lachute Country Club recently expired.

ON THE ALLEYS

Five-Pinners Scorch Planks

That odor of overheated wood down Esquimalt way this week didn't rate any attention from the hose and ladder laddies. It was only the work of a bunch of five-pinners warming up the lanes for the Vancouver Island tournament.

Larry Marshall's Esquimalt Bowladrome won't host the second annual Island fivepin meet until early April, but if the way the pins were bouncing around this week is any criterion, Larry's liable to have a bit of scorched wood on his hands before the tourney rolls around.

Geoff Worrall came the closest to committing arson as he sizzled through a 953 triple and followed up a couple of days later with an 821 effort. In all, a total of 32 games over 700 were cooked up on the eight-alley layout.

In his 953 performance, Worrall started with 383, had 236 in his second game despite being left with six corner pins and finished with 334.

Tony Bishop, who shared the Island doubles title last year, was next in line with an 808 three-game score, which included a 318 single.

Also hitting 725 or over at Esquimalt were D. Moseley 761, Phil Young 749 (307), Fred Worseley 744 (330), J. Frampton 743, Norm Martin 732, Ben Price 725 and Hazel Chamberlain, who set the pace for the gentler sex with a 736 triple, including a 314 single.

★ ★ ★

There were also a pair of over-800 triples registered at Capital City Bowladrome. Jim Thorburn spilled the maples for 821 and Don Marshall racked up 805. Ollie Rogers came close with 797, Jim Douglas had 792, Walter Wigg 785, Gordie Ball 778, Doug Romkey 766, Marge Berry 757, Art Barry 734, Bob McKnight 732, Bob Green 732, Des Nex 709, Jerry Brown 709, and Irma Ronden 704.

At Strathcona Alleys, Ted Snejzek had a 773 triple with a 332 single.

Ken Munn, operating in the commercial loop at Gibson's Bowladrome, posted the high tenpin score of the week, hitting 585 with a 234 single. John Pickburn 571, P. Graham 547, Chuck Bennett 542 (210), and H. Hazzard 540 (200) also rolled notable commercial league scores.

★ ★ ★

In Gibson's senior tenpin it was Herb Chandler setting the pace with a 583 (236) triple. Then came Bill Holness 576 (222), B. Odgers 568 (213), R. Bridger 556 (205), Gordie Bamford 545, Cass Sapala 551, Len Murrant 554, Roy Begg 546, Kenn Munn 577, Wilbur Webb 546 (210), B. Coates 547 and Bud Marty 572.

Tom Sparks posted a 560 triple to lead the way in Gibson's mixed tenpin rundling, Jack Hobby had 559, Bill Holness 550 (200), and Len Murrant 547 (207). Mona Corbett led the ladies with a 510 effort. In the ladies' tenpin loop, Gladys Cornthwaite registered a 542 triple with a 198 single.

★ ★ ★

Bells Mean Nothing To Nino and Kitione

LONDON (AP) — Kitione Lave of Tonga lasted one round as a sparring partner for Cuban heavyweight Nino Valdes Friday and went out looking for a new job. But, man, what a round!

It was like one of those boxing matches you heard about in the bare-knuckle days. The bell rang—end of round one. But nothing changed. The two giants just kept on slugging, each getting angrier and angrier with every punch.

Some 100 fans watched in open-mouthed astonishment at the Leroy Street gym as the bell clanged again and again but the fighters refused to quit. Then Tobey Noble, 218-pound owner of the gym, dived through the ropes and grabbed Valdes. Dave Edar, Valdes' manager, pounced into the ring on the other side and grabbed Lave. The two boxers were finally shoved apart and escorted out of the ring.

Valdes said Lave, just hired as a sparring partner, was roughing it up more than necessary. Lave said it was the other way around—Valdes was giving him "the works."

Both agreed to shake hands later, but Valdes, who is training for his London fight with British heavyweight champion Joe Erskine Feb. 19, said Lave had better look for another job.

Lave, a minister's son, and a favorite of Tonga's Queen Salota, said it was the shortest job he's ever held. The crowd in the gym said it was terrific.

Trucker Banned For Three Years

SCURRAH TO VACATION 2 WEEKS IN CALIFORNIA

Mayor Percy Scurrah leaves this weekend for a two-week holiday in California.

The mayor, who took only one week's vacation during the first half of his term last year, will be accompanied by Mrs. Scurrah.

Council is expected to meet at least once during the mayor's absence to complete first and second reading of the new fire hall by-law.

Most other pressing business was cleared up at a special meeting Friday.

MONTE ROBERTS

My old friend Dan dropped in to see me last evening. And, unlike his usual smiling self, he was frowning and muttering under his breath.

I was a little surprised to see Dan so early—he doesn't usually turn up until nearly the middle of the month—but I was even more surprised to note his sober mein.

So, naturally enough, I started out with a cheery greeting.

"Why, Daniel," I said. "Daniel Cupid. How good to see you. What brings you down from your rosy, heart-shaped cloud so early?"

"Nyaaah," said Dan (I guess we are allowed to call him Dan) Cupid.

"Come, come," I said, "is that any way for a busy little messenger of love to talk? Especially," I added, "when the open season on lovers starts next Thursday, February 14, you know."

"I know," muttered Dan.

"What's your big trouble, son?" I asked. "Roses Red, Violets Blue, Sugar's Sweet, but mortgage due?"

"Nyaaah," said Dan.

"Hmmm," I hmmmed. "Something here we must look into. Could it be there's a new rhyming dictionary out? Love no longer rhymes with above? June doesn't rhyme with spoon or moon?"

"Worse than that," Dan Cupid growled. (I know you will find it hard to imagine Dan Cupid growling, but that's just what he did. I heard him.)

What could be worse than June not rhyming with spoon or moon? or even croon?" I asked, by this time genuinely alarmed.

"It's my ordnance," said Dan.

"Your what?" I cried.

"These," said Dan, lifting the traditional instruments of his trade—weapons he has carried for lo, these many years.

"What's wrong with them?" I asked. "They look in good repair to me."

"They're in good repair, all right," said Dan, with a small note of pride in his voice. "I, personally, keep them that way.

"But," said Dan, "everyone else has modern weapons. Guided missiles. Acoustic torpedoes. Atomic bombs. Jet planes. Radar-operated cannon.

"And what am I stuck with?" Dan went on. "Look. I'm still back in the bow and arrow age."

"Gee, that's bad," I admitted. "Why don't you write a letter to the editor about it?"

"Precisely why I am here," he said, plucking a feather from one of his arrows and dipping it in ink.

"Be sure to sign it 'Indignant D. Cupid,'" I said.

"That I will," said Dan.

Pineapple-sized pine cone, here held by Mel Sico, is product of Vancouver Island—although the tree from which it fell with a large thud was imported from California. Product of the giant Coulter pine, it is here compared with a spruce cone. There are only three Coulter pines in B.C., two of them on the property of R. C. Ross, East Saanich Road, the other at UBC.

Boy Injured In Hit-Run; Man Charged

Woman Hurt In Highway Crash

Alexander Hammond, 14, 1025 Moss, was in "fairly good condition" in St. Joseph's Hospital suffering head injuries and multiple abrasions received when his bicycle was in collision with a car at Fort and Cook at 4.20 a.m. today.

Charged with failing to remain at the scene was Norman Leslie Nantes, 1037 Pendergast, who was remanded in city court without plea to Wednesday on $500 bail.

Icy road conditions in Saanich were responsible for shoulder injuries to Mrs. L. Bitten, RR 1, Saanichton, who was riding in a car driven by her husband when it went out of control and into a ditch on Patricia Bay highway near Beaver Lake Park entrance about 10.45 a.m.

A 2½-months-old daughter also in the car, and Mr. Bitten, were not injured.

Mrs. Bitten was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital by Saanich police, and admitted.

In the early morning accident, young Hammond, a newspaper carrier, was on his way to work when the accident occurred.

Police said the car involved was proceeding south on Cook when it collided with the cyclist heading west on Fort.

Ronald Moore, 1843 Crescent, who was a witness, told police the car kept going along Cook. He gave police a description of the car.

Saanich police reported about a half dozen cars and two buses went off the highways when they hit icy patches this morning, but without property damage or injuries reported.

"MR. CANADA" will visit here next Wednesday. He's John Fisher, lawyer, author, broadcaster and executive director of the Canadian Tourist Association. He'll be here on an informal visit because, as he has said earlier, and often, "I like Victoria."

$525 in Fines After Crash

Twenty-year-old Robert Thompson, 924 Market, was ordered in Colwood RCMP court Friday to pay fines totalling $525 and $27.50 costs or face three months in jail for criminally negligent driving and violating driver's licence restrictions.

Thompson was driver of a loaded wood truck which collided with a car and overturned Jan. 7 on Trans-Canada Highway near Thetis Lake Road, sending two Belmont High School teachers to hospital.

Injured were Gordon L. McIntosh, 2047 Chaucer, and H. J. Walter, occupants of the car, which was heavily damaged.

In addition to the fines, Magistrate A. I. Thomas ordered Thompson's driver's licence suspended for three years.

"I'm very much concerned about this man's ability to drive," the magistrate said. "In fact, he had no ability to drive, in my opinion." He imposed the maximum penalty for negligence.

LENGTHY RECORD

RCMP Cpl. Daniel Thompson, in charge of Colwood detachment, read a lengthy record of driving offences committed by the accused. Thompson's licence was suspended for a time last year, but reinstated before the accident.

He was permitted to drive trucks up to ½-ton size. The truck he was driving at the time of the collision was a three-ton model.

Previous evidence brought out the fact there were mechanical defects in the steering gear.

"This man is certainly a menace on the highway and to himself," defence counsel James Proudfoot said, suggesting that he be suspended "for as long as he can be for the safety of the public and for his own sake."

Fine for negligence conviction was $500, with $27.50 costs, or three months in jail. The second charge brought a minimum fine of $25 with costs waived, or five days in jail, concurrent.

Cpl. Thompson opposed the court granting the accused time to pay his fines.

Magistrate Thomas said he felt "no extenuating circumstances should be given to him. He is obligated to pay the penalty."

$80,000 For Start On Forest Lab

A sum of $80,000 has been set aside in federal government estimates for the erection of a header-house and greenhouse, the first stage in a plan to construct a $1,000,000 forest laboratory in Saanich.

Dr. F. T. Fairey, MP for Victoria, said construction of the greenhouse will start in early spring. It will be 27 feet by 100 feet, with header house attached.

SEVEN-ACRE SITE

The greenhouse will be constructed on seven acres of land adjoining the new Trans-Canada Highway and Burnside, alongside the Rowland Heights subdivision.

The government purchased the land three years ago for $26,500.

Federal forest laboratory offices now are in the Federal Building on Government Street.

Dr. Raymond E. Foster, director of the Forest Biology Laboratory, said the greenhouse will be constructed first.

March 9 Vote Set On New Fire Hall

Pandora Green Site Proposal Abandoned; New Location Plan at Next Council Meeting

City council decided Friday to submit a money by-law to ratepayers March 9 seeking authority to spend $325,000 for a new headquarters fire hall.

Only Ald. E. D. McEwen opposed the plan which was put forward by Mayor Percy Scurrah earlier this week.

"It should be a joint city hall, fire hall and police station," the alderman said.

There was nothing wrong with the present police building, said the mayor.

CONFUSE PUBLIC

"We're going to confuse the public" by holding a by-law for a fire hall at the same date ratepayers will vote again on the school by-law, said Ald. McEwen.

"We shouldn't assume our taxpayers are that stupid. We'll get more people out (to vote)," said Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow.

Mayor Scurrah indicated an earlier proposal for erection of the new hall on the Pandora Green had been withdrawn.

"It was only a trial balloon and it didn't mean a darn thing," he said.

He hinted a more acceptable site had been found, and suggested an extra $25,000 be added to the $300,000 he had originally asked to be spent. The additional funds would be required for land purchase.

MIDDLE EAST CRISIS will be the subject of Rudolph Bialuski when he speaks to the Victoria branch, United Nations Association, in the CCF Hall, Courtney Street, next Wednesday at 8 p.m. Executive director of the Victoria Community Chest and Council in 1949, Mr. Bialuski has since served with the United Nations in Europe and the Middle East. His lecture will be illustrated with slides.

Council Shies On Tough Dog Leash Law

Proposed extension of the leash law to cover dogs wherever they may roam in Victoria was sent back to parks committee Friday for "watering down."

It had been proposed by the committee that all dogs in the city be required to be leashed when off their home property. The regulation is in effect for the downtown area now, but in residential areas dogs may run free if accompanied by a responsible person.

Ald. Edgelow, chairman of the parks committee, was first to object to the proposal his group had accepted from parks administrator W. H. Warren.

He suggested the phrase "on a leash or chain" should be changed to "under effective control."

Ald. Hugh Ramsay noted this is already in effect.

City solicitor T. P. O'Grady said the dog regulations require further clarification. He was authorized to meet with the committee to bring in a revised recommendation.

Carpenter Elected By Garden City Horsemen's Club

New president of Garden City Horsemen's Club is well-known show rider, C. C. Carpenter, elected at the annual meeting Friday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Simpson, Blenkinsop Road.

Mr. Carpenter succeeds Mr. Simpson in the office and will have as his vice-president J. "Ved" Donaldson; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Jean Whitworth; auditor, Gerry Aitken, and committee members Mrs. Aitken, George McGee, Bob Owen and Ken Kent.

The club, which sponsors the annual Labor Day weekend two-day horse show at the Saanichton fall fair, as well as other smaller shows and social functions, decided to postpone the annual dinner scheduled this month. New date will be announced later.

4 Downtown Firms To Sue City

Four city firms located near the intersection of Vancouver and View will sue the city for damages caused in Dec. 9 flooding.

Council was advised of the action Friday by legal representatives for Reynolds Colgate Barbour Ltd., M. Griffin Ltd., Pacific Coast Insulation and Roofing Ltd., and metal works shop of Harry Selander.

The flood, ". . . was an act of God," protested Ald. E. D. McEwen.

LIKES COL. BLIMP TAG

'Old Guard' Bruce Still on the Loose

By TONY DICKASON

Sir Michael Bruce, Bart., is one of those people so English that if they were any more English they wouldn't be able to speak at all.

"Humph," he snorted in the Empress Hotel, when asked what he did for a living.

Sir Michael writes a column for a Vancouver paper. He succinctly sums up his job:

"Gossip."

LAUGH, LAUGH, LAUGH

What is your philosophy which has come about from your adventurous life?

"Laugh and the world laughs with you, snore and you sleep alone."

The bucolic gentleman was fooling, slightly. He's had a riot of experience, and work, in at least 25 of the world's countries.

As he sums it up, "I have had the luck of going places."

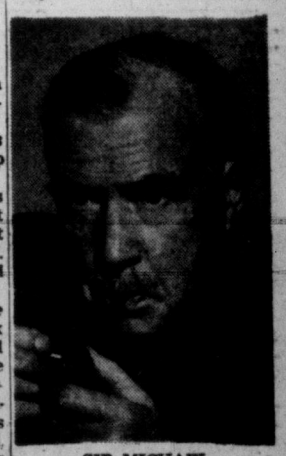
Sir Michael, brother of the late Nigel Bruce of Sherlock Holmes film fame, has been ill this area of the world three years. He's a controversial person because he's always hauling out some titled toff in his columns with whom he wined, or dined, or did pig-sticking years agone. This annoys younger West Coast columnists, who think he should write about up-to-date subjects.

Vancouver columnist Jack Scott took Sir Michael to task the other day, for being so "veddy, veddy" British.

The baronet has words for Mr. Scott; calls him "blatantly ignorant—blatantly vulgar."

Mr. Scott, in his phrasing of the Bruce character, drew some non-charming comparisons with Col. Blimps.

"I like to be a Colonel Blimp," said Sir Michael, tossing off a Scotch and water. "Where would England be in the last war if it wasn't for Colonel Blimps? They were in the home guard. They did so much for defence."



SIR MICHAEL

ASK The TIMES

Q—Was the City of Nelson named after the great British admiral?

A—No. The founding of the city dates from 1887. It first was named Salisbury after Lord Salisbury, then Stanley after Lord Stanley of Preston, Governor-General of Canada from June 11, 1888, to Sept. 18, 1893. It finally was named Nelson, in 1888, after the Hon. Hugh Nelson, Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia from 1887 to 1892.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

COMPARATIVE RELIGIONS

Tolerance Basic Tenet of Hinduism

The human soul does not begin with the conception of birth because it is a part of God which has always existed. It lives forever, passing from one human being to another, gathering new experiences.

This is the philosophy behind "Karma," or moral action of reincarnation as seen by Hinduism.

Giving the first of two lectures on Hinduism as part of the Victoria College night school course, comparative religions, Dr. D. P. Pandia of Vancouver, said:

"Certain things have no attraction for you, yet they attract others. It is because of the Karma in your past lives. Things which do not tempt you have been outlived in some former life, and you have profited by your own experiences.

"Similarly, personal characteristics have been brought over from past incarnations. You are what you are today by reason of what you were in your last life, and your future life is based upon your present life."

The Hindu believes in one God, the absolute, omnipotent. He conceives a universe without a beginning, without an end.

His religion is a tolerant one, which has shown a great capacity for absorbing new ideas and adapting to new conditions. Hindus believe all religions are equally valid.

"Life is a great school for the learning of moral lessons," said Dr. Pandia.

"We, through our own actions, get our reward or punishment. We are not punished for our sins, but by our sins," he stressed.

"Therefore, God does not judge us, we judge ourselves. For our sin is not an offence against Him, but against ourselves. Every man is master of his own destiny."

Dr. Pandia stressed there are two different levels of Hinduism: the popular and devotional which can be practiced and understood by all, and the philosophical and metaphysical, which is studied by those on higher educational planes.

At First Baptist Church, Rev. G. R. Easter will continue his series on St. John with "The Only Way to Save the World." His evening message is entitled "Keeping on Top of Things."

Theosophical Group To Hear J. Barnes

John P. Barnes of Hermes Lodge, Vancouver, will address a public meeting sponsored by Besant Lodge of the Theosophical Society, 904 Government Street, Sunday at 8 p.m. His subject will be "The Key to Occultism." YOU SAID TO ME-

By ETHEL TULL

A Sunday message of help and comfort for those puzzled, depressed or low in spirit.

You said to me, "How is everything with you now?"

The operation about which I told you is over and the verdict has gone against me from an earthly standpoint, but we feel the Heavenly one is different. So next week I hope to be home again and to continue my talks with you.

I do so long that our talks together shall be really true experience of how we can change by the power and guidance of the Spirit, until we become absolutely honest and pure, and unselfish and loving. That is how Jesus will change the whole world.

Will you let me have your questions? My address is 339 Niagara Street.

Thank you all for your prayers and cards and enquiries. You have been good friends to me—let me be a good friend to you.

Second Month of Year

The month of February brings reunions in family life as brothers and sisters travel from the eastern and prairie provinces to spend the last days of winter in a comparatively mild climate . . . There are the annual meetings, too, when women's groups plan new programs and name new officers for the busy days ahead. It's a month of change . . . of comings and goings . . . also, the month of promise, for the warmth of spring days is just over the horizon.

Arranged By
ELIZABETH FORBES
Women's Editor

For First Time in Years

A family of four, two men and two women, born in Merrickville, Ont., some years ago, are enjoying a reunion in Victoria at present. They are together for the first time in 50 years.

Mr. Dan Kyle, who still lives in Merrickville, is here to visit his sisters, Mrs. Ellen Connolly, who came from Edmonton for the reunion, and Mrs. Mary O'Connell, 4042 Glanford Avenue, Victoria, and a brother, Mr. Francis Kyle, 3440 Calumet Avenue.

Mrs. O'Connell was married in St. Andrew's Cathedral in Victoria in August 1912, and has lived here for 45 years. Father Michael O'Connell of St. Andrew's Cathedral, is her son. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kyle came to Victoria in 1917 and have lived here ever since.

The brothers and sisters are enjoying reminiscing of the days when they were children. They have many friends here and several gatherings have taken place or have been arranged during the visit of Mr. Kyle and Mrs. Connolly.

At final session of the 43rd annual meeting of Victoria Presbyterial, Women's Missionary Society, Presbyterian Church in Canada, held this week, Mrs. F. O. Jenkinson, second from right, was named the new president. Miss Mary Sherrick, BA, B.Ed, at left, a missionary from India, and Miss Ellen Douglas, right, hospital visitor in Vancouver and formerly of India, were guest speakers at the meeting. Mrs. Gaines Cameron, second from left, is the immediate past president. Mrs. Maurice Clifford, Vancouver, WMS synodical president, installed the officers.

Annual bride tea arranged by the Woman's Auxiliary to the Royal Jubilee Hospital will take place Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 20, in the Nurses' Home. Committee in charge of arrangements includes, from the left, Mrs. J. A. Wilson, tea convener; Mrs. W. E. Speed, auxiliary secretary; Mrs. J. H. Newton, bridge convener, and Mrs. F. J. Broughton, ticket sales. Proceeds will be used for work of the auxiliary in the hospital. Players will bring own cards. (Photo by Bill Halkett.)

Mrs. F. G. Matkin, centre, was elected president of the Victoria Presbyterial, Woman's Missionary Society of the United Church in Canada, at final session of 31st annual meeting of the group held Tuesday and Wednesday in Oak Bay United Church this week. Mrs. V. A. Beaumont, left, is first vice-president, and Mrs. E. R. Bewell, immediate past president. (Photo by Strickland.)

SHOPPING GUIDE

Juicing Oranges Is a Snap With This Novel Gadget

By PENNY SAVER

No more rending, squeezing, pushing handles and attaching gadgets to squeeze juice from lemons or oranges, 'cause there's a new way to do the job. I came across a little cylinder that you push into the orange. Squeeze the orange, and the juice flows through the cylinder and out a little spout on the end. It eliminates messy pulp and sticky hands. It's made of aluminum, easily washed and easy to store. The price of this newest kitchen helper is just 35 cents.

Some of those pots and pans that have given you long and good service in the kitchen may be in need of new knobs or handles for the lids. You can buy handy bakelite ones to fit your needs for just 30 cents each .

There were so many calls about the new meat pounders I mentioned last week that I thought you'd be interested in the all-wooden ones I also found in town. These, an old-fashioned and efficient type, cost 49 cents.

For St. Valentine's Day, here are voile hostess aprons, meant to protect and enhance Milady's prettiest hostess dress. Of course, they're red with white floral print trim. At a special price for the occasion, they are $1.

Another special price is on top-fashion purses of smooth plastic that looks like patent. Black, avocado, red, tan, brown, russet or navy are there in clutch and handle styles. I was really surprised to see the low price on them. For casual or dressy wear, these purses are yours at $1.59 each.

Did you know that besides being able to buy extra woolen ribbed cuffs for jackets and sweaters, you can buy wide ribbing for waistbands? It comes in yard lengths at 59 cents. Brown, maroon, tan, black, navy and green, the same colors as the cuffs, are available.

HERBS IN THE HOME

Some New Ideas for Those Everyday Luncheon Menus

By PATRICIA RAE

Though not a particularly good cook, I once won a prize for this colored luncheon using herbs and though you might like to get some ideas from it, next time you feel like preparing something just a little different.

This is intended as a "quickie" meal say just before a shopping-spree or when you want to make an easy do-it-yourself meal with herbal touches.

ORANGE AND GREEN

I choose these colors, as they are so easy for salads and selected two simple, slimming salad-type dishes—carrot fruit-salad and cottage-cheese tomatoes.

Grate the carrots in a fine grater; set in deep individual coupes, covering the top of the carrots with raisins and sultanas (previously soaked in fruit-juice). Decorate with dessicated coconut and three or four leaves of fresh lemon-balm, finely shredded. Add a little chopped Angelica (leaves and stalks) and one of the green and orange salads is complete!

Wash and cut the tomatoes in halves and set them on a large dish lined with young lettuce. Cover each tomato slice with cottage-cheese, mixed with cut chives, lovage and tarragon. Color the centres with a dot of paprika and stick a tiny sprig of winter-savory in the middle. (Later, if you can, get your lunch-companions to have a little nibble at the winter-savory leaves: such a help with baked potatoes, meat-roll, etc.).

The table decorations for these quickies, served with wholemeal scones and rye biscuits, followed by fresh fruit and coffee, were just plain garden marigolds in an old honey pot. If you have no flowers, a bowl of oranges prettily arranged, or a small pumpkin, polished and set in driftwood, make a good accompaniment.

Cottage-weave table mats suit this type of snack, or plain bamboo mats. Try floating a few flowers of borage on the tomato juice, it gives it a special flavor; also butter "curls" on a leaf or two of tansy, take on a special attraction and unusual flavor.

SCARLET AND WHITE

An alternative to the orange and green was red and white. For the table I chose rose hips and the silver-white transparent leaves of honesty (for these were winter lunches by the fire on a trolley, or at a sunny window on a tray). I used red lipstick-napkins for the table, on a plain white cloth. Fruit-juice had a cherry on a stick—currant jelly in tiny patty-pans set at each place—radish-roses and small glass dishes of beet, marinated in herb-vinegar and sprinkled with dill-seed.

The salad-dish for this was apple and potato, with the red apple-parings showing on the outside. The salad-bowl was first rubbed with orange-mint to give that subtle herb-flavor. Topping the salad, were chopped walnuts mixed with shreds of apple-mint. Celery, processed cheese and dates. Brown scones or wholewheat biscuits were accompaniments to this meal which was easily prepared half an hour beforehand, leaving you entirely free to enjoy your guests.

Get in the Swim With a New High-Neckline Bathing Suit

By NONA DAMASKE

Right now it seems a far cry to the hot days of summer but after seeing Jantzens 1957 collection modelled at the Crystal Garden the swimming season seems much closer.

Fashion-wise the newest trend is toward swimsuits with a more covered-up look at the shoulders and neckline.

The "Zambezi Sheath" included in the international collection is a striking example of this trend. Made of colorful imported Nigerian cotton print, exclusive with Jantzen . . . inspired by a primitive South African design, this suit has a high straight neckline in front and plunges almost to the waist in the back. Included in the Zambezi group is a swimsuit and shorts combination and a beautiful sarong type skirt.

Nona

A surprise package is the "Ancon Bikini" in Jantzen's own Marvelure fabric. The one I saw modelled was in navy blue with an intirguing silvery lustre. The surprise comes when the model peels off the tube-like sheath to reveal a two-piece Bikini with the briefest of tops and shorts. A wonderful three-piece ensemble which complete will give you comfort on any beach and when worn as a Bikini in more secluded places allows you the full benefit of good old Sol.

Somewhat impractical but a beautiful window or fashion show item is "Diamond Mine" . . . a sooty black elasticized bridal satin sheath lavishly studded with clusters of sparkling rhinestones. This formal swimsuit will cost you $30 but if you long too loll glamourously at the poolside this is your answer.

Also at the top rung of the price ladder is "Clover Girl" a suit with delicate white clover embroidery on black latex faille. Wide shoulder straps and a high-cut neckline indicate the covered-up look. This suit has no skirt and is made with the look of shorts.

Tartans, always popular in Victoria, also enter the water . . . Stewart Prince Edward tartan in a finely woven English gingham which is Sanforized is shown in a suit with a shirred bustline. A full wrap-around skirt of the same tartan is put on by our model and then we see a very fetching sun dress.

"Gay Nineties" is not only gay but something quite different. Made in velvety Velvalure this bold horizontally striped black and white suit has shoestring black ribbons which can draw up the side legs into a shirring.

These suits and many more will be in our shops next month so, if you want to spend an hour pretending that summer has arrived go to your favorite store and try on a swimsuit or two.

First thing you know you will be in the mood for a dip so, round up the family and visit our lovely Crystal Pool.

"Monaco Stripes". . . the covered-up look is the new feature of this turtle-neck top. Short trunks and bare midriff allow Beverly plenty of scope for becoming sun tan. Designed by Jantzen of lastex and cotton this two-piece suit is completely lined.

"Mayflower". . . from the Jantzen international collection is the daintiest of all swim suits . . . white eyelet embroidered organdy sashed in pale blue satin. Modelled by Beverly Reid, "Miss Jantzen," this is truly a swim suit for those who appreciate the soft, feminine look.

"Gay Holiday". . . striking stripes in lastex sharkskin . . . designed by Jantzen of Canada for the active swimmer who needs a durable suit that is also flattering and smart. This slender sheath has wide adjustable straps and a full back zipper.

MANY RUSSIAN WOMEN ENTER SCIENCE FIELD

TRAIL, B.C. (CP) — Dr. George M. Volkoff of the University of British Columbia said here Thursday night that 70 per cent of the doctors behind the iron curtain are women.

Addressing honor students from the J. Lloyd Crowe and Rossland High Schools, Dr. Volkoff said there is no reason to believe women cannot enter scientific studies but there is a reluctance in Canada for women to become scientists.

Russian scientists at an international meeting in Geneva last year said the high percentage of women doctors in Russia was caused by the shortage of manpower during the Second World War, Dr. Volkoff said. He said enrolment at the University of Moscow is 90 per cent women. Of physics students at UBC, only 25 per cent were women.

Don't Overlook Simple Health, Beauty Routines

Many of the best rewards in life, maybe most of them, are the result of the ability to invest wholeheartedly in seemingly unimportant daily routine.

The job you have may not seem very exciting and the little things you do for a daily beauty routine may not seem so either. However, and it is a big however, we cannot even calculate the dividends of enthusiastic self-investment in any category!

I would like to bat this idea about further and will do so in some future column, but today I want to remind you of some of the simple health (and therefore beauty) routines, which the medical profession has known about for years but which we, in our wish for something dramatic to cure our physical ills and our heartaches, have not taken seriously.

Here, then, are some simple health routines which are being highlighted by more and more medical research!

1. Take advantage of all that is known now about nutrition. This is at least one of the most important steps on the ladder to happiness and success and a vibrant long life.

2. Exercise unless there is some reason for not doing so. Ask your doctor about this. There is great and exciting and accumulative data which seems to indicate that we are dying of poor nutrition, lack of physical exercise and boredom.

These are the three big culprits! Avoid them as you would a plague! It seems that we are dying of "rocking chairitis, overweight from the fat of the land, and boredom—in an era which provides the most information about nutrition, and exercise, offers the most in adult education, and is probably the most challenging and exciting era anyone ever lived in.

Of course you need an adequate amount of sleep, but if you eat correctly and exercise and are on fire with interests, I think you will sleep very well.

Help Youngsters Make Valentines With Doilies, Books, Wallpaper

"Roses are red, violets are blue,
Honey is sweet and so are you."

Everyone knows this old rhyme and there are few better ones to print or write on a Valentine. But how about trying to make up an original short rhyme or poem? Mother, or grandmother would get a big thrill out of a verse a child wrote all himself, even if it were "doggerel."

Making Valentines is great fun and everyone likes to receive pretty cards from their friends. Suggest to your children that the members of one's own family, even if some of them are "grown-up," enjoy getting Valentines too! Why not make a Valentine place card for each person in the home and put them on the table at suppertime on Feb. 14?

Nancy

If there are young brothers or sisters in your home, do let them share in Valentine making! They may be too small to cut out a well-shaped heart from red cardboard. But they can find scissors and paste and look for pretty colored pictures in magazines or catalogs.

An old sample wall paper book is another wonderful place to search for attractive Valentine decorations. If you ask the merchant who has sold wallpaper or paint to you to keep an out-of-date sample book, he will likely be glad to oblige you. With a little direction from you, a younger child can put paste on the back of a cutout picture and choose where it is to be placed on the heart.

The children might decorate ordinary paper serviettes with some red hearts which they drew and colored with their crayons or cut out from red paper and pasted on them. Mother might have a good idea about a pretty table centrepiece, possibly using a little man and woman salt and pepper shakers as the two central figures. One family made a charming decoration for the table out of plasticene figures using four contrasting colors. Likely mother will plan the first course, but perhaps either she or big sister could make heart-shaped cookies. Red gelatine jelly is an attractive dessert. A schoolage child can make it himself because the directions are so easy to follow.

This fourteenth of February, half way through the long winter months, can be a very jolly time for everyone, if each member in the home co-operates in making Valentine greetings and in the preparations for a Valentine home party! These "special occasions" in family life provide a feeling of belonging. They are also very nice to remember when little folk are grown and away from home!

FIRED CLERK REPLIES TO BENNETT

'ISSUE BIGGER THAN JOB'

No 'Hidden Reason' Behind Dismissal Monteith Claims

W. Berkeley Monteith, "fired" law clerk of the legislature, today denied there was any "hidden reason" behind his dismissal other than those he revealed to the Times Friday.

He refused a challenge from Premier Bennett that he would reveal a "very definite reason" for the firing if Mr. Monteith asked him to do so.

Friday Mr. Monteith said reasons for his dismissal were refusal to contribute to a Social Credit candidates' campaign funds, and a clash with Premier Bennett on a procedural issue.

"I am not concerned with a petty personal grievance," he said today. "I don't give a damn about the job; I couldn't care less.

"The major charge I make is that Premier Bennett has tampered with the constitution of this province and the prerogatives of parliament.

"His 'challenge' is nothing but a red herring across the trail of the real issue.

"The issue is bigger than the job," he emphasized.

"When he talks about a 'very definite reason' for firing me, I don't know and don't care what he means. I know there was no such reason."

He said he had no intention of asking the premier for the reason for his dismissal.

Alan Bigelow, city lawyer named by Mr. Monteith Friday as the person who solicited campaign funds, said in a prepared statement:

"Certainly, I laughingly suggested to Berkeley in the course of the last campaign that he might support our Oak Bay campaign.

"He declined, saying that he was an officer of the legislature, which to me was a perfectly proper reason, though he needed to give none, and I had forgotten about the whole incident until the matter was raised by him."

'I Can't Give Reason'—Mr. Speaker

Thomas Irwin, speaker of the legislature, told The Times today: "Obviously I can't give the reason for Mr. Monteith's dismissal when the premier himself has withheld it, until and unless he is asked by Mr. Monteith to make a public statement."

Friday Premier Bennett answered Mr. Monteith's charges, published in The Times, by challenging him to "ask for" the real reason for his dismissal.

He said Mr. Monteith has been dismissed for a "very definite reason."

"If Mr. Monteith wishes me to make known the reason, he should advise me." He suggested a letter.

"Mr. Monteith was certainly not released from his position because of a refusal to give campaign funds," the premier told reporters.

"I say most emphatically that was not the reason," Mr. Bennett added.

Mr. Monteith was replaced by city lawyer Ian Thorne as legislature law clerk at the opening of the session Thursday.

Mr. Monteith disputed the cabinet order firing him last month and attended the opening in the robes of his office, sitting in a back row beside Mr. Thorne.

He stalked out of the chamber after a resolution ratifying his dismissal was passed by the legislature.

Opposition members voted against the resolution but there was no discussion as there had been on a previous resolution dealing with appointment of a new sergeant-at-arms.

Premier Bennett insisted that "personalities" were not involved in Mr. Monteith's dismissal.

He denied that he was ever in a dispute with the law clerk over constitutional procedure.

Mr. Monteith claimed the disagreement occured at the special fall session of the legislature in 1953 over the government's handling of estimates.

Premier Bennett emphasized that the "reason" for Mr. Monteith's dismissal was "greater than a cause."

The next step in the dispute is up to Mr. Monteith, the premier said.

100,000 Israelis Vow To Keep Egypt Out

UN Policy Termed 'Strangulation' By Largest Crowd in Tel Aviv History

TEL AVIV, Israel (Reuters) — The largest crowd ever assembled in Tel Aviv vowed today never to let Egyptian guns return to the Gulf of Aqaba or allow Egyptian "invaders" to again occupy the Gaza Strip.

An estimated 100,000 Israelis, led by cabinet ministers, approved a resolution supporting their government.

Every mention of United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold's name was booed. Orators demanded his immediate resignation. They blamed the UN for a "strangulation policy."

The resolution protested against "attempts made in the UN to strike a blow at Israel's security."

It added: "We declare our opposition to any attempt to bring back to the Gaza Strip the Egyptian invaders . . . for the purpose of sowing death and destruction in our peaceful villages.

"We declare our unremitting opposition to any attempt to bring back to the Gulf of Aqaba Egyptian guns which were used to block free navigation.

"We demand demilitarization of the Sinai peninsula and the opening of the Suez Canal to Israel shipping."

WON'T WEAKEN

The meeting vowed "no political or economic pressure, no threat of sanctions, will break our spirit or weaken our determination."

The crowd was backing up Israel's announcement Friday that it will not withdraw further from Egyptian territory without guarantees.

Similar demonstrations were held in the Israeli sector of Jerusalem, Haifa and other Israeli towns.

SANCTIONS ASKED

At UN headquarters in New York, the Afro-Asian bloc was reported preparing a resolution calling for sanctions against Israel because of her refusal to withdraw from Egyptian soil.

Brig.-Gen. Yigal Alon, a leader of the leftist Achduth Haavoda party, drew the wildest cheers when he declared:

LONDON (Reuters)—League leading Manchester United today launched a savage second half attack to score a 6-2 victory over Arsenal, the hottest team in the English soccer league.

Manchester overcame an early lead to whip the London club. Arsenal had lost only one of its last 14 games to shoot from nowhere to third in the league standings.

By winning Manchester moved a step closer to accomplishing a unique triple — victories in the league championship and the English and European cup championships.

Tottenham Hotspurs stayed within four points of Manchester by beating Sunderland 5-2. The Spurs have yet to lose at home this year.

Mounting Discord in Commons Could Force Election in May

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Corespondent

OTTAWA — Possibility of a May general election was being mentioned in the corridors on Parliament Hill at the close of this week, a week that has seen disorder and discord mount in the Commons.

The date that some members are circling on their calendars is May 27, a Monday.

If the temper of the House continues to deteriorate — and Mr. Speaker Rene Beaudoin has difficulty in maintaining some dignity within the chamber — Prime Minister St. Laurent may decide not to wait until June for the general election.

NERVES FRAY

The election-conscious Commons this week witnessed displays of bad temper, frayed nerves and the use of expressions which in other sessions would have resulted in Mr. Speaker expelling one or more members.

Even though the prime minister protested some Opposition remarks, Mr. Speaker has declined to single out any member or party as being in the wrong.

The debate Friday on the bill to extend the wheat board for another five years until July 31, 1962, aroused much wrangling, particularly between the CCF and Social Credit members.

Here are some samples of the exchanges:

Solon Low, Social Credit leader (after an interjection by the CCF): "When you begin to tie a tin can to these brain-jackasses' tails, they can make a lot of noise."

Henry Hosking, Liberal, Wellington South, objecting to the long speeches critical of certain wheat board operations emanating from the CCF benches, took exception to the "complaining, snivelling and whining by the Socialist members."

Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe, denying he was nervous during the wheat board debate, said he was "not nervous, just bored."

"Parliament always bores the minister," retorted Stanley Knowles (CCF-Winnipeg North Centre).

Mr. Howe (objecting to statements made by Claude Ellis (CCF-Regina City): "I do not mind a loud voice covering an empty mind, but I think there should be some respect for the debate we are having."

DIEFENBAKER REVEALS TORY POLICY MONDAY

By VICTOR J. MACKIE

OTTAWA — The Progressive Conservative party is expected to unveil in the Commons Monday the first of its major planks in its platform for the coming general election, when Opposition leader John Diefenbaker will open the debate on a motion to "go into supply."

During a normal session 12 days are given over to this debate. This permits the airing of major grievances, and the Conservatives will have the first opportunity.

Reports circulating on Parliament Hill today were that Mr. Diefenbaker would take the opportunity to outline one of the main lines of attack that his party will launch against the administration during the coming election campaign.

Eisenhower Plan 'Step Toward War' —Marshal Zhukov

Zhukov's remarks were made at a cocktail party he gave for Prime Minister Nehru and other Indian officials.

'BAN DRUNK DRIVERS'

$33 For a Life Too Cheap—MLA

In a plea for tougher penalties for traffic violators, a legislature member said Friday a B.C. magistrate had recently set the price of human life on our highways at "approximately $33."

Mrs. Buda Brown, new Social Credit member for Vancouver-Point Grey, cited an accident in which a drunken driver killed a father and his two children and left the young mother injured.

The driver was given a suspended jail sentence and fined $100.

Mrs. Brown urged that drunk drivers be banned from the road.

"It is better to hurt traffic law breakers than to allow them to hurt innocent people," she said.

"Much stiffer fines should be imposed to stop the reckless driver who is often as much a menace to society as the criminal."

There is "very little difference between the drinking driver and the drunk driver," Mrs. Brown said.

Mrs. Brown, considered the leading candidate for the new cabinet post of recreation and conservation, also called in her maiden speech for increased development of parks in B.C.

Mrs. Brown said she was not recommending extravagant or elaborate facilities in parks but asked:

"May we have more access roads, trails, picnic facilities, and in the larger parks more lodges and cabins."

"There is not much point in building a prosperous and populous province if we do not make outdoor recreational facilities available for all our people," she said.

The new government member for Vancouver-Point Grey, wife of former MLA Don Brown, was chosen to second the reply to the speech from the throne.

Women MLAs Get Big Welcome

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Two new women members who have changed places with their husbands in the Legislature were feted with flowers, smiles and vigorous desk-thumping when the House got down to business Friday after the pageantry of Thursday's opening ceremonies.

Mrs. Buda Brown, Social Credit member for Vancouver Point Grey, used to watch proceedings from the public galleries while her husband, Conservative Don Brown, sat as MLA in the Coalition government.

Cribbens

Mrs. Lois Haggen, quiet-spoken CCF member from Grand Forks-Greenwood, also watched from above when her husband, Rupert Haggen, represented this same constituency for the CCF.

Mr. Haggen, first elected to the Legislature in 1949, did not seek the nomination in the election last September because of ill health. He suffered a stroke and has been confined to a wheelchair the last few years.

The House was one big smile as the two women took their places at desks piled high with roses, tulips and daffodils. CCF leader Robert Strachan bowed and smiled to Mrs. Haggen; and Premier Bennett had a nod and a grin for Mrs. Brown, who sits next to Agriculture Minister Ralph Chetwynd and the rest of the cabinet.

Two-Minute Ovation for Mrs. Brown

The spotlight at this second sitting of the House centred mainly on Mrs. Brown since she was making her maiden speech in seconding a motion in support of the Throne Speech. Government members leaned forward in their chairs, the Opposition registered polite interest and the chamber thundered with desk-thumpings for nearly two whole minutes.

Distinctly feminine with dark blue dress and pearl necklace offsetting her fair waving hair, Mrs. Brown spoke without any evident nervousness in a clear, rather high-pitched voice, and made her points succinctly in a speech which had obviously been carefully prepared.

However, she is no newcomer to public life and has a natural poise acquired during many years on parks boards in Vancouver and other municipal bodies. Her enthusiasm for British Columbia's natural beauties was revealed in her repeated endorsation of the government's new ministry of conservation and recreaton, and she is an equally vehement advocate of youth welfare programs to combat juvenile delinquency.

It was noted that Mrs. Brown is considered a likely candidate for the new cabinet position of minister of recreation and conservation, as is tall, bespectacled Dan Campbell, who was making his debut as a legislative speaker. Mr. Campbell carried the Socred banner to victory for Comox in the last election. A Courtenay school teacher, he has a quiet conversational mode of speech and knows how to turn a graceful phrase.

Urging support of the government's conservation and recreation program, he quoted Wordworth's lovely lines: "I wandered lonely as a cloud, that floats on high o'ver vales and hills," and adroitly applied them to man's quest for peace in natural surroundings.

He expressed enthusiasm for development of the north end of Vancouver Island, called for long-term low-interest loans to municipalities, attacked the federal government's "tight money" policies and made the somewhat alarming statement that these policies might ultimately lead to the death of freedom and the emergence of "Big Brother."

Just who Mr. Campbell had in mind for the role of "Big Brother" he did not say, but he was obviously referring to the despotic dictator created by George Orwell in his frightening novel of the future, "Nineteen Eighty-Four."

TB Pavilion Here To Close in March

About 15 TB patients will be transferred to mainland sanitariums when the TB Pavilion at Royal Jubilee Hospital closes at the end of March.

The pavilion is no longer needed, Dr. R. M. Lane, director of the Vancouver Island Chest Centre, said Friday night.

Facilities of the 43-bed unit, rented by the provincial government since 1935, will be turned over to the Royal Jubilee Hospital, and personnel, mainly on Jubilee Hospital staff, will take over other duties.

Of 22 tuberculosis patients at the centre, about seven will be returned to their homes and the others will be sent to Vancouver or the sanitarium at Tranquille, near Kamloops, Dr. Lane said.

Decline in incidence of the disease and a definite decrease in the length of hospital treatment per patient in B.C. are responsible for the number of beds available at the two sanitariums, he said.

LESS NEED

Although out-patient and clinic work will continue here, Dr. Lane predicted the need would be "less and less" as time goes on.

"In another 10 years there won't be much to do here," he said.

Space made available by the pavilion closure will not ease overcrowding appreciably in the opinion of F. G. Mulliner, chairman of the hospital board.

"We should start now on the new extension," he said. "How we finance it should be secondary. The needs of the community which is growing by 5,000 a year should come first."

More Negotiating On Alberni Zoo

City council Friday authorized Ald. Geoffrey I. Edgelow to continue negotiations for establishment here of the Port Alberni zoo owned by Paul Hertel.

Ald. Edgelow showed council pictures of himself in a cage with African lions at the zoo, and of a cougar posed in the front seat of his car while he sat in the rear seat.

Mr. Hertel would require about $10,000 to move his zoo here and would put up security for a city loan.

If he came here he would locate in Thetis Lake Park, provided the city granted permission and either a loan was available from the city or a local zoological society could be formed to handle financing.

Bingo 'Take' $429,387 For 3 Years

By The Canadian Press

VANCOUVER — Roy Bell, chartered accountant, testified in police court today a Vancouver club's gross take from its bingo tables during a three-year period was $429,387.

Bell was giving evidence of his examination of the books of the Arcade Whist Club. The club and five of its officers and employees are charged with keeping a gaming house.

The accountant said the club's books showed that between June 1, 1953, and June 20, 1956, prizes recorded were $317,446, leaving $111,940 profit.

Charges have been brought against the club, George W. and Elizabeth Cranham, William Jacobs, George Mellish and Carl Rosen.

Bell also said the records showed that between Jan. 1, 1951, and last June 30, Cranham's income from the company was $87,800 and his wife's $30,400.

U.S. Urges Nasser Lessen Demands

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The United States is trying to learn whether Egypt's President Nasser would agree to make a conciliatory policy statement which might help to get Israeli troops out of his country.

Informed sources said Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. and other members of the American UN delegation have been sounding out Egyptian diplomats. A U.S. source acknowledged that Lodge has been in touch with the Egyptians in the last few days, but declined to disclose details.

These moves were reported as Arab delegates urged punitive measures against Israel because of her refusal to withdraw from the Sharm El Sheikh area of Egypt and the Gaza Strip.

Many western delegates believe a mild-toned, solution-seeking statement by Nasser might persuade Israel to ease her stand against withdrawal. The U.S. is reported to have suggested to Egypt's delegation that such a move by Nasser would increase his stature and enhance Egypt's prestige in the West.

DEMAND ASSURANCE

Egypt's refusal to make any commitment or even suggest her future intentions regarding the Israelis has been one of Israel's main arguing points. In refusing to withdraw from Egypt or the Gaza Strip the Israelis have stood firm on one demand — assurance of non-belligerence from Egypt.

Walter Eytan, director general of Israel's foreign ministry, again told reporters in Tel Aviv that Israel will not quit Sharm El Sheikh at the mouth of the Gulf of Aqaba until she is guaranteed that Egypt will not impair Israeli shipping interests.

Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban Friday gave President Eisenhower Israel's reasons for not pulling out of Egypt and Gaza. Informants said it was a prelude to delivery of a reply from Premier David Ben-Gurion to Eisenhower's appeal that Israel comply with repeated UN withdrawal requests.

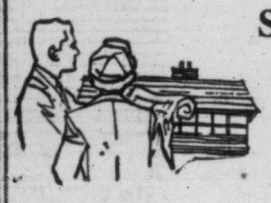
The Canada Permanent Story in 1956...
COMBINED ASSETS $288,164,545



Serving more people than ever before

C. S. Robertson, President and General Manager, in presenting the 102nd Annual Report, stated in part:

In 1956 our net profits, after taxes, reached an all time high of $1,873,146 and total assets rose above $150,000,000 for the first time. Our mortgage investments are relatively liquid in character, as evidenced by the fact that during 1956 principal repayments amounted to $20,317,532. The net increase of $16,471,636 in the total of our investments in mortgages by the end of the year was achieved as the result of the making of new loans for an aggregate of more than $36,750,000. The people of Canada need loans on single family dwellings most of all, and such loans are the mainstay of our business.

It is interesting to look back a few years and to note that we are now investing three times as much in mortgages as we did in 1946. At that time the average new loan was about $6,000. Exemplifying the conservative nature of our mortgage investments, which is due partly to caution in valuations and partly to the sound practice of requiring regular principal repayments, is the interesting fact that the average loan on our books is only $5,165.

Debentures and Savings Deposits showed an increase of over $2,500,000. It appears that more people are discovering that the Canada Permanent is a sensible place in which to save.

There are two pressing problems in our economy today. One is debt and the other is inflation. A certain amount of debt enables an individual to obtain a house and household goods before he has accumulated sufficient savings to pay for them. An undue amount of debt burdens the individual with payments of such size that he is lucky indeed ever to escape from their burden. During the past year and a half an attempt has been made by those in control of our monetary policy to restrict the growth of debt on the theory that too many individuals were getting too deeply involved for the public good.

It seems to me that two of the soundest methods of controlling inflation are encouragement of savings and encouragement of home ownership. But it is not enough for a few people to exercise thrift: the Government should give encouragement by precept as well as leadership by example, for one of the most important factors in the battle against inflation is psychology. If everbody expects prices to go up, nothing can stop them. On the other hand, if we are conscious of the need of saving for what we buy, there will be a relaxation of the pressure on prices, which will tend to slow down the rate of inflation.

As individuals, therefore, we can all contribute to the necessary stabilizing of our economy by postponing purchases and by encouraging savings.

CANADA PERMANENT
MORTGAGE CORPORATION

Growth shows value of Trust Services

Hon. T. D'Arcy Leonard, Q.C., President, in presenting the 44th Annual Report, stated in part:

The Directors' Report and Financial Statement reflect the most successful year in the Company's history. The ever-widening ambit of our business shows that we are performing a useful, efficient service to a constantly enlarging section of the public.

Canada's continuing expansion throughout 1956 has resulted in new records in national production, foreign trade, employment and other indices of economic activity. The capital investment programme in 1956 contributed substantially to the demand for goods and services, and to the pressure upon the amount of money available for investment. In the result, we have seen a marked rise in interest rates, tending to reduce inflation pressures, and to extend our capital investment programme over a longer period at a more even pace. They are welcome, also, to the beneficiaries of income from trusts and estates who have had a prolonged spell of low interest rates, combined with higher costs of living.

One of the factors that can contribute greatly to our future expansion is immigration. The increase in our national production visualized by the Gordon Report is predicated upon a net immigration varying between a minimum of 50,000 and a maximum of 100,000 persons per annum. I would hope that even the maximum figure would be exceeded. The future that I see for Canada offers advantages to all those willing to come here and contribute their energies and talents to our development.

W. Leo Knowlton, Q.C., General Manager, stated in part:

Assets under administration by the Company for estates, trusts and agencies now total $134,400,000, a net growth of $13,400,000, the largest in any year in the Company's history.

These figures speak well for the efficiency and quality of the work performed by the Company. To deal with estate and trust assets effectively requires experience, training and sound business judgment. Yet, over and above these essentials, we take just as much pride in the reputation we have gained for friendly, personal service. We have always felt that a trust company's relationship with beneficiaries demands a warmth and intimate understanding of individual problems.

It is expected that the Government of Canada will be introducing a new Succession Duty Act. It is to be hoped that consideration will be given to raising the basic value of estates exempt from duty from the present $50,000. The purchasing value of the dollar has decreased since this exemption was first introduced and recognition should be given to this fact.
